NOT LORD MONTAGU WITH LADY CROFTON

The English Politician and Editor Tells How Friends Put Him in Another Montagu's Shoes.

NEIGHBORS AND MOTORISTS

Both Use Green Cars, and the Green Car of the Elopement Left a Trail as Far as Algeria Before the Couple Came to New York.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—A most remarkable case of mistaken identity came to light to-day in connection with an elopement, some principal scenes in which have been laid in New York, whence the chief actors in the drama sailed yesterday on the Kronprinz Wilhelm.

London society a couple of months ago heard with shrugs and whisperings that the young and extremely pretty wife of a well-known Baronet had run away with another man, whose name was prominently before the public alike as politician, motorist, aeroplanist, and newspaper proprietor. Another case for the divorce court, said the gossips, and the matter was dismissed as presenting no features of extraordinary moment.

This, however, was far from being the case. There was one man who actually was not concerned in the affair, yet who began to have his supposed connection with it brought up against him at every turn. This man was Lord Montagu of Beaulieu, M. P. for New Forest, Deputy Lieutenant of Hampshire, founder and editor of The Car, and one of the pioneers of automobilism and aeroplaning in England. Life became a burden to this second Baron of his line. Friends stared in surprise when they met him. He received letters which sometimes abused him in unmeasured terms, sometimes offered him sarcastic congratulations, and always contained unpleasant references to a lady whom it was suggested he would eventually lead to the altar after devious progress through the divorce court.

Lord Montagu of Beaulieu knew the lady in question, but he also knew how equally baseless were both congratulations and denunciations. The latest developments in the affair occurred, as the readers of THE NEW YORK TIMES already know, in New York, where the eloping couple have been staying at the Hotel Gotham.

In New York also the name of the second Baron Montagu figured in the accounts which described the beautiful young English woman who was staying at the Gotham and the aristocratic Englishman who was also staying there and was frequently seen with her. The Englishman was in fact actually registered under the name of Montagu.

Lord Montagu Not the Man.

"I am glad to have the opportunity to deny that it is I who ran away with Lady Crofton, the wife of Sir Morgan George Crofton," said Lord Montagu of Beaulieu to-day to the correspondent of THE NEW YORK TIMES. Lord Montagu was in the editorial office of The Car when he was told of the report linking his name with that of the lady in question.

"You have got the wrong man," he went on. The real individual is another Montagu. For some time past I have been considerably annoyed by the questions of my friends concerning the matter, and I must confess that the circumstances looked rather against me. In fact, the whole business shows how the best of circumstantial evidence is always dangerous.

"It is quite a remarkable story, as you shall hear. The first I heard of it was on my return from Paris after attending the international meeting of auto clubs there a week or two ago. On my first visit to the House of Lords one of my friends came up to me saying rather reproachfully, 'My dear old Montagu—so glad to see you back again. But what about the lady?' I didn't understand, and looked blank, so he went on. 'Oh, we all know about it. Seymour Fortescue, one of the King's Equerries, saw you at the station in Paris with a lady.'

"After that," Lord Montagu continued, "I heard a story from other quarters to the effect that I had run off with Crofton's wife. On inquiry I found it was this other Montagu, who was the man. This is where the chain of circumstances began. In the first place, it was known I was a friend of the Croftons. In the second place he is a neighbor of mine. Then this Montagu is an ardent motorist; so am I. His chief car is painted green; so is mine."

The Trail of the Green Car.

Lord Montagu mentioned the color of the machine because it seems that Mr. Montagu took his green car with him when he went away, and tales of Mr. Montagu, the lady, and the green car were heard all along the line which Mr. Montagu took on the elopement trip. In fact, Lord Montagu said he had received a postcard from Mrs. C. N. Williamson, the authoress, who was traveling in Algeria with her husband, chiding him for not looking them up while he was in Algeria, and saying she had heard all about his experience with the car in that country. It appears that before going to America Mr. Montagu and Lady Crofton made an automobile trip through Algeria.

Taking up the chain of circumstances,

Lord Montagu said another coincidence was that Mrs. Montagu had a baby born just before her husband left her, and about the same time Lady Montagu gave birth to a child. The incident of Capt. Seymour Fortescue seeing him at the Paris station with a lady Lord Montagu explained by saying that he was actually there—seeing his daughter off, this daughter being 22 years old, and thus about the same age as Lady Crofton.

Lord Montagu said that he knew Lady Crofton well. She was Miss Margaret Irby, daughter of the late Col. Howard Irby of the Indian Army. He described her as being very handsome, and said he was particularly sorry to hear of the trouble.

Lady Crofton also is the mother of a child, born a few months ago. She was married about four years since to Sir Morgan George Crofton, who is a Captain in the Second Life Guards, saw service in South Africa, and was wounded at Spion Kop. Lord Montagu at the conclusion of the interview asked me to deny as strongly as possible that he was in any way connected with the incident. One point of dissimilarity between himself and Mr. Montagu, he said, was that of age, the latter being much younger.

Lord Montagu is the editor of a London publication, The Car, an automobile periodical. In the issue of Sept. 29 appears an article upon Lynford Hall, Norfolk, the country estate of F. J. O. Montagu.

The article covers four pages, and is profusely illustrated. It shows a picture of Lynford Hall taken from the terrace, a group of automobiles in the courtyard, the lawns, and a picture of Mrs. Montagu seated in a high-powered machine. Standing on the steps beside the automobile is the picture of a man. There is also a picture of F. J. O. Montagu in his machine.

These pictures were shown to the clerk at the Hotel Plaza last night. He stated that the picture of F. J. O. Montagu was beyond doubt the picture of the Montagu who came to the Plaza with Sir Morgan George Crofton a few days ago. He also stated that it was understood that the Montagu who stopped at the Plaza was either the father or the brother of the Montagu with Lady Crofton at the Hotel Gotham. It was the joint efforts of F. J. O. Montagu and Sir Morgan George Crofton that induced Lady Crofton and the other Montagu to return to England with them on the Kronprinz Wilhelm, which sailed on Tuesday morning.

EXILED COUNT IS DEAD.

Man Suspected of Killing Austrian Crown Prince Dies in Denver.

DENVER, Nov. 3.—Count Louis von Vetsera of Austria died in Denver last Saturday, according to the Austrian Consul, George von Grivicic, who to-day called on Mayor Speer and asked his assistance in finding the body of the supposed nobleman.

Under what name he lived and died in Denver is as much a mystery as were the deaths of Crown Prince Rudolph of Austria and Countess Marie Vetsera. Louis von Vetsera, brother of the Countess, was one of those suspected of the murder.

Although Louis von Vetsera had been absent from Austria since a few years after the death of the Crown Prince and the Countess Vetsera, it is said that the Austrian Government kept track of him. A cable from the Austrian Foreign Office, a telegram from the Austrian Ambassador at Washington, and notification from the Austro-Hungarian Consul at San Francisco conveyed the report of the Count's death to the Austrian Consulate in Denver, and gave instructions that the body be found and identified.

The Crown Prince and the Countess were slain at his hunting lodge at Meyerling, near Baden, where they had met to say farewell, the Emperor having declined to permit their marriage. The bodies were found by the Crown Prince's hunting party after the slayer had escaped.

PINDER WEDS AN ACTRESS.

English Promoter Takes Marie Mayo Home as His Bride.

There was much excitement among theatrical folk yesterday when they learned that Beauchamp Pinder, for a time of Broadway but now on the way to his home in London, had wed Miss Marie Mayo. In the Dazian Apartment in West Forty-fourth Street Miss Gertrude Barrett, who plays a part in a Broadway production, is cherishing a diamond ring of many carats which gossip declares is all that remains to remind her of a very brief engagement to Mr. Pinder. Far out beyond the light of Fire Island her roommate, Miss Marie Mayo, is receiving wireless congratulations on her marriage to Mr. Pinder.

Mr. Pinder is a mining man, who, according to the story which heralded his coming, was with us in the interest of English investors who had money to put into American securities. In some way word went out that Mr. Pinder was not only a man with money, but was also on the lookout for an American wife. This was discussed behind many a stage door. The real story begins at a dinner given by "Diamond Jim" Brady at Rector's a week ago. Mr. Pinder was a guest; so was Miss Barrett.

The English mining man called upon Miss Barrett at the Dazian, and there he met Miss Mayo. Then his engagement to Miss Barrett was announced.

The next thing to startle the theatre folk was word that Mr. Pinder and Miss Mayo had been married without inviting Miss Barrett to the wedding.

HAITIAN REBELS WIN.

Government Troops Lose Five Killed and Eleven Wounded Near Guayabin.

CAPE HAITIEN, Nov. 3.—Dispatches reaching here state that Government troops had an encounter with the insurgents near Guayabin recently, in which they lost five killed and eleven wounded. The Government forces were dispersed, the insurgents remaining masters of the situation. They re-entered Guayabin, which was one of the towns they seized a few weeks ago.

All the frontier is in arms, but it is difficult to get news through, as a strict censorship is being observed.

More Armenian Massacres.

CONFESSES TO BRIDE HE'S NOT A MARQUIS

Former Miss Durlacher, Wedded Here on Monday, Learns Husband Has No Right to Titles.

HE HAS LEFT THE COUNTRY

But Wife Says She Will Rejoin Self-Styled De Fauconcourt for the Interrupted Honeymoon.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 3.—In reply to a telegraphic inquiry concerning the so-called Marquis de Fauconcourt, whose marriage to Miss Adah Durlacher of New York is reported from that city, I have received the following dispatch from Commandant the Vicomte d'Ollone, now at his family seat near Saint Die in the Vosges:

"The person in question is an impostor. There exists no Marquis de Fauconcourt. Nor is there any Comte d'Ollone except my brother, who is now in Angers with his wife."

Following upon this telegram the Vicomte d'Ollone has written me further as follows:

"There exists no other family of our name. Ours comprises the Comte d'Ollone, my elder brother, married to Mlle. de Terves and residing at the present time at his Chateau de Maurepart, near Angers; myself, and my younger brother, Max d'Ollone, married to Mlle. de Ponthiere and at present with my elder brother. There has never been a Marquis de Fauconcourt. Fauconcourt with its chateau, which belongs to our family, has never been a Marquisate. My ancestors, in addition to their other titles, styled themselves simply Seigneurs de Fauconcourt.

"It seems very remarkable that the same individual should appropriate two names belonging to us. My eldest brother, however, is a member by heredity of the Society of the Cincinnati. Both he and my late father were guests of the United States at the Yorktown centenary in 1881. These facts probably suggested to the impostor the choice of our name as likely to insure him an excellent reception in America, but from all this it would appear that this impostor is well acquainted with my family and may in future dupe a still greater number of victims."

The Vicomte d'Ollone expresses an intense desire to learn the real identity of the pseudo Marquis.

Self-Styled Marquis Confesses.

Mrs. Adah d'Ollone, wife of the so-called Marquis de Fauconcourt and Count d'Ollone, teafully admitted to a reporter of THE NEW YORK TIMES last night at the home of her father, Jonas F. Durlacher, at 12 Jumel Terrace, that her new husband had confessed to her during the day that he was no Marquis and no Count, but that he had merely assumed these titles.

She asserted, however, that she did not know, when she was married last Monday at her father's home, that the bridegroom was not really a titled descendant of the house of d'Ollone. He had told her that he had inherited the titles of Marquis and Count, and that he had much wealth. As to the wealth, she said, there was tangible evidence, for he had put on deposit with the National City Bank of this city some stocks of considerable value, as she asserted, besides presenting letters of credit from the Bank of England and the Bank of France, which had been duly honored.

In spite of his confession, under stress of circumstances, that his titles were fictitious, Mrs. d'Ollone declared that she still dearly loved her husband, and would not think of giving him up. She had married him for love, she said, and not for titles or money.

The admission of Mrs. d'Ollone came as a result of the activities of her father, who, on being informed that the Vicomte d'Ollone had telegraphed the Paris correspondent of THE NEW YORK TIMES that the man who said he was Marquis de Fauconcourt was an impostor, sent for his daughter and the so-called Marquis, who had gone to Atlantic City on their honeymoon trip. Mr. Durlacher, who runs the Associated Trades Credit Exchange at 621 Broadway, had professed intense surprise over the evidence that the "Marquis" was not genuine.

"I don't believe a word of it," declared Mr. Durlacher. "Why, the Marquis showed me his passports to prove that he was a Marquis and a Count. They were made out in Paris and were duly signed, as I recall it, by the authorities there. The Marquis told me he had a great estate in France, and that he had independent means. When he asked me for permission to marry my daughter a few weeks ago I told him that I would not consent to it unless he proved beyond doubt that he was all that he represented himself to be. You see, I did not propose to have any bogus titles going into my family.

"No, Sir," Mr. Durlacher went on, "I am sure that the Marquis is all right. He looks every inch a Count, and we are all satisfied with the match."

To Mr. Durlacher was shown the dispatch from THE TIMES correspondent in Paris so that he might read for himself the charge made by the Vicomte d'Ollone. He read it carefully, and then remarked, with a show of confidence:

"Well, that sounds very strange, but I still believe that the Marquis has not imposed on us. I cannot believe he is an impostor."

After this, however, Mr. Durlacher meditated a few moments. Then he exclaimed:

"I'll tell you what I am going to do. I'm going to send for the Marquis this very instant and tell him and my daughter to come home. I am going to have the Marquis tell you that this charge of the Vicomte d'Ollone is false. He will show you his passports, just as he showed them to me, and that will convince you, I think, that he is a real Marquis and a real Count."

Telephone Brings Pair Back.

Thereupon Mr. Durlacher, going to another room in his office, resorted to the telephone, and soon had his daughter upon the wire at the hotel in Atlantic City, where she and her husband were spending their honeymoon. What Mr. Durlacher said to his daughter was not revealed, but Mr. Durlacher informed the reporter, on leaving the telephone, that his daughter and her husband would leave Atlantic City at once and come to the city.

It was late in the day when they ar-

APPOINTS WOMEN TO BOARD OF EDUCATION

McClellan Makes Mrs. H. D. Robbins, Mrs. A. S. Post, and Miss Leventritt Commissioners.

PLACES FOR NINE MEN, TOO

Metz and McGowan Are Among the Men Who Will Serve on the Board with the Three Women.

Among twelve appointments made yesterday by Mayor McClellan to the Board of Education were those of three women. This is the first time since the days of Mayor Strong that any but men have been made Commissioners of Education. It is understood that they have been selected because of the great increase in recent years of the educational standing of such subjects as domestic science and the technical training of girls. The appointments made yesterday by the Mayor were:

MANHATTAN.

EGERTON L. WINTHROP, Jr., reappointed, term expires Jan. 1, 1915.
NICHOLAS J. BARRETT, reappointed, term expires Jan. 1, 1915.
PATRICK F. McGOWAN, vice Louis Hasse; term expires Jan. 1, 1915.
HELEN CARROLL ROBBINS, 1,034 Fifth Avenue, vice Joseph N. Francolini; term expires Jan. 1, 1915.
JOHN WHALEN vice T. J. O'Donohue (dead;) term expires Jan. 1, 1911.
ANTONIO PISANI, vice F. W. Crowninshield, (resigned;) term expires Jan. 1, 1913.
OLIVIA LEVENTRITT, 84 West Seventy-seventh Street, vice Walter Alexander, (dead;) term expires Jan. 1, 1914.

BRONX.

M. J. SULLIVAN, reappointed; term expires Jan. 1, 1915.

BROOKLYN.

JAMES P. HOLLAND, reappointed; term expires Jan. 1, 1915.
J. R. THOMPSON, reappointed; term expires Jan. 1, 1915.
HERMAN A. METZ, vice Edward Lansansky; term expires Jan. 1, 1915.

QUEENS.

ALICE L. POST, 39 Bowne Avenue, Flushing, vice G. A. Vanderhoff; term expires Jan. 1, 1915.

Mrs. Helen Carroll Robbins, who is a Catholic, is the wife of Herbert D. Robbins of the drug firm of McKesson & Robbins, 91 Fulton Street, and President of the New York Quinine and Chemical Works. Mrs. Robbins declined yesterday to discuss her appointment.

Miss Olivia Leventritt is a daughter of ex-Justice Leventritt. She has been much interested in the Hebrew Technical School, at Fifteenth Street and Second Avenue, and for six years has served as a Directress and as a member of the committee on finding employment for graduates. Her work has been voluntary, but it is expected that her experience will be of particular value in developing the industrial classes for girls.

Mrs. Alice L. Post, who has been appointed from Queens, is the wife of A. S. Post, a man of independent means. The Posts are friends of Mayor McClellan. Mrs. Post is a member of the Good Citizens' League of Flushing and is a Protestant.

At her home in Flushing last night Mrs. Post said:

"Until I learn definitely from Mayor McClellan that such an appointment has been made, I do not think it would be right for me to talk of it at all."

Mrs. Post's husband, Alfred S. Post, is an invalid and not engaged in business. They have four grown children, in whose education Mrs. Post has always taken a keen personal interest. She has lived in Flushing for twenty-five years.

Mayor Strong's Appointments.

Mayor Strong appointed Miss Grace Dodge and Mrs. Williams to the board, but they and three other women were not reappointed on the expiration of their terms and since then no one but men have sat on the board. Mrs. Williams is now connected with the department and is now Principal of the evening recreation centre at Public School 94, Sixty-eighth Street and Amsterdam Avenue.

Women have, however, been members of many of the local school boards, and have had a good deal of influence in the management of the schools of their districts. The new Commissioners will be in an entirely different position. They will probably be appointed as are other Commissioners to particular local school boards as the representatives of the board and will have much to do with developing the school facilities of these neighborhoods.

They will be also members of the committees of the board, and it is expected that they will give particular attention to the teaching of domestic science, the training of girls for industrial occupations, and the relations of the public school system to the institutions for the higher education of women.

Mayor McClellan expressed himself yesterday as satisfied that the new women Commissioners would give just as efficient service as any of their men colleagues. When he was asked about their qualifications for the appointment he replied:

"I am certain they are as much interested in public education as men are."

Of the men named yesterday Egerton L. Winthrop, Jr., the present President of the board; Nicholas J. Barrett, M. J. Sullivan, James P. Holland, and J. R. Thompson are reappointed. A good deal of interest was manifested yesterday in the appointment of President McGowan of the Board of Aldermen and Controller Metz.

Mr. McGowan was a member of the board before he was elected to his present office and has taken a good deal of interest in the educational institutions maintained by the city during the present administration. He made an effort during the consideration of the budget to secure the raising of women teachers' pay from a minimum of $620 to $700 a year, declaring that he considered the inequalities between the salaries paid the men and the women too great.

Controller Metz was formerly a member of the Brooklyn Board of Education and showed his interest in the matter by presenting to the Manual Training High School a valuable athletic field.

Mrs. Williams's Experiences.

Mrs. Clara M. Williams said last night that the post of School Commissioner could be filled acceptably by a woman and that her experience had shown that the men on the board appreciated a woman's work and that there was never at any time any difficulty.

"Miss Grace H. Dodge," said she, "Mrs. Agnew, the wife of Dr. Agnew, and Mrs. Powell, were the three first women to be appointed on the School Board in New York. Miss Dodge's term expired first, and I was appointed by Mayor Strong to fill her place. The other women's terms expired later, and for a year I was the only woman on the board and was always courteously treated by the men. I think I did the best work of my life there, and a woman who loves children and is in sympathy with the public school system can do a great deal of good.

ALL ORDERED OUT OF CRIMINAL COURTS

Police Take Charge and Hurry People Out, Fearing a Collapse.

COURTS CAN'T SIT TO-DAY

Fear That the Walls Will Crumble, and Streets About the Structure Are Roped Off.

The Criminal Court Building, occupying the block bounded by Centre, Lafayette, Franklin, and White Streets, was declared to be unsafe at 9 o'clock last night by Commissioner of Buildings Murphy, acting upon a report of inspectors and engineers in his department, and at the direction of Deputy Police Commissioner Bugher, Capt. Coppers, Superintendent of the building, his corps of janitors, the clerks in the Coroner's office, which is open all night, and every other person in the building was ordered to leave it at once.

When the last man was out a squad of thirty policemen under Inspector Daley and Capt. Galvin took charge of the building, roping it off on all sides, and remaining on guard outside to forbid any one to enter or even to pass through any of the flanking streets.

As a result of Commissioner Murphy's order, the entire criminal court machinery of New York County will be at a standstill to-day, with the exception of the Police Courts. The Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court, the various parts of General Sessions, the Court of Special Sessions, the Coroner's Court, the Tombs Court, and the District Attorney's office, are all housed in the big building, and because of the lateness of the hour last night at which it was determined to close the building, at least temporarily, no provision could be made for the accommodation of the courts to-day.

The standing calendar in these courts is always very large, and the stoppage, even for a day, of their machinery, will cause a congestion in the Tombs Prison, where those awaiting trial are detained.

Judge Mulqueen of General Sessions, who visited the building last night, said that he and Judge Rosalsky had already sought permission of the Supreme Court to hold court in the Supreme Court Chambers in Chambers Street. While this permission will undoubtedly be granted in the failure of a better expedient, Judge Mulqueen admitted that it was hardly possible that court could be held to-day, although he said he hoped the wheels might be set going again to-morrow.

Judges Glad to Get Out.

The condemning of the building has been expected and probably rather hoped for by some of the Judges and clerks in the various courts, for as long ago as 1906 it was discovered that it was settling ominously. Cracks began to appear in the walls, and rooms rapidly took on the appearanceof having been undecorated for years. Plaster fell, doors and windows got out of plumb, and there was every evidence that the building was not solid on its foundations.

The building of the Subway through the present Lafayette Street, then known as Elm, was blamed for the damage to the building. It was erected on piles on ground which was once the old Collect Pond, and the digging of the Subway, according to engineers, set the surrounding land to shaking.

Within the last year this condition has become much more pronounced. Cracks appeared in the walls. Gas and water pipes burst within the walls, occasioning all sorts of trouble to the inmates of the building. The dropping of bits of plaster from ceilings became a common occurrence, and Judge Mulqueen admitted last night that for months the holding of court in any of the rooms of the building was a nerve-testing feat. He declared that when a subway train passed through Lafayette Street the vibration in the building caused the chair in which he sat hearing cases to tremble under him.

So alarmed did the judges become that on Monday, Commissioner Murphy sent Engineer Wiskerman and Inspector Schwartz, of his department, to make a thorough investigation of the building. Two years previous, Borough President Ahearn had caused an investigation to be made by Rudolph Miller and Daniel Moran, both engineers, and recently he reported to Mr. Murphy that this inspectors had found the building unsafe. Wiskerman and Schwartz spent Monday, Tuesday, and yesterday in the building, and last night reported to Mr. Murphy that their inspection corroborated the report of Engineers Miller and Moran.

Mr. Murphy immediately went to Police Headquarters, reaching there at 9 o'clock, and in the absence of Commissioner Baker, told Mr. Bugher of his errand.

All Hands Ordered Out.

Commissioner Bugher, with Mr. Murphy, drove to the building in the Commissioner's automobile, and the order to vacate was given immediately. The fires under the boilers were drawn, and Supt. Coppers and his staff left the building.

Coroner Harburger, who was in charge last night, hurried to the building when he learned of the order, and made arrangements with Commissioner Bugher for the use of the Chief Inspector's office at Police Headquarters for his staff until other accommodations could be found. All of the files and records of the Coroners' office were carried to the Mulberry Street building, and the office was reopened there.

Special Deputy Attorney General James W. Osborne, who is conducting the Ice Trust prosecution, also visited the building and gave orders that the doors of Part V., on the main floor, in which the case has been conducted, should be locked. He did not remove any papers or records.

When the last man was out of the building the police lines were formed, and all traffic, whether by foot or vehicle, was prevented from passing the building. The Fourth Avenue trolley cars were allowed to run, but Commissioner Bugher issued orders at midnight that they should be stopped at 6 A. M. to-day.

The police fear that large crowds will congregate near the building to-day, and before leaving last night Commissioner Bugher ordered that Inspector Daly should take command of the police at 8 A. M., at which time 100 policemen will be sent to the building.

That the fear of a curious crowd was well founded was shown yesterday when the halls and corridors were filled all day with throngs eager to see where the bits of paper, pasted across cracks in the walls on Tuesday, had been broken by the further yawning of the apertures, through some of which could be seen the gleam of sunlight in the street outside.

The interior of the building presented a strange spectacle to those who were not too nervous to examine it. Cracks

FARMAN UP OVER FOUR HOURS.

Breaks Endurance and Distance Records in 144-Mile Aeroplane Flight.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 3.—Henry Farman broke all aeroplane records for distance and duration to-day in a flight for the Michelin Cup at Chalons Camp. He remained in the air four hours seventeen minutes and fifty-three seconds and covered 144 miles.

The weather to-day was ideal, it being gray and windless, although the cold was severe. The aviator received an ovation when he landed.

The previous best record was made by Farman himself at Bethany Aviation Field, Rheims, in August last, when he won the Grand Prix de la Champagne, traveling 180 kilometers (111.78 miles) in 3 hours 4 minutes and 56 2-5 seconds.

DISCOVERS BIG WATERFALLS.

Explorer Says Highest One in Western Hemisphere Is in Labrador.

OSHKOSH, Wis., Nov. 3.—Edward Balch Barr, an Oshkosh explorer, who has just returned from Labrador, reports the discovery in the wilderness of that country of a huge waterfall which he is confident will prove the highest waterfall on the Western Hemisphere.

The discovery was made while Barr, with his party, was traveling by canoe up the Caster River. This fall is said to be larger than Grand Fall, in Labrador, which is 368 feet high.

CAR JUMPS TRACK; 68 HURT.

Coasts Down Long Hill in Des Moines —One of the Injured Dies.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 3.—Sixty-eight persons were injured, one fatally, when a crowded car jumped the track to-day and turned on its side on the Nineteenth Street hill, following a coast down the long incline. W. J. Robb of Oklahoma City died of his injuries. Elbert Warren, Captain of the Drake University football team, was among those seriously injured.

The accident occurred when the motorman, A. A. Persons, lost control of the car at the summit of the hill. A large percentage of the injured were young women.

HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS STRIKE.

Cleveland Boys Object to Double Sessions, Girls to Expensive Lunches.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 3.—Students at the West High School, to the number of 250, went on strike to-day. The boys objected to the double sessions idea, and the girls protested against the prices being charged by the school board for lunches.

It is expected that the strike will extend to all of the pupils to-morrow unless peace is obtained in some manner.

AIRSHIPS SURPRISE FORTRESS

German Squadron of 3 Dirigible Balloons Execute Manoeuvres Successfully

COLOGNE, Nov. 3.—The German airship squadron, consisting of the dirigibles Parseval II., Zeppelin II., and the military airship No. 2, continuing their manoeuvres in the valley of the Rhine, executed a sham attack on the fortress Ehrenbreitstein early to-day.

Leaving here soon after midnight, the squadron flew up the Rhine to Coblenz, surprised the garrison there, and then swooped down upon the fortress of Ehrenbreitstein, on the opposite bank of the river.

The airships returned here early in the forenoon.

WROTE HIS WILL ON WALL.

Brooklyn Man May Fall Heir to Georgia Hermit's Fortune.

SAVANNAH, Nov. 3.—Peter Leist, who claimed a dozen trades and professions, but who was a hermit, was found dead at his home near Savannah to-day. He had been dead since Monday. He was seated in a chair apparently staring at the wall of his room, on which he had written his will, leaving his property, which is considerable, to his son, who is in school at Sharon, Ga., or in event of his death to Henry Dreyer of Brooklyn, N. Y. Two hungry bull dogs were guarding the dead man.

A year or more ago Leist's wife killed herself. He shortly afterward married again after an acquaintance of eight hours and was at the time of his death seeking a divorce. Since he separated from his second wife he became a hermit.

COOK RETURNS FROM WEST.

Expects to Send Data to Copenhagen by Dec. 1.

Dr. Frederick A. Cook returned to the city yesterday from his tour through the West, during which he stopped at Hamilton, Mont., and at a stormy meeting was forced to face Edward N. Barrill, the guide who before had said in an affidavit that Dr. Cook did not go within fourteen miles of the top of Mount McKinley.

Dr. Cook ensconced himself in the suite he formerly occupied at the Waldorf-Astoria and refused to talk to newspaper reporters. He sent word through his secretary, Walter Lounsdale, that there was nothing for him to talk about. He would not answer directly or indirectly questions concerning the letter Barrill said he received from Labrador in 1906, in which Cook is alleged to have urged Barrill to "keep still" and Cook would bring the guide a "chunk of the pole."

Dr. Cook's secretary said that the explorer was going to devote himself entirely to the work of getting into shape the data of his observations to prove that he went to the pole. It would probably take him the rest of the month to do this, the secretary said, and the proofs would undoubtedly be on their way to Copenhagen by Dec. 1.

FOUR YEARS' POVERTY TAMMANY'S OUTLOOK

It's a Far More Serious Outlook Than When the Wigwam Starved Under Low for Two.

MILLION IN PATRONAGE LOST

"A Lot of Folks I Know of Will Have to Go to Work," Says a Leader—Some of the Good Jobs to Change Holders.

The Tammany tiger and most of the cubs remained under cover yesterday, putting in the day in attempting to realize the magnitude of the disaster that has befallen them.

While Judge Gaynor's election has placed an almost powerless sceptre in his hands, to a much greater degree is Mr. Gaynor's election an empty victory to Murphy. No one has the temerity to declare that the organization has any hold whatever on the Mayor-elect. It is generally, and it seemed yesterday safely, assumed that should demands be made upon him to assist in saving the wreck of Tammany's patronage by making "desirable" appointments out of gratitude for his election he can and will turn and say:

"The people voted for me, not for Tammany. I owe you nothing."

Nobody presumed to doubt yesterday that Tammany faced another four years of starvation, and, as one Democrat observed, "If there is no gasoline in the tank the machine cannot go." In the defeat this year the organization has received the hardest blow administered to it in years, if not the worst it ever received.

The idea of the Tammany organization is based on patronage. Furthermore, it has always been Tammany's motto that "five $1,000 berths are worth five times as much as one $5,000 berth." In other words, it is the small places that count. The larger their number the more men the organization can enlist, and in Tammany the faithful are always rewarded.

The wreck this year is appalling. Those plenteous springs of patronage, the Sheriff's office, the County Clerk's office, and the Borough President's offices in Manhattan and the Bronx have passed into other hands.

It's Starvation for Four Years.

In salaries of heads of departments and bureaus alone, the election means the loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars in patronage to Tammany. Then, there are the many small places in these offices which are always filled by "the boys." A resume of the more important berths which have been taken away from the organization shows the extent of the defeat. Also it is for four years. When Mayor Low was carried into office by the Fusion movement in 1901 the disaster was sweeping, but then the Mayor's term was for two years only. In 1903 Mayor McClellan brought victory again to Tammany.

One of the old leaders put it this way yesterday: "Well, the organization has gone hungry before and survived. But hunger for four years means starvation. A lot of folks I know of will have to go to work."

Then the defeat not only means much to all the many small Tammany office holders who have rendered value received, but also to many of the district leaders who have been occupying comfortable berths. Here are some of them: John F. Ahearn, Borough President of Manhattan; William H. Sinnott, Deputy Register; John F. Curry, Deputy County Clerk; James J. Hagan, Assistant Commissioner of Public Works, who ran for County Clerk, and Frank J. Goodwin, Superintendent of Sewers.

Some of the Losses.

The full list of the places Tammany has lost is enormous. Even the Coroners' office carries with it juicy plums. There are four Coroners in Manhattan and two in the Bronx. They receive $5,000 a year each. Then there are four clerks in the Manhattan office who get $3,000, and one in the Bronx who gets $1,500. Also the office has four private secretaries at $2,000, and four replevin clerks at $1,200.

The loss of the Sheriff's office is probably the hardest blow of all. The Sheriff receives $12,000 salary, but his fees bring this up to an average of nearly $50,000 a year. Then there is an Under Sheriff at $5,000, a Sheriff's counsel at $6,000, thirteen deputies at $2,500, and thirteen assistant deputies at $1,000. The Sheriff is only elected for two years, however, so Tammany will have a chance to regain possession of this choice morsel in 1911. No Sheriff can succeed himself. The present incumbent is Thomas F. Foley, district leader.

The offices of Register and County Clerk also carry with them large patronage. The Register receives $12,000; the Deputy Register, $5,000, and the assistant deputy, $4,000. The present incumbent of the latter place is Joseph P. Hennessy, President of the District Club of Arthur H. Murphy, who was defeated for Borough President in the Bronx. There is also a chief clerk of the Register's office at $3,400.

The County Clerk receives a salary of $15,000. The deputy clerk gets $6,000, and there is also another deputy at $4,000. These places are now filled by John F. Curry and John E. Best, both prominent in the organization. Here, also, there are a cashier at $2,600, an assistant cashier at $2,000, and a secretary at $3,000.

Borough Plums Gone.

The places that the Borough President can hand out are many and lucrative. Only the more important need be mentioned to give an idea of the patronage controlled by this office. In Manhattan the President receives $7,500, and in the Bronx $5,000. The list of minor places includes a secretary at $4,000, a confidential Inspector at $2,400, the Commissioner of Public Works at $6,000, an Assistant Commissioner at $5,000, a secretary to the Commissioner at $2,500, a Superintendent of Highways at $5,000, the Superintendent of the Bureau of Incumbrances at $3,000, the Superintendent of Public Buildings and Offices at $5,000, the Superintendent of the Bureau of Buildings at $5,000, a Chief Inspector of the bureau at $4,000, a Superintendent of Sewers at $5,000.

In the Bronx the salaries average $1,000 less. The Superintendent of Sewers north of the Harlem River is Thomas F. O'Neil, one of the Bronx Tammany leaders.

Even the three Supreme Court Justiceships, which the organization has lost, carry with them a certain amount of patronage. Each Justice has a secretary at $2,500, and a confidential attendant at $1,500. Then the Commissioners, referees, and other court officers whom the Judges appoint, amount to a big item.

In the office of the President of the Board of Aldermen there is a secretary at $[illegible],000, and a confidential stenographer at $[illegible],000.

The Controller's Patronage.

The hundreds of places in the Controller's office are largely protected by the civic service regulations. There are many on the exempt list, however, including nearly all the heads of divisions. Of course, the Brooklyn organization has had a tighter hold on this office than Tammany during the administration of Controller Metz, but a partial list of the possible appointments will show what a choice morsel Tammany was striving for in the candidacy of Robert R. Moore, a Manhattan man, this year.

The Controller receives a salary of $15,000. The two Deputy Controllers receive $7,500 each. One of the present incumbents is John H. McCooey, who was defeated for Borough President in Brooklyn. Then there is a secretary at $5,000, a clerk to the Controller at $2,100, a chief accountant of the Bookkeeping Division at $4,000, eighteen Auditors of Accounts at salaries ranging from $5,000 to $3,000, and nine Deputy City Paymasters at $2,500.

The District Attorney's office also goes this year to the Republicans by the defeat of Battle. With this go also nine assistants at $7,500 each, twenty-four deputy assistants at salaries ranging from $5,000 to $2,000, a chief clerk at $6,000, and a deputy clerk at $3,500. Mr. Jerome's chief clerk is John A. Henneberry, who managed his campaigns. He will have to go, having worked for Battle in the campaign. District Attorney Whitman will receive $12,000 a year.

Jobs Gaynor Can Bestow.

The patronage vested in the heads of the various city departments who will be appointed by Judge Gaynor is very large. If he is "good" in making his selections, the organization may save something from the wreck. If he is not, the future is barren indeed.

One of the most important of the classifications that come under this last division are those elusive personages known as Corporation Inspectors. They are appointed by the Mayor, the President of the Borough, the Water Commissioner, and the Corporation Counsel. Their number is unlimited and no one has ever been able to determine exactly what they do for the $75 to $125 a month they receive.

Speculation has already begun on the appointments that Judge Gaynor will probably make. He took particular notice on the stump of Lawson Purdy, President of the Tax Board, and Police Commissioner Baker. It is believed that he will retain the former. Rhinelander Waldo, who was originally Gen. Bingham's First Deputy, is being mentioned for Baker's place. He was a member of the Tammany Campaign Committee this year and ran for Congress in a Republican district last year.

William McAdoo, who was Police Commissioner during Mayor McClellan's first administration, is also being talked of for the Commissionership. He has never been closely identified with the organization, but took the stump for it this year, devoting his time principally to denouncing the "white slave" charges.

John F. Galvin, who was the Tammany nominee for President of the Board of Aldermen, is being talked of for City Chamberlain. It is believed that more than one of the Committee of Nine, which first urged Judge Gaynor to enter the race, will be rewarded with appointments.

VOTE ON THE CITY TICKET.

Gaynor's Plurality 73,016 and His Total Vote 250,678—Galvin and Moore Carried Richmond.

The revised figures of the vote on the city ticket show that Gaynor's total vote was 250,678 and his plurality over Bannard 73,016. Galvin, the defeated Tammany candidate for the Presidency of the Board of Aldermen, polled 1,863 votes more than Gaynor. Moore, the defeated candidate of Tammany for the Controllership, fell short of the head of the ticket by 543 votes. Prendergast, Fusion candidate for Controller, with a total vote of 324,695, had a plurality of 74,559. President of the Board of Aldermen-elect Mitchel's plurality was 71,031, his total vote being 323,572. The Fusion candidates for Controller and President of the Board of Aldermen had pluralities in each of the boroughs except Richmond, where Moore, the Tammany candidate for Controller, led his opponent on the Fusion ticket by 141 votes, and Galvin, Tammany candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen, had 107 more votes than Mitchel.

WRECK OF THE COUNTY TICKET.

District Attorneyship Lost by 26,631—Sullivan and Roesch Badly Beaten.

Tammany's county ticket went down to defeat by majorities which left no doubt of the public feeling against it. Whitman (Fusion) won the District Attorneyship by 26,631 majority, and the Fusion candidates for County Clerk and Register went in with him on about the same figures.

The popular disapprobation seemed to be reserved for the candidates for Sheriff and City Court Judge. Christopher Sullivan and ex-Justice George F. Roesch went down together within a few hundred of each other with more than 38,000 votes against them.

Here are the revised totals:

DISTRICT ATTORNEY—Whitman, (Fusion,) 166,144; Battle, (Tam.,) 139,513. Whitman's majority, 26,631.

SHERIFF—Shea, (Fusion,) 171,106; Sullivan, (Tam.,) 132,681. Shea's majority, 38,425.

COUNTY CLERK—Schneider, (Fusion,) 162,451; Hagan, (Tam.,) 136,232. Schneider's majority, 26,219.

REGISTER—Griffenhagen, (Fusion,) 160,848; Goldwater, (Tam.,) 135,488. Griffenhagen's majority, 25,360.

FUSION BOROUGH PRESIDENTS.

M'Aneny Carried Manhattan by 25,052—Steers Won by 26,282.

All of the Fusion candidates for Borough Presidencies made good runs. The biggest majority was that of Steers over McCooey in Brooklyn, 26,282. McAneny beat Haag in Manhattan, 25,052. Cassidy's vote in Queens, 14,957, was surprisingly small.

Haffen, the independent candidate who was out for vindication in the Bronx, considering that he was without an organization and campaigned for only two weeks, polled a comparatively large vote—10,852. It was only the split on the Democratic side that carried Miller, the Fusion candidate, in. He beat Alderman Murphy, the Tammany candidate, by only 3,091.

The figures in detail:

MANHATTAN—George McAneny, (Fus.,) 136,199; Joseph Haag, (Tam.,) 111,147. McAneny over Haag, 25,052.

BRONX—Cyrus C. Miller, (Fus.,) 26,097; Arthur Murphy, (Tam.,) 23,006; Louis F. Haffen, (Ind.,) 10,852. Miller over Murphy, 3,091.

BROOKLYN—Alfred E. Steers, (Fus.,) 119,135; John H. McCooey, (Dem.,) 93,153. Steers over McCooey, 26,282.

QUEENS—Lawrence Gresser, (Civil All.,) 19,512; Joseph Cassidy, (Dem.,) 14,957; Joseph H. De Bragga, (Rep.,) 10,161. Gresser over Cassidy, 4,796.

RICHMOND—George Cromwell, (Rep.,) 7,535; Charles J. McCormach, (Dem.,) 7,203. Cromwell over M'Cormach, 332.

EVEN THE CORONERS.

Tammany Lost to Fusion All Six in Manhattan and the Bronx.

Tammany failed to elect even a Coroner in Manhattan and the Bronx. The Fusion candidates won all six offices, four in Manhattan, two in the Bronx. Here are the figures:

SEVEN JUDGESHIPS SAVED.

Tammany Keeps Some Municipal Courts—Fallon Elected, Also Snitkin.

Of the nine vacancies in the municipal courts voted on in Manhattan and the Bronx, Tammany won the seven places in the First, Second and Third districts. Leonard A. Snitkin, whom the Citizens' Union denounced as specially unfitted for a place on the bench, was among the victors at the polls.

The Fusion candidate was successful in the Sixth district. Fallon, the Civic Alliance candidate to whom Tammany refused a renomination, won out in the Eighth district over Dwyer, the Tammany candidate.

The figures:

*First District—
Nevin, (Fus.) 5,781. Inch, (Fus.) 5,818. Rinehart, (Fus.) 5,008.

GAYNOR TO FAVOR BROOKLYN.

Alliance with Queens Formed to Get the City Plums.

Wise men of politics in Brooklyn profess to see in the sweeping failure of the Murphy programme in Tuesday's election, the beginning of the end of Tammany domination of the Democracy of the greater city. For four years at least the control of the municipal government will be with the two Long Island boroughs. Advancing by leaps and bounds in population, they are growing much faster than Manhattan and the Bronx.

It seems certain that Queens will work with Brooklyn in the new city government for their mutual interests. With the Mayor, Controller, and Borough President Brooklyn counts upon eight votes in the Board of Estimate. It is known that Judge Gaynor regards his home borough with great pride and affection, and Brooklyn seems to feel assured that he will stand loyally by it when its demands are not unreasonable.

Yesterday Lawrence Gresser, so decisively re-elected President of Queens, said that he would vote with Brooklyn in the Board of Estimate for the good of the two boroughs. This will give the Long Island part of the city control of the board with nine of the sixteen votes.

Brooklyn knows Judge Gaynor far better than does Manhattan. Therefore is it that Brooklyn is looking for an early break between the Judge and Tammany. The Brooklyn ex-jurist, with his peculiar temperament, his cold indifference to the conventionalities of politics, and his self-assertiveness, will, his Brooklyn admirers believe, do little or nothing to sweeten the cup of bitterness which is now at the lips of the Tammany leader.

Here are revised results on the county ticket:

SHERIFF—Quinn, (Dem.,) 87,493; Livingston, (Fus.,) 83,962; Boulton, (Civic All.,) 40,526. Quinn's plurality 3,531.

COUNTY CLERK—Molloy, (Dem.,) 89,106; Feitner, (Fus.,) 81,694. Molloy's majority 7,412.

REGISTER—Lundy, (Dem.,) 89,938; Peters, (Fus.,) 81,609. Lundy's majority 8,329.

JUSTICE MUNICIPAL COURT.

First District—Conran, (Dem.,) 16,108; Badger, (Fus.,) 10,833. Conran's majority 5,275.

*Second District—Farrar, (Fus.,) 12,433; Friefeld, (Fus.,) 12,439; Dodd, (Dem.,) 10,449; Taylor, (Dem.,) 10,610; Hansen, (C. A.,) 4,726; Vanwart, (C. A.,) 4,881. Farrar over Dodd, 1,984; Friefeld over Taylor, 1,829.

Third District—Meagher, (Dem.,) 18,032; Walsh, (Fus.,) 9,654. Meagher's plurality 8,378.

Fourth District—Strahl, (Dem., 13,842; Williams, (Fus.,) 10,845. Strahl's majority 2,997.

Fifth District—Fergurson, (Dem.,) 18,133; Voss, (Rep.,) 9,187 Fergurson's majority, 8,946.

RESULT PLEASES LONDON.

A Suggestion That New York Business Men Are in Politics.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—More than the usual interest has been taken here in the New York City elections, most of the papers printing long special dispatches. Tammany's downfall is instanced as an evidence of that American prosperity which has made it possible for every one to obtain work without a political pull.

The tone of the editorial comment can be gauged by the following from an editorial in The Times:

"Whether the surprising denouement of the sensational campaign is due merely to superficial, possibly ephemeral, causes, or is yet another manifestation of the change which of late years has been noticeable in American political life, is a question difficult to answer. Still, it looks as if the plain man of business were preparing to take a hand in the politics of New York."

The Daily Mail says "that the citizens of one richest, most enterprising, and energetic capitals should have tamely submitted to be exploited by the apostles of graft is a standing puzzle. Americans are certainly not more dishonest than other peoples, and the explanation must be sought for in that indifference which so often accompanies great prosperity.

"Americans are perhaps more eager to make money than to see that it is well spent, and the best of them have acquired a distaste for serving their country in capacities that have been dishonored by inveterate abuses."

The Standard says: "Tammany has received a blow from which it will not soon recover. The control of the municipal finance is placed in the hands of the Republican and Fusionist forces. Thousands of Tammany office holders will lose not only their salaries, but, what will distress them far more, the illegitimate harvest they have reaped by methods which all honorable American admit are outrageously flagitious.

"New York, the business centre of a great and prosperous Nation, is, thanks to the machinations of the Tammany gang, an inferno where all baser instincts of humanity hold sway. When President Taft recently talked of the wonders accomplished by the Anglo-Saxon race in America in hammering out the principles of civil liberty and popular government, he assuredly was not referring to the municipal administration of New York. But a better day has now dawned for the city."

TAMMANY'S WEAKER GRIP ON ALDERMEN

The Brooklyn Democrats Will Hold the Balance of Power in the New Board.

GAINS FOR THE FUSIONISTS

Will Have 37 Votes Out of 79, with the Aid of the Borough Presidents—Revised Results.

What will happen in the reconstructed Board of Aldermen after Jan. 1 was the subject of a great deal of speculation about City Hall yesterday. Fusion, in this election, has gained considerably, and unless the Brooklyn Aldermen stick close to Tammany the Wigwam control of the board is more than in doubt.

In the present board, including the five Borough Presidents, there are 79 members. Of these, only 23 are Republicans. Consequently Tammany has an all-powerful majority on all matters which do not require the approval of more than a majority, as, for instance, the issue of corporate stock and special revenue bonds do.

Tuesday's election put in 19 Fusion Aldermen in Manhattan, 11 in Brooklyn, and 2 in Queens, making 32 in all. If to these are added the five votes of the Fusion Borough Presidents, the anti-Tammany vote will be 37 out of 79.

As long as the entire Democratic delegation from all the boroughs holds together the Republicans will still be in a minority, but it was argued at City Hall yesterday that, taking into consideration the rivalries of the Manhattan and Brooklyn wings of the party, and the fact that several of the Fusion Borough Presidents are by affiliation Democrats, anything at all may happen.

The twelve Brooklyn Aldermen figure that they will hold the balance of power. Being outside of Tammany, they can make what terms they please with Tammany or with the Fusion minority.

The Aldermanic elections this year contained several surprises. Here is the vote in detail, as revealed by the revised figures:

GAYNOR SENDS BACK CAMPAIGN MATERIAL

Mails to His Opponents Charges Against Them He Had Declined to Use.

IS GOING AWAY FOR A REST

Asked If He'll Quit as Mitchel Suggests, He Says "Enough of That"—Will Work with Estimate Board.

At the home of Mayor-elect William J. Gaynor in Brooklyn last night it was said that the Judge would not know until to-day when he would be able to go to his farm at St. James, L. I. The Judge is said to be anxious to get away to his country place for a good rest, but has some business matters to dispose of before he can leave town. Out in the quiet and seclusion of the north shore settlement he would not be so disturbed as in the city working out his plans for his administration.

Mr. Gaynor, it was learned last night, mailed yesterday to William R. Hearst and Otto T. Bannard, his late opponents, two huge envelopes containing accusations against them and campaign material to be used against them which had been sent him in the campaign. A mass of such matter was sent to him and he declined to use it. Similar material regarding William M. Ivins was sent by Mr. Gaynor to Mr. Ivins.

The Mayor-elect was quoted yesterday by a friend as saying of the Board of Estimate which will be composed of men elected on the Fusion ticket:

"I have not during my life quarreled with any one with whom I have ever been associated that I can now recall, and I do not expect to have any quarrel in the future unless with some scoundrel who professes to be a leading or a good citizen. I also expect to get along with the Public Service Commission finely. I have taken the trouble in my speeches to say that I have high regard for the men who compose that board."

With the trials and troubles of the campaign behind him, the Mayor-elect was in great good humon yesterday. He went out for a walk and upon his return to his home pleasantly greeted the reporters who were awaiting him. As he met them in the parlor they fired a volley of questions at him.

"Judge," he was told, "Mr. Mitchel says you publicly stated that you would not care to serve as Mayor if your running mates were not elected. Mr. Mitchel says he is willing to assume the duties of Mayor if you are ready to decline the office."

"Enough of that," said the Judge, holding up his hand.

Later in the day the Mayor-elect gave out this statement:

"I have nothing for the newspapers to-day, except that I desire to express my warmest thanks and appreciation to you, the reporters of all the newspapers, who have been calling daily at my home.

"Not a confidence broken, not a mean thing. I was told that I ought to have a manager and turn you over to him, but I knew it was not necessary. I was once one of you. I hope your editors will publish this. I regret to see what purports to be an interview with me in one morning paper. I gave none to any one. I know none of you wrote it."

The "interview" which the Judge declared was bogus was a bitter attack on most of the newspapers of the city, but contained praise for the newspaper which printed it.

GLOOM IN TAMMANY.

But Murphy Won't Resign—Croker Wouldn't Take His Place If He Could.

Tammany Hall was a gloomy place yesterday. Only a few of the well-known men in the organization were about in the morning, and they were a dreary lot. None of them could be persuaded to talk about anything except the weather. Leader Murphy did not appear until afternoon, and was at his desk only about an hour. Then the hall was deserted for the rest of the day.

Mr. Murphy declared that he did not fear the effect of defeat on his control of the organization. He said emphatically that he had no intention of resigning the leadership.

"There is a rumor about that you will retire in view of the defeat," he was told.

"Committee on Rumors," he announced in the tone of a presiding officer.

The matter was pressed and he then replied seriously: "I have no intention of resigning."

Asked if he had any idea who or what could be responsible for the rumor he replied:

"I don't know. I don't believe, however, that there is any one in the organization who would say that I am going to get out."

Then there was silence while the real purport of this answer sunk in.

"How do you expect to pull the organization through the next four years with practically no patronage?"

"Haven't we just been going through four years of that sort?" asked Mr. Murphy.

"But won't it be worse than that now?" it was insisted.

"I've already answered that question," replied Mr. Murphy rather testily.

"Do you expect a thoroughly successful administration?"

"I hope so. Judge Gaynor will be the Mayor. He is the man to answer that."

"Have you any idea yet about the make-up of the city slate?"

"Judge Gaynor will make the appointments. I know nothing about them."

Mr. Muryhy said he had not conferred with Mr. Gaynor on the subject and had no appointment with him.

"Why was Tammany defeated?" was put in as a final shot.

"That's easy," replied the "chief" with a smile. "We didn't get votes enough."

None of the leaders who were about the hall could be drawn into a discussion of the probabilities of a reorganization with Mr. Murphy left out of the leadership. It is generally admitted that a month ago he was more firmly established in his control over the organization than possibly any other leader who ever presided over its destinies. What factions and opposition to him have arisen during the past few years have been effectually quelled.

It is generally admitted that the Sullivan clan is the only division of the Hall that could come anywhere near to being successful in attempting his overthrow if he wished to fight to retain the leadership. It is further conceded that this contingency will not arise, the arguments that could be raised against Mr. Murphy's continuance in power being doubly applicable to the Sullivans. If the cry were raised that Mr. Murphy had shown bad judgment the answer could immediately be made that the possible mistakes made in the selection of the candidates this year should be laid at the door of the Sullivans. Roesch, Hagan, and the rest are either members of the Sullivan clan or had its indorsement.

The only one of the old McClellan faction left in the Hall is Maurice Featherson, and it is generally believed that he has not the qualifications necessary to hold the organization together, even though it were possible for him to lead a successful fight against Murphy.

There was a good deal of talk yesterday, occasioned by the fact that among the many callers upon Richard Croker at the National Democratic Club yesterday were Featherson and the Mayor.

"Don't you believe it," said Mr. Croker when asked if he would go back to the Tammany leadership. "Not for a million dollars. I am out of active politics, and nothing would induce me to reconsider my determination to come out of the background. Furthermore, I don't wish to make any comment whatsoever on the result of the election.

"Of course, some of the old fellows have spoken to me about coming back, but it's no use, I tell you. They didn't want me to quit years ago when I gave up the leadership. In the first place, I'm too old. I couldn't stand the racket. Furthermore, why should I come back? I have said this so often that I cannot understand why people will not believe I mean it.

"I expect to leave for Florida to-morrow with my son and my niece. I will stay there until April 15. Then I will go back to the other side. Racing is what interests me now and I am going to have better luck in the future."

Mayor McClellan would not discuss his talk with Croker. Asked to comment on the result of the election, he said:

"I am particularly sorry about the defeat of the Democratic candidates for the Supreme Court. Justice Truax is an exceptional jurist, and Mr. Pendleton is a member of my official family." The Mayor declared that he wished to dispel the idea that Judge Gaynor will be absolutely powerless in the Board of Estimate.

"The Mayor has the veto power over appropriations for permanent public improvements," said he, "and he can seriously tie up street openings and other things."

PEACE AGAIN IN KENTUCKY.

Breathitt County Won by Democrats in General Sweep of State.

JACKSON, Ky., Nov. 3.—Breathitt County's exciting election has apparently resulted in a Democratic victory. D. B. Redwine seems to have carried the county by 350 votes for Circuit Judge over J. P. Adams, Republican, the present incumbent. The other Democratic candidates for all offices also appear to be in the lead.

By dusk to-night all the Breathitt County folk who live outside of Jackson had heard enough election returns, and after firing their pistols intermittently for a while, rode out of town. It is believed that their departure removed any danger of disorder as a result of the election.

Although a dynamite bomb was exploded and thousands of shots were fired in last night's wild celebration, only walls and plaster were damaged. Several persons in their homes had narrow escapes as bullets plowed through walls and windows.

Throughout the wild night the Cynthiana company of militia was on guard in the public square. The soldiers made no attempt to stop the promiscuous shooting. It was learned to-day that the company did not have a single round of ammunition.

The Lexington soldiers, who were stationed at Crockettsville yesterday, came here to-day and the tired Cynthiana company was sent home. The Lexington soldiers will remain during the sitting of court, which ends next Saturday.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 3.—The Democrats made a sweep in the State in the elections yesterday. The next Legislature will be Democratic by two-thirds majority and can pass any measure over the Republican Governor's veto. It will choose a United States Senator.

Louisville was restored to the Democratic fold by the election of W. O. Head, Mayor, by nearly 2,700 majority. With two exceptions all the important cities in the State have followed suit.

After the Mayor's Speeches.

One of the curious coincidences of politics was noted yesterday by Mayor McClellan. Last summer he made a tour of county fairs, speaking at each, but not on political subjects. He visited in turn Gloversville, Johnstown, Schenectady, Corning and Elmira. Of these, all but Elmira had a Republican Mayor. On Tuesday every one went Democratic.

Metz Invites Prendergast In.

Controller Metz extended yesterday to Controller-elect Prendergast an invitation to come to the Department of Finance as often as he pleases before Jan. 1 to become acquainted with the work and the officials. Mr. Metz has often expressed the opinion that it takes a Controller two years to learn all the complications of the Department.

run across the floors, and all the wooden shoring that has been used to brace the galleries has not prevented numerous gashes from opening in the walls. One extends to the exterior of the building on the Franklin Street side, and yesterday a small crowd gathered with craned necks in the street to view it.

New Wall Cracks Appear.

Early yesterday morning fissures were noticed in the ceiling of Judge O'Sullivan's room. The appearance of these and of cracks in the walls and ceiling of Justice Davis's court in the afternoon stirred the Judges to action. Justice Davis hurried up to the fourth floor for a consultation with Acting District Attorney Nott, and while they were talking a piece of the ceiling dropped at their feet. The Building Department was called on the telephone, but it was not until later that action was taken.

Commissioner Murphy said last night that to-day a special examination would be made to determine whether it would be possible to repair the building, so as to make it safe, or whether it would have to be razed. The consensus of opinion among the men who have been occupying the building was that it should be torn down.

Occupants of neighboring buildings were not cautioned to move last night, although every one admitted the possibility of the walls falling in. An escape of gas was discovered in the walls some time since, where a pipe had been broken by the settling of the building, and it was recognized that a similar leak, resulting in an explosion, would probably be sufficient to send the walls flying outward.

The building officials declared, however, that even were the walls to fall the buildings across Centre Street and Lafayette Street were out of the danger zone, and the Tombs, which is connected to the Criminal Court Building by the Bridge of Sighs, and is nearer to it than any other building, is strong enough probably to support the entire weight of a falling wall without damage to its own structure.

A suggestion that the new Police Headquarters building, at Centre and Grand Streets, be given over temporarily to the courts met with approval on the part of Judge Mulqueen. He explained, however, that before the courts could take possession it would be necessary to get a Supreme Court order directing the Sinking Fund Board to deliver the building over to the courts. It will be impossible to do this to-day in time for court to be held. The building has not passed into the hands of the Police Department yet, however, and it could easily accommodate the courts.

Commissioner Bugher arranged for the handling of the Tombs Court cases to-day, however, by getting Magistrate Kernochan, who has been sitting in the Tombs Court, on the telephone, and, with his concurrence, ordering all Tombs Court cases to be taken to the Jefferson Market Court to-day.

The Criminal Courts Building was opened in 1893. Ground was broken for its erection three years before, and it was expected that the building would be completed in 500 working days. But strikes and delay in obtaining the granite used in its construction, delayed the opening almost another year. The total cost of the big brick and stone building with brownstone trimmings and terra cotta adornments was $1,464,835, exclusive of the architects' fees, carpeting, and furnishings.

MILLER IS "OLD CY," ATHLETE.

New Bronx Borough President a Person of Note in Lacrosse.

A great deal of searching yesterday into the identity of the newly elected President of the Bronx brought to light the fact that he and "Old Cy" Miller of the Crescent Athletic Club in South Brooklyn are one and the same person. He is a veteran lacrosse player, and South Brooklyn has taken great joy in the feats of this middleaged, gray-haired man.

The bulletins Tuesday night kept talking about C. C. Miller, who, it appeared, was not only running for the Presidency of the Borough of the Bronx but was running away with it. The public knew about Haffen—a lot about Haffen. The public knew a whole lot about Murphy, another candidate up there, but many times in the crowds in front of the bulletin boards this impatient question was asked:

"Who is C. C. Miller?"

South Brooklyn rose yesterday to answer the question. For there he plays lacrosse. In South Brooklyn they know all about the new President of the Borough of the Bronx. He is 43 years old, a graduate of New York University and the Columbia Law School.

He is a member of the Fordham Club, and the Crescent Athletic Club. He organized the lacrosse team of the latter organization, and has been one of the greatest American players of the Indian game for twenty-five years. He was a member of the famous twelve that went abroad in 1897, and did so well against the English teams.

In the home of the Crescent Athletic Club, in Clinton Street, Brooklyn, mixed with the joy over "Old Cy's" election was a great deal of sad speculation as to whether or not his new dignity would not cut short his career with the club's lacrosse team. They wondered whether a Borough President would look all right in short knickers and an armless shirt, dashing around a field, along with a lot of other young fellows, brandishing a netted club at a harmless ball.

FUSIONISTS REJOICE AT WIGWAM'S FALL

Find Much in Capture of the Board of Estimate to Offset Loss of the Mayoralty.

LOOK AT BANNARD'S FUTURE

Republicans May Run Him for Governor—Candidates Commend Hearst —Mitchel Ready to Help Gaynor.

Things were quiet in Republican circles yesterday, most of the leaders having gone to Albany to attend the funeral of Controller Gaus. Timothy L. Woodruff and Herbert Parsons took an early train to Albany in the morning, and the latter did not return until late last night. Mr. Woodruff will not return to the city for a week. Before leaving Mr. Parsons said he did not have anything to add to the statement he gave out on election night.

Republicans who did discuss Tuesday's result, however, were all of accord on one subject, that Otto T. Bannard, under the circumstances, had made a most respectable showing, and that he was a force to be reckoned with in Republican councils in the future. There was even a hint expressed that he would make good Gubernatorial timber.

It was get-away day at the Bannard headquarters in the Fifth Avenue Building. The rooms used by the Republican Campaign Committee were being dismantled all day. Neither Mr. Bannard nor Congressman Bennet, his manager, put in an appearence. At the headquarters of the Committee of One Hunrded, on the same floor, clerks were busy part of the day sending out letters of congratulation to the successful candidates. Chairman Raymond V. Ingersoll of the Executive Committee said the Hundred felt jubilant over the success of the Fusion candidates. He said that the committee had accomplished what it had set out to do, namely, to put the Board of Estimate into Fusion hands. There will be a meeting of the committee to-morrow afternoon.

Mr. Bannard attended the funeral of John S. Kennedy yesterday, and then he went to his office at 26 Broad Street and remained there the rest of the day. To-day Mr. Bannard will go to Milwaukee to see his father and attend the wedding of one of his neices. He will return to the city on Tuesday or Wednesday next. Discussing the late returns, Mr. Bannard said:

"Later returns, even more than earlier ones, show a convincing victory for the Fusion ticket. Accordingly, it makes my pleasure all the greater, particularly as the Board of Estimate has been completely captured."

Asked if he thought he could have won if Mr. Hearst had not entered the field, he said it would hardly have been possible.

"We owe much to Mr. Hearst," he said. "Very great credit is due him for helping to secure the election of a Fusion ticket."

Mr. Bannard said Mr. Gaynor had wired him his thanks for his telegram of congratulations on Mr. Gaynor's election.

Congressman Bennet was asked about the possibility of Mr. Bannard being a Gubernatorial candidate.

"One campaign at a time," he replied, with a laugh. "No one could have made a better campaign than Mr. Bannard did. The success of the Fusion ticket was largely due to his presence on the ticket and the efforts of his friends. He comes out of this fight one of the State's big men."

In speaking of the election of Mr. Gaynor, Mr. Bennet said it was the duty of all citizens to help make his administration a success.

Commissioner of Accounts John Purroy Mitchel, President-elect of the Board of Aldermen, was at his office an hour earlier than usual yesterday morning. All day long a stream of people called upon him to offer felicitations.

"No," said the Commissioner in reply to a question, "I have not yet received word from Mayor-elect Gaynor to the effect that he intends to live up to his promise and refuse to serve because the Board of Estimate was selected from the Fusion ticket. I am still waiting. But, seriously, now that Mr. Gaynor has been elected, you may rest assured that if it is his intention to give the city a clean, business-like administration, instead of a purely partisan one, he will find the Fusion office holders in the board only too willing to support him in his efforts and to co-operate with him. It's up to him. We are determined to do our duty, as we understand it, and we are in such a position that we will be able to do it."

Mr. Mitchel gave credit yesterday to Mr. Hearst for his part in helping elect the Fusion Board of Estimate.

William M. Ivins, who managed Mr. Hearst's campaign, said last night that he thought the city owed a great debt of gratitude to Mr. Hearst.

"Although Mr. Gaynor has been elected Mayor," said Mr. Ivins, "Tammany has been completely beaten, and Mr. Murphy's political power ended. Tammany Hall will have to be reorganized on a cleaner and more decent basis, and there will have to be a thorough reorganization of the Republican Party in both Kings and Queens Counties.

"The City Government is now in safe hands, so far as concerns its financial future and its municipal development. To what extent it is in safe hands in respect of the heads of the administrative departments remains for Mr. Gaynor to demonstrate."

TREND AGAINST AMENDMENTS.

Scattering Returns So Far Received Are Generally Opposed.

The result of Tuesday's vote on the four proposed constitutional amendments and the Cayuga-Seneca Canal improvement proposition may not be known definitely for some time. Election Commissioner Charles B. Page said yesterday that the New York City returns would probably be in shape to-day, but only a few of the up-State counties have been heard from. So far as these go they show a strong trend against all the propositions, as will be seen from the following tabulation of the returns thus far received showing pluralities for or against them.

First amendment, fixing salaries of Supreme Court Justices at $10,000 each:

WOMEN DEFEAT A CANDIDATE.

Residents of Teaneck, N. J., Worked to Some Purpose Against George Sipp.

The women of Teaneck, N. J., who wore white ribbons and worked against the election of George A. Sipp, the Republican candidate for Freeholder, were rewarded at 3 o'clock yesterday morning when the last vote was counted and it was announced that Sipp had been beaten by 11 votes.

Teaneck usually gives a Republican majority of 200. The successful candidate, Wendell J. Andres, is also a Republican, but he ran independently, and was indorsed by the Democrats.

The women did not lay claim to being suffragettes or mixing with politics. Theirs was a moral issue, they said, based on the serious charges made by Miss Mary Coleman, a New York lawyer, against Sipp, who has a hotel in Harlem. Sipp is wealthy and has a fine home at Teaneck.

CONFESSES TO BRIDE HE'S NOT A MARQUIS

rived. Mr. Durlacher was waiting at his home to receive them, and, in a few words, he revealed the situation.

"Preposterous," declared the self-styled Marquis with spirit. "I have my passports and you have seen them. I am the real Marquis de Fauconcourt and Count d'Ollone. That Vicomte who says differently is misinformed. I am of another branch of the family."

"Ah, just as I expected," exclaimed Mr. Durlacher. "I shall set at rest right now these false reports."

Mr. Durlacher added that at his home there would be ample proof forthcoming to establish his son-in-law's right to the two titles.

"The Marquis has telegraphed for his trunk, in Atlantic City, which has his passports in it, and he will produce the papers and let you judge for yourself," remarked Mr. Durlacher. "I knew it would be all right."

The reporter went to the Durlacher home at 7:30 o'clock last evening. He was received by a slender young woman, fair haired and blue eyed.

"I am Mrs. d'Ollone, wife of the Marquis, and all this is a terrible shock to me," she said. "I don't know what to say to you. My father sent for my husband and me to come home to-day from Atlantic City. He told us of what the Vicomte d'Ollone had said—that my husband had falsely assumed the titles of Marquis and Count.

A Lace Handkerchief Appears.

"What the Vicomte d'Ollone says is true. My husband has admitted to me that he is no Marquis and no Count. Oh, it has all upset me."

The fair-haired young woman who thought, when she married, that she had become a Countess and a Marquise, hid her face in a tiny lace handkerchief.

After a pause Mrs. d'Ollone went on to tell of her husband's confession.

"After my father had left the room and we were together," she said, "I asked my husband what it all meant. I told him it looked queer to me that the Vicomte d'Ollone, of whom he had never spoken to me, should make such a charge against him if it were not true. I assured him I had every confidence in him, and could not love him less, but that I wanted him to confide in me if there was anything that he wished to say. He thought a moment and then said to me:

"'It is true. I bought the two titles. I was traveling through France a year or so ago and reached a town where an official told me, after some conversation, that he had two titles for sale. The family that once owned them was extinct, he told me, and I could have the titles if I paid enough for them. Money was no consideration with me. I had plenty of it. I thought it would be a lark to have the titles. I saw no harm in it. I bought them and my passports were made out. They are the ones I showed your father. I did not mean to do anything dishonorable. I had come to consider the titles mine, inasmuch as I had paid for them. When your father wanted proof of my assumption of the titles the passports were all there, ready for him. There is no use concealing the truth from you.'"

"I felt like crying," Mrs. d'Ollone continued. "It was not because I would have to give up the titles—I do not care for them. It was because I knew my father would be angry and my friends would be inclined to reprove me. I wanted to give way to tears, but I didn't. I realized then more than ever that I loved the man who had become my husband whether Marquis or not. I had given up another to marry him, and ours was a marriage of love.

Sent "Marquis" Out of the Country.

"The thought that came to my mind then was that my husband, when the truth came out, would have to face an avalanche of criticism. I told him he would have to leave town for a few days. He told me he was willing to do everything I suggested. We packed his suitcase and he left late this afternoon. By to-morrow he will be out of this country. I am not going to say where he has gone. He won't be back until I send word to him.

"Our plan was," Mrs. d'Ollone proceeded, "to stay in this country on our honeymoon for a week or so and then go abroad, where I expected to visit the estate of my husband. He has assured me that he has an estate in Besancon, France, and we will go there some day, but not now."

"And what does your father say of the confession your husband has made?" was asked.

"He accepts it philosophically," replied Mrs. d'Ollone. "He likes my husband, and I guess he realizes that others before my husband have bought titles. It's not a new thing, you know. My husband says it is quite a common occurrence in foreign countries. All that is needed is to find a vacant title and to have the money to buy it. At least, that's the way my husband explained it."

"After all," Mrs. d'Ollone exclaimed, "what difference does it make to the world? If I am willing to forgive my husband I am sure no one else need care. The poor fellow felt bad enough over it, and I couldn't help forgiving him. He told me he would go to the ends of the earth and let me forget him, but I would not have it so."

Mrs. d'Ollone informed the reporter that before her husband left town she went with him to the National City Bank, where he drew out a large sum of money, besides taking the stocks he deposited on his arrival in this country. The value of the stocks, she declared, was considerably over $25,000.

Mrs. d'Ollone met the self-styled Marquis de Fauconcourt, she said, less than a month ago while she was spending a vacation in the mountains. They fell in love at once, and the man proposed after an acquaintance of three days. The romance developed so quickly that, when Miss Durlacher returned home a week after their meeting, she informed her father that they were engaged to marry.

All they wanted was the elder Durlacher's consent, and this was forthcoming when he had convinced himself that his prospective son-in-law was a Marquis. It was not that Mr. Durlacher was so anxious to have a man of title in the family, his daughter explained, but that he wished to make certain that the suitor of his daughter's hand was all he pretended to be before he would agree to accept him as his son-in-law.

The couple had arranged with Mayor McClellan to marry them at the City Hall, but this plan was changed when a clerk in the Marriage Bureau suggested to Miss Durlacher that they would have to face a battery of cameras if they had the ceremony performed at such a public place.

This caused a delay in the plans, and so instead of being married on Saturday, as they had arranged with the Mayor, they decided to have the knot tied at Miss Durlacher's home, and the Alderman of the district was called in for the purpose. The ceremony was performed on Monday with only the immediate family to witness it, and that afternoon the bride and her supposed Marquis left for Atlantic City.

"There's a Reason"

REORGANIZATION IS THE DEMOCRATIC CRY

Election Results Put Saratoga Conferees in Great Good Humor.

THEIR COMMITTEE CALLED

And an Effort Will Be Made to Build Up the Democratic Party in the State Anew.

No tears are being shed by the old-line Democrats who took part in the Saratoga conference movement over the sweeping victory won by Fusion. They look upon the election of William J. Gaynor and the defeat of the rest of the Tammany ticket as a triumph for Democracy and a rebuke to Tammany Hall and the sort of politics and leadership that organization stands for.

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Democratic League, the organization launched at the Saratoga Conference, will be called within the next two days for some day next week. It will probably be held at the Manhattan Club, which has invited the new Democratic organization to make its temporary headquarters at its clubhouse. The call will be issued by Public Service Commissioner Thomas M. Osborne of Auburn, Chairman of the Executive Committee. The object of the meeting will be to organize and map out a programme for a general meeting, which under the resolutions adopted at Saratoga must be held before Dec. 1.

Aside from unmistakable indications furnished by the election results in this city and throughout the State of a strong disapproval of Tammany Hall and bossism generally, there are some other phases of the situation arising out of Tammany's defeat which are hailed with satisfaction by the leaders of the Democratic League. These may be summed up as follows:

Tammany's defeat will remove every danger of Charles F. Murphy dominating the next Democratic State Convention.

It has frustrated the threatened Tammany invasion of Brooklyn and opened the way for Brooklyn Democrats to inaugurate in their home county honest and responsible leadership, which may join hands with the up-State Democrats to check the influence of Tammany Hall in the Democratic Party, thus providing for a reasonable balance of power.

The rebuke administered to Tammany will, in all probability, lead to a readjustment within that organization, involving the dethronement of Murphy and the substitution of some leader under whom there will be such a radical change in Tammany methods and Tammany policy that the organization will again attract high-class independent Democrats whom the present leadership has alienated.

The leaders of the Democratic League, while fully alive to their opportunity, disavow any intentions hostile to Tammany, though they deplore both the disastrous consequences of Tammany's past policy, as evidenced in the election, and the methods which invited the disaster.

"Let the dead bury their dead; we will turn to the living," said one of the leaders in the Democratic rejuvenation movement yesterday. "Murphy's case is up to Tammany. Even had we the power to do so, we would be butt[illegible] should we try to mix in Tammany[illegible]fairs. I am quite certain that the organization will be able to take care of the situation."

It was said yesterday that ever since Mr. Murphy's friends tried to jam through the Board of Aldermen a Building Code harmful to Mr. Croker's business interests some men in the organization have been looking for Murphy's scalp, and that the defeat of the Tammany ticket would not be regarded by them as an unmixed evil if it should furnish the dynamite to displace Murphy from his present power. It is not thought that the presence of Mr. Croker in this country will tend to cool the resentment of his friends.

While, however, the Democrats who would like to see a rejuvenated Tammany go with a rejuvenated State Democracy believe that the Tammany situation will take care of itself, it is admitted that the situation in Brooklyn ought to be looked after. Nevertheless, Democratic politics in Kings, following the death of Senator McCarren, hang on too sensitive a balance just now to permit of much frank discussion by persons who are seeking to avert disastrous rivalries in reference to the succession.

Edward M. Shepard, who is regarded as the probable State leader of the Democratic League, was asked by THE TIMES reporter to say what hope the election results in this city and State had brought to the old-line Democrats and particularly for his views in regard to the Brooklyn leadership.

"I am afraid I must ask you to excuse me," said Mr. Shepard. "Such matters require much thought, and when it comes to politics I am a very slow thinker."

Ex-Justice Augustus Van Wyck, when the same request was put to him, said he was too busy practicing law to discuss politics. Mr. Van Wyck is a member of the Provisional Committee that took up the burden of leadership in Brooklyn when Senator McCarren dropped out. Until John H. McCooey was defeated for the Borough Presidency he was being regarded by the Brooklyn Democrats who followed McCarren as the logical successor of the dead leader.

DEMOCRATS GAIN FIVE IN ASSEMBLY

As Result of Changes Both Ways Republican Majority Is Reduced to 38.

ONE DISTRICT IS TIED

Defeat of Republicans in Several Cases Attributed to Activities of Direct Primaries Association.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Nov. 3.—Complete returns on the Assembly elections throughout the State show a net gain of five seats for the Democrats. The next Assembly will be composed of 94 Republicans and 56 Democrats, as against 99 Republicans and 51 Democrats in the present Legislature, if the election of L. J. Neupert, Dem., in the Third Erie District is confirmed.

The early returns indicated Neupert's election by 80 plurality. The official count, according to reports received to-day, gave 4,991 votes for Neupert and exactly the same number for George J. Arnold, his Republican opponent. If this tie stands the contest will have to be decided by the Assembly itself when it convenes, and as the lower house will have a Republican majority it is probable that Arnold will be seated.

On the revised figures these other changes from last night's returns were recorded to-day:

In Delaware County, where Henry A. Gates (Rep.) had been declared elected on last night's returns, the revised figures to-day gave the election to James R. Stevenson, the Democratic nominee, who was supported by the Direct Primaries League and the Prohibitionists, by a majority of 68.

In Steuben County, where the Democrats last night claimed the election of Clarence Willis in the First District, corrected figures showed that John L. Miller, the Republican nominee, had been re-elected by less than 100 majority.

In Genesee County the complete returns to-day gave the election to E. M. Crocker, (Dem.,) who made his campaign on the direct primaries issue, over Frederick B. Parker, the Republican nominee.

The most startling change from Republican to Democratic in up-State counties, is reflected, perhaps, in the result of the election in Sullivan County, where John K. Evans, Dem., carried the district by a majority of 976 over Jay Davidson, his Republican opponent. Evans is the first Democrat to be elected from this county in eighteen years, or since Dr. George M. Beaker won an Assembly seat by a majority of one.

Democratic gains were made in five districts of New York City, in Clinton, Dutchess, Delaware, Genesee, Greene, Onondaga, Ontario, Orleans, Seneca, Steuben and Sullivan counties. The Republicans won eight districts in New York City and in the counties of Fulton and Hamilton, Orange and Schuyler. In Niagara County each district reversed itself, the First returning a Republican in place of a Democrat, and the Second electing a Democrat to succeed a Republican.

The Direct Primaries' Association of the State of New York claims credit for many of the reverses suffered by Republicans, and its leaders are jubilant over the result. They claim to have elected at least fifty sure-enough direct primaries enthusiasts to the Assembly, where the Hinman-Green Direct Nominations bill was killed at the last session by a vote of 112 to 28.

TO CONTEST NUGENT'S SEAT.

Joseph Linhart a druggist, of 1,312 First Avenue, who was the Fusion and Civic Alliance candidate for Alderman in the Eighteenth District, and on the face of the returns was defeated by J. J. Nugent, the Tammany candidate, announced yesterday that he would contest Nugent's right to the seat on the ground that he would have been elected if his name had appeared on the Civic Alliance ticket, as it should have appeared.

Mr. Linhart, as a Fusionist, received on Tuesday more than 1,400 votes. He had expected also to have his name on the Civic Alliance ticket, and for this purpose his friends got up a petition of 563 signers, which was filed with the Board of Elections. On examination of these names, however, it was found that eighty had previously been used by the Gaynor nominators for the nomination of Mr. Nugent, and as this left Mr. Linhart, under the ruling of Justice Davis, but 483 signers on his petition, his name was not put on the ballot under the Civic Alliance emblem.

GIVES PEARY MEDAL AS POLE DISCOVERER

National Geographic Society Board Satisfied He Reached Farthest North April 6, 1909.

FULL RECORD IN HIS NOTES

Medal Also for Bartlett—Committee of Experts to Investigate Other Polar Claims, Sparing No Expense.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The Board of Managers of the National Geographic Society this morning unanimously voted its confidence in Commander Robert E. Peary's report that he reached the north pole on April 6, 1909. The board then voted a gold medal to Commander Peary in commemoration of his successful efforts in the cause of science and another medal of gold to Capt. Bartlett, the veteran navigator of the Roosevelt.

The resolution adopted by the board in regard to Commander Peary's great feat of exploration makes no mention of Dr. Cook. It recognizes the fact that Dr. Cook says he reached the pole prior to April 6, 1909, however, in a clause recommending to the Committee on Research that a sub-committee be appointed to examine the data of other persons claiming to have reached the pole.

Those who voted the unanimous approval of the report are President Willis L. Moore, Vice President Henry Gannett, Secretary O. P. Austin, Treasurer John Joy Edson, Gilbert H. Grosvenor, Prof. Alexander Graham Bell, Admiral C. M. Chester, Charles J. Bell, Rudolph Kauffman, Brig. Gen. John M. Wilson, U. S. A., retired, T. L. MacDonald, M. D., Prof. J. Howard Gore of George Washington University, Henry F. Blount, David Fairchild, and F. V. Colville.

The meeting of the Board of Managers lasted over two hours. The sub-committee, consisting of Henry Gannett, Admiral Chester, and Dr. O. H. Tittmann, after examining Mr. Peary's records in the explorer's presence on Monday, drew up its report yesterday. This report, which was submitted to the Board of Managers to-day and unanimously adopted, is as follows:

> The sub-committee to which was referred the task of examining the records of Commander Peary in evidence of his having reached the north pole beg to report that they have completed their task.
>
> Commander Peary has submitted to this sub-committee his original journal and records of observations, together with all of his instruments and apparatus and certain of the most important of the scientific results of his expedition. These have been carefully examined by your sub-committee, and they are unanimously of the opinion that Commander Peary reached the north pole April 6, 1909.
>
> They also feel warranted in stating that the organization, planning, and management of the expedition, its complete success, and its scientific results reflect the greatest credit on the ability of Commander Robert E. Peary and render him worthy of the highest honors that the National Geographic Society can bestow upon him.

Prof. Willis L. Moore, President of the society, said to-night that the proofs submitted by Peary and examined by the sub-committee were absolutely conclusive. On the committee, he said, were friends of Dr. Cook, but the data were examined on their merits, and every member of the committee was convinced that no loophole for error had been made. Not only did the committee see the several notebooks on which the Commander had jotted his observations and memoranda, but the instruments with which he made his observations were closely scrutinized by the scientists.

Peary Notes Complete Record.

The notebooks, said Mr. Moore, make a complete and consecutive scientific account of the trip to the pole. Commander Peary's presence in Washington was for the purpose, said Mr. Moore, of allowing him to explain abbreviated statements in his notes, for filling in the narrative, and for clearing up details not sufficiently clear from the notes.

The most important point from the standpoint of the investigating committee, after it was evident that Mr. Peary had certainly come within speaking distance of the pole, was to make sure that no error in calculation might have determined him to start home before actually reaching his destination. On that point, said the professor, Commander Peary's personal explanations cleared up every doubt.

The committee realized that the instruments might vary in their findings for a distance perhaps of somewhere inside a mile. To show that Mr. Peary had actually either stood on the pole or else had walked around it, he showed the sub-committee on a map stretched before them a diagram of the positions from which he had taken his observations at the northern limit of his journey and gave the exact record of the instruments at each point.

In this way at four points within a small circuit Commander Peary took and verified his observations. The instruments, of course, do not record the actual position of a point, owing to slight unavoidable variations, but from the diagram Mr. Peary made on the map with a pencil the committee was convinced that the explorer must have passed within a few hundred yards of the pole if he did not actually walk over it.

As to the fact that Commander Peary came within a very short distance of the pole the committee did not need the Commander's own record or data. They had, on the word of men able to take observations on their own account, stories of the trip northward of the Peary party up to two or three marches from the pole. There are four of these signed supplementary statements, each made out by a member of the party carrying the annals of the expedition as far north as the point where the members in question turned south again.

The last two of these supplementary witnesses to turn back were Capt. Bartlett and Prof. Marvin. Prof. Marvin was drowned while returning, but his statement, carrying the expedition further north than ever before, (unless Dr. Cook's claim is accepted,) was in the hands of the committee. The last account came from Capt. Bartlett, whose experience as a skilled navigator is such that he can himself make the needed observations. The Peary party was, when Bartlett left it, almost within striking distance of the pole.

Greatest Geographical Achievement.

In voting the gold medal to Commander Peary the Board of Managers, in a resolution, set forth that it did so, realizing that Mr. Peary's successful expedition "is the greatest geographical achievement that this society can have opportunity to honor." The resolution then goes on: "In view of the able seamanship, pertinacious effort, and able management, Capt. C. A. Bartlett displayed during his Peary antarctic expedition of 1909-10, and that he reached the high latitude of 87 degrees 40 minutes north, he will be awarded a medal by the National Geographic Society."

The part of the resolution referring by inference to Dr. Cook's claims is as follows:

> The question of whether or not any one reached the pole prior to 1909 shall be referred to the Committee on Research, with instructions to recommend to the Board of Managers a sub-committee of experts, who shall have authority to send for papers or make such journeys as may be necessary to inspect original records, and that this action of the society be communicated at once to those who may have evidence of importance.

Commander Peary was not in Washington to hear the decision of the board, having left for his home, in Maine, carrying his data with him, immediately following his appearance before the sub-committee on Monday. He will return to Washington this month to lecture before the full society. The date for the lecture has not been fixed definitely, but it will probably be about Nov. 12.

"We will appoint a committee of experts," said Prof. Moore, discussing the plans of the society, "to look into the claims of other explorers, and in our efforts to get the truth before the society's membership of 50,000, we will spare no expense. The sub-committee will have instructions to examine proofs of explorers no matter where they are to be found."

Commander Peary has occasioned some comment in navy circles by his failure to call at the Navy Department during his visit here. Technically, however, Commander Peary is now on detached service with the Geodetic Survey, and his failure to report is not in violation of anything but custom.

PEARY DEEPLY GRATIFIED.

Explorer and Family Will Move to Washington Next Week.

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 3.—"I am extremely gratified at the action of the Board of Managers of the National Geographic Society and greatly appreciate the honor which they have conferred upon me in voting the medal," said Commander Peary when informed of the action of the society to-day.

When questioned about the comment on the fact that he did not call at the Navy Department while in Washington, Commander Peary said he arrived in Washington late in the forenoon, went before the sub-committee of the National Geographic Society immediately after luncheon, was with the committee until after the department closed, and was obliged to leave for New York on the midnight train.

Commander Peary and his family will move to their Washington residence next week, closing their Summer home at Eagle Island.

IS THE TURK YELLOW?

Court Must Decide Question for the State Department.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The question of granting naturalization to Turkish subjects is for the determination of competent courts. This is the attitude of the State Department as defined in a statement issued to-day, and is taken to indicate that the department is not prepared to accept without question the conclusion of the Bureau of Naturalization of the Department of Commerce and Labor that Turkish subjects are not entitled to naturalization.

The recent ruling of Chief Richard K. Campbell of the Bureau of Naturalization that Syrians and their racial kindred who are Turkish subjects are yellow, not white, and that they were barred, therefore, from naturalization under existing law, called forth a public statement of protest from the Ottoman Charge d'Affaires a few days ago. The State Department's view is that Turkey is responsible, in large measure, for the situation that has arisen.

According to the view held by the race experts of the Smithsonian Institution, the Syrians, a large portion of the Armenians, the Arabs, Semitics, and dwellers of Northern Africa, such as the Egyptians, notwithstanding the fact that the hot sun in that climate has tanned their skins, are as much a part of the white race as any blonde white man can be.

WARM FAREWELL TO WHITE.

Many Officials at Station When Ambassador Leaves for America.

PARIS, Nov. 3.—American Ambassador White, who sailed for the United States from Cherbourg to-day, had an impressive farewell at the railroad station here. Those present included, in addition to prominent members of the American colony, A. Mollard, personal representative of President Fallieres, Foreign Minister Pichon, and others of the Cabinet; M. Pallain, Governor of the Bank of France; Prince von Radolin, German Ambassador to France, and other diplomats of Europe and South America.

Mrs. White, who accompanied the Ambassador, shared with him the sentiments of good will expressed.

ALMOST AT TOP OF MT. KENIA.

Members of Roosevelt Party Reach Estimated Height of 16,500 Feet.

NAIROBI, British East Africa, Nov. 3.—J. Alden Loring and Major Edward A. Mearns of the Roosevelt party returned here to-day from their expedition to Mt. Kenia. They ascended the mountain to an estimated height of 16,500 feet, reaching the highest point possible to attain without alpenstocks. This was within 700 feet of the summit.

They collected specimens of more than 2,000 birds and mammals, and made many photographs of the mountain. Both are well.

NO PARTY NOMINEES IN BOSTON ELECTIONS

New Plan Adopted Provides for Nominations Only by Petitions of 5,000 Citizens.

FIRST ELECTION ON JAN. 11

Six Candidates for Mayor Already Announced—Draper's Plurality in Massachusetts Barely Above 8,000.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Nov. 3.—A remarkable plan for city elections was adopted yesterday by the voters of Boston. Party conventions are abolished and with them it is hoped to eliminate partisanship in municipal affairs. The plan will be tried in an election on Jan. 11.

Two plans of choosing executive and legislative officers of the city were referred to the voters by the last Legislature. Plan No. 2 was adopted by a majority of 3,000 out of a vote of 74,000. Under this candidates for the Mayoralty and for seats in the City Council will be nominated by petition. These petitions must each be signed by 5,000 voters. Members of the School Committee will also be nominated by petition.

Under the new order of things the next Mayor will hold the office for four years unless at the end of two years a majority of the registered voters should decide to recall him. It would be almost impossible, however, to get more than half of the entire registered vote to insist on a recall when only about 80 per cent. of the total vote is usually cast.

There will be a City Council, with a single chamber, of nine members. The terms of three of the members will expire every year. All of the members are to be elected at large.

By the new plan the date of the city election is changed from December to Jan. 11, and the inauguration of the Mayor and the first City Council under the new charter will take place on Feb. 7.

Under the charter the Mayor's salary will continue at $10,000 per annum, and the nine Councilmen will receive $1,500 each. All department heads appointed by the Mayor will be subject to certification by the Civil Service Commission instead of being confirmed by the Council. The Street Commissioner, heretofore elected, will be appointed by the Mayor, subject to civil service certification.

The Legislature acted on the earnest request of a large number of business men when it completely revised the method of conducting the affairs of the city. A permanent Finance Commission was established, the members of which were appointed by the Governor. There were many other important provisions which also went into immediate effect.

With the adoption of the new election plan the Mayoralty contest began in earnest to-day. Already nomination papers have been taken out in the interest of Mayor George A. Hibbard of Ward 24, ex-Mayor John A. Fitzgerald of Ward 24, Frederick J. Brand of Ward 20, Chairman of the present Board of Aldermen; ex-City Collector Nathaniel H. Taylor of Ward 11, J. Henry Duckery, a negro, of the South End, and Dennis F. Mahoney of Ward 9.

The rush for nomination papers for the Council was even greater than for Mayor. Many of the present members of the City Government are to be candidates.

No matter how many candidates there may be a plurality will elect.

Revised figures compiled to-day on yesterday's State election for Governor and Lieutenant Governor show only slight changes. The results are:

For Governor—Eben S. Draper, (Rep.,) 190,045; James H. Vahey, (Dem.,) 181,953. Draper's plurality, 8,092. His plurality last year was more than 60,000.

For Lieutenant Governor—Louis A. Frothingham, (Rep.,) 188,272; Eugene N. Foss, (Dem.,) 181,562. Frothingham's plurality, 6,710, as against 90,000 last year.

The Democrats also made gains in the Legislature and to-day some of them went even so far as to predict the defeat two years hence of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge.

TCHAYKOVSKY NOT ARRESTED.

So at Least Russian Revolutionist's Daughter in London Hears.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Barbara Tchaykovsky, daughter of the Russian revolutionist, whose release from prison pending his trial for his activities against absolutism, was accomplished some months ago, and who was last night reported rearrested, was seen at her home at Harrow to-night. Miss Tchaykovsky said that the only intimation of her father's arrest she had was conveyed in the St. Petersburg dispatch in this morning's papers. Since then from another source she had heard that the report was incorrect.

She has, she said, received only two days ago a letter from her father, dated St. Petersburg, Oct. 26, in which he said that he was busily engaged in preparations for his defense for the forthcoming trial, and asking her to get some material data regarding his movements at certain dates. He made no mention of any fear of rearrest.

MRS. CLEWS, JR., ASKS DIVORCE

Incompatibility of Artistic Ambitions Given as the Cause.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 3.—Mrs. Henry Clews, Jr., who before her first marriage to Frederick Gebhardt was Miss Louise Morris, has separated from her young painter husband.

Mr. Clews arrived in New York yesterday with his mother, who had gone to Europe in an attempt to reconcile her son and his wife. Mrs. Clews has remained in Paris with her two children. It is understood that the separation is final and a divorce willl be the outcome of the difficulty.

Mrs. John Chester Backus Pendleton, formerly Miss Mildred Morris, a sister of Mrs. Clews, declined to-day at her home here to discuss the reasons for the prospective divorce.

"You can understand my position in the matter," said Mrs. Pendleton. "I am sorry not to be able to tell you what you want to know. I will admit, however, that the separation is final and that a divorce will probably be the result."

Although no definite reason is given for the intended divorce, it is understood that Mr. and Mrs. Clews were not congenial. Their temperaments were "out of harmony" so their friends say, and society has long been hearing rumors of the contemplated separation.

Mr. Clews, it is declared, could not quite sympathize with the ambitions of his wife. He regretted his wife's penchant for society, and deplored her devotion to the sensational. Mrs. Clews, on the other hand, disliked her husband's fondness for the artistic bohemian life.

At Bar Harbor recently were many stories of disagreements, and from Paris came other tales of clashes. Mr. Clews is reported to have done such unconventional things as appearing at a formal dinner given by his wife in his artist's smock, daubed with painter's colors and clay. Sometimes, it is said, he would bring his Quartier Latin friends into his wife's correct drawing room. Once, when she gave a dinner party, he is said to have dressed as a butler to wait on the guests.

COURT HEARS STORY OF MME. STEINHEIL

Paris Ablaze with Excitement When Trial Begins—$200 for Seat in the Courtroom.

STANDS BY HER FIRST TALE

Accused Woman Says Three Men Murdered Husband and Stepmother—Auto-Suggestion Prompted Other Statements.

PARIS Nov. 3.—Not since 1902, when Frederic and Therese Humbert were convicted of a $12,000,000 swindle, has a trial in Paris excited the intense interest exhibited in the case of Mme. Steinheil, which was opened before Judge de Valles in the Seine Assize Court to-day. Mme. Steinheil is on trial for her life, charged with the murder of her husband and her stepmother, Mme. Japy, who were strangled to death in Steinheil's house May 21, 1908. The alleged motive is found in the defendant's hatred for her stepmother and a desire to rid herself of the husband, in order that she might marry Maurice Borderel, a wealthy merchant, who had become infatuated with her.

To-day during her examination, which was dramatic, Mme. Steinheil protested her innocence, and declared repeatedly that her original account of the crime to the effect that it had been committed by three men dressed in long flowing coats, with the assistance of a red-haired woman, was true.

She explained the stories told by her subsequently, in which she accused various persons, on the ground that she was in a nervous condition at the time and the victim of auto-suggestion on the part of journalists, police officers, and others.

The talents and atractiveness of the woman combined with the mystery of her career and her connections with persons high in the public life of France, have fed the popular imagination and led the public to believe that the most startling disclosures in the further process of the case are imminent.

Judge de Vales had received 25,000 applications for seats in the courtroom, but arbitrarily refused all with the exception of those made for members of the press, the bar, and others directly concerned with the trial. To these were added the first 100 persons who were standing in line this morning seeking admission to the courtroom. The law provides for public admission to the trial of any case not heard in camera, and the admission of the 100 mentioned met this requirement of the law to-day.

In the hope of securing one of these coveted places many men and women stood before the court entrance throughout last night, and places of vantage in the line commanded as high as $200. In refusing the many applications for seats Judge de Valles declared that he did not propose to tolerate a repetition of previous scandals by turning the present proceedings into a music hall performance.

Most of to-day's session was occupied with the selection of a jury and the reading of the indictment, the examination of the prisoner beginning late in the afternoon.

YOU can build real strength and energy on Campbell's Soups.

They are condensed and meaty and full-flavored. Our meat stock is made from fresh prime Government-inspected beef and mutton. And this broth is so concentrated that if we allow it to cool and jell in the cauldron it will hold up a weight of 150 pounds. Our poultry is choice and fresh. And the finest vegetables that grow are used in

Campbell's SOUPS

These are brought to us fresh and tender from the famous market-gardens of New Jersey; and made into soup the same day.

Although Campbell's Soups are very rich they are perfectly delicate—free from grease or fat; and extremely easy to digest. Try them and prove for yourself how good they are. If not satisfied the grocer returns your money.

OLD-TIME CIRCUS ON THE ASTOR ROOF

Horses and All the Features of a Ring Performance Will Be There.

SIDE SHOWS IN A MIDWAY

Entertainment Ten Stories Up Is Exclusively for the Delegates to a Millinery Trade Convention.

An old-fashioned circus under a canvas tent 200 feet long will be given to-night on the roof of the Hotel Astor. Vaudeville performances on roofs are usual in the vicinity of Times Square, but never has a circus gone up ten stories for a production.

The innovation is under the auspices of the Millinery Jobbers' Association, whose eighteenth semi-annual convention begins to-day at the hotel, and will continue until Saturday night. The circus will not be for the public, but for the members of the association and their wives. They come from all the big cities east of the Rockies, including Chicago.

There will be no elephants, but there will be horses, ponies, and monkeys a-plenty. The quadrupeds which were laid down yesterday at the arisship landing on the roof of the hotel were taken there by means of derricks and elevators.

Not only will there be the arena of sawdust with a dashing ringmaster, but there will be side shows on a sort of midway.

Attention will be given to refreshments. An Italian with a steam roaster will serve fresh roasted peanuts. An organ grinder, with his monkey, will entertain the crowd outside of the tents. Red lemonade will be on tap, for no circus is complete without red lemonade.

The programme will consist of comedy jugglers, performing ponies, cats and dogs, acrobats and trick horses, with a few aerial feats and one-ring features between times.

One of the attractions promised in the midway is a lecture by a person rigged out to represent Dr. Cook, the arctic explorer. As an inducement to get the spectators into his tent a barker will be employed, and as a further inducement the person representing Dr. Cook will tell part of his story, the continuation to be given inside the tent. This story will prove that there is no life at the north pole except that of the whifflekoop, a strange bird which has wings but makes a noise like a frog. Dr. Cook's case will be proved by argument, in which the audience may take part.

The circus will give nightly performances until Saturday Between convention times the members will lunch in the east ballroom and enjoy sightseeing rides throughout the city. There will be additional ladies' functions, theatre parties, and informal receptions, with a big banquet on Friday night in the north ballroom.

The out-of-town members, who represent the wealthy millinery jobbers, number several hundred. Many of them arrived at the Astor last night.

The circus entertainment was arranged by A. M. Guinzburg of this city, Chairman of the Entertainment Committee of the association.

SKELETON IN THE GARDEN.

Dug Up During Excavation for New House at Greenwich.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., Nov. 3.—While excavating for the foundation of a house for Percy Tuthill on land formerly owned by William Rockefeller to-day, workmen found a human skeleton.

Dr. John A. Clarke declared that the skeleton was that of a man, and that it had probably been buried about thirty years. The man must have been about six feet tall. It lay only eighteen inches below the surface.

ASKS A MILLION FOR EMMANUEL COLLEGE

Dr. Worcester, Founder of the Emmanuel Movement, Says an Educational Centre Is Needed.

WILL TRAIN MEN FOR WORK

Suggestion That the New Institution May Be Elected in This City or Chicago.

The Rev. Dr. Elwood Worcester of Boston, founder of the Emmanuel Movement, or healing mission chiefly identified with the Episcopal Church, is authority for the statement that the movement stands in need of an educational centre, and that some friends have already been found who promise to help make it possible. It is said that $1,000,000 can be used for such college, but that a much smaller sum will make a beginning.

The purpose is to provide a place where students of medicine, theology, and sociology may work together, and thus build up what Dr. Worcester thinks the movement proves the need for—specially trained men competent to practice. Efforts have not been made heretofore to propagate the movement, it being felt by its founders that it has merit and will extend itself. Recently a permanent start was made in San Francisco, following a visit of the founder and one of his assistants.

A periodical intended solely to discuss and present the movement is to be established, with headquarters in Chicago. It will be called The Emmanuel Movement Bulletin, and it is said its financial backing is ample. At first the founder of the movement was criticised severely by ministers of his own religious body for bringing healing of bodily ills into his Church.

Such criticism is said by Dr. Worcester to have astonished him almost beyond belief. He says, however, that it has largely passed away, since it comes to be seen that the Gospel is not exclusively for the well. The founder of it believes that the movement is now upon a secure basis, and he has no doubt, he says, that soon he will have the educational centre he needs. The location of it will not of necessity be in Boston. It is likely to be in either New York or Chicago.

ASKS NEW TRIAL FOR BRITTON.

District Attorney Meets Arguments and Court Reserves Decision.

Decision was reserved on the motion yesterday for a new trial for Col. Edward E. Britton and ex-Quarantine Commissioner Frederick E Schroeder. District Attorney Clarke opposed the motion, contending that the alleged new evidence upon which the convicted banker and his associate asked for a new trial was not new evidence at all.

Arguments were heard by Justice Thomas in Special Term of the Supreme Court.

Lawyer Hill argued that his clients should have been allowed to go on the stand, which their former counsel, ex-Senator Thomas G. Whitlock, would not permit, and their failure to do so, he believed, materially helped to bring about their conviction.

District Attorney Clarke said the defendants had practically admitted that they had control of the stolen funds and that the Court of Appeals had decided to that effect. Mr. Clarke concluded that the Court of Appeals had made a final determination of the case by refusing to grant the defendants a certificate of reasonable doubt.

DELAYS NORTH DAKOTA TRIAL.

Bad Weather Again Causes Postponement of Test for Battleship.

ROCKLAND, Maine, Nov. 3.—The standardization trial of the battleship North Dakota was postponed a second time to-day because of bad weather. Although it was raining hard, the battleship went out to the course and covered three-quarters of a mile, but it was found impossible to continue the trials.

After remaining at anchor for several hours, waiting for the weather to clear, the North Dakota returned to the harbor. Another effort at a trial will be made tomorrow.

Seize Lottery Tickets in Porto Rico.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Nov. 3.—The Porto Rican police to-day seized 2,700 lottery tickets, which had been received here by steamer from Santo Domingo. The introduction of lottery tickets in Porto Rico continues, but the authorities are making strong efforts to prohibit the monthly importations.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 3.—Yesterday's report that Nicholas Tschaïkovsky, the revolutionary leader, had been arrested, and imprisoned was incorrect.

BERLIN, Nov. 3.—Emperor William will open the Reichstag on Nov. 30 with the speech from the throne.

PEKING, Nov. 3.—An impressive state funeral was held to-day for Chang-Chih-Tung, the Chinese Grand Councillor, who died on Oct. 5. Later the funeral procession started for Tientsin.

BOY CONFESSES TO MURDER.

After Retracting First Acknowledgment of Guilt, Tells Story of Crime.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 3.—The police have been thrown into a quandary by a new confession from Alva Coan, 17 years old, that he murdered little Alexander Hoenig two years ago. The boy first confessed to the murder Monday. That night he retracted when the police accused him of fabricating the story. To-day in his room at the Boys' Detention Home he wrote a lengthy description of the crime, and addressed it to Juvenile Judge Addams.

He enticed the child, he said, into an alleyway.

"I asked him if he had money," wrote Coan. "He said 'No.' I started to search him, and he screamed. Then I stooped down and picked up a handful of shavings and rubbed them over his face. I let him drop to the floor and walked out. I walked around for three-quarters of an hour and came back, thinking he had got up and gone home.

"I saw him lying there and I got scared. I felt his heart. It was not beating. Then I staggered, caught myself without falling; a cold sweat broke out all over my body. I shook like a leaf. I knew he was dead, and my next impulse was to conceal the body. I picked him up, threw him into the barrel head first. Then I climbed over fences till I was three doors from there."

The boy said he had not been able to sleep through a night since the crime.

The autopsy on the body of the Hoenig child showed that he had been choked to death with sawdust and shavings.

BADLY HURT SAVING BROTHERINRUNAWAY

Lad at Horse's Head Hangs on Until Wild Dash Ends in a Crash.

A CHILD WAS IN THE WAGON

He Was Thrown Over a Fence and Stunned, but Otherwise Unhurt at the Finish.

Nine-year-old Harold Larsen, whose parents have a house at 414 Forty-eighth Street, Bay Ridge, was a proud youngster yesterday afternoon, when Samuel Burgkowsky, driver for Samuel Auslander, the Larsen grocer, ran into the shop at 4,713 Fifth Avenue to get some more orders and left Harold to hold the reins over the big delivery wagon horse. Harold, for weeks, had ridden daily with the grocer's boy, and some times he had held the end of the reins while Burgkowsky drove, but it was a real treat to sit alone in the wagon with the lines in his hands.

An automobile passed by with a toot of its horn to drive some children out of the street ahead. Instantly the big grocery horse gave a jump and started down Fifth Avenue at full speed.

The sudden start threw Harold onto his back in the wagon, but he didn't drop the lines, and presently he crawled back to the seat and pulled with all his might. Probably he pulled on one rein only, for the horse, still running at top speed, turned into Forty-eighth Street past the Larsen home.

Ahead in the street a crowd of boys were playing. They heard the sound of the galloping horse, looked up to see him almost upon them, and fled to the sidewalk for safety. Herbert, Jr., three years older than his brother Harold, was in the crowd. From his seat on the swaying, jouncing wagon Harold saw him.

"Bert! Bert!" he shouted. "Help me"

Herbert was already safely on the steps of his house, out of the way of the runaway, when he heard the cry. He turned around at his brother's voice, saw the little chap, and then his own small legs fairly flew as they carried him back into the street directly into the path of the speeding horse.

By a lucky jump the youngster caught the flying bridle of the runaway and clung to it with all his might. His small body was swung off the ground and the fore hoofs of the galloping horse scraped his legs. He held on, however, till at Fourth Avenue the horse swung around the corner, ran on the sidewalk, and crashed head on into the tall iron fence surrounding the Fourth Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church.

Harold was sent flying off the seat over the fence, where he landed on a grassplot, stunned for a moment, but otherwise unhurt. Herbert was crushed between the horse's body and the iron palings, and when half a dozen men grabbed the horse by the head and pulled him away the boy dropped senseless on the sidewalk.

Dr. Carr was called from the Norwegian Hospital, and he said that Herbert's skull was fractured, and that he had been injured internally. He took him to the hospital, and his brother with him, although Harold was allowed to go home when his father and mother came to get him. Herbert was put in a ward, and it is feared that he is very dangerously hurt.

Only 27 Election Prisoners Held.

Out of 242 prisoners arraigned in the seven police courts of the city yesterday for violation of the election laws, only twenty-seven were held, twenty-two of these being bound over for examination, and five held for General Sessions. The West Side Police Court had the largest number of arraignments, fifty-six.

A New "Nemo" Corset

Self-Reducing, No. 405

Stout Women! Attention!

The greatest "reducing" corset ever made is the new Nemo No. 405. It has two new features of great value:

FIRST—The new Nemo "Relief Bands" (an improvement over the Relief Straps), which are extra wide and strong, and perfectly support the abdomen from underneath.

SECOND—A newly-invented long skirt effect, coming well around to the front, which produces tremendous reduction of upper limbs as well as back and hips. But this pressure ceases when you sit down, and you feel as if you had no corset on.

No. 405 { for tall and medium figures } $4.00
No. 404 { for short stout figures } $4.00

No. 404 is for very stout women, and comes in sizes up to 42—the largest ready-made corset made. It has Relief Bands and the Nemo "Flatning-Back."

The Fashionable Answer to the Walking Coat Question

With so many novelties in Coats before her, the discriminating woman may be in doubt about the choice of a new "Walker" that will meet her fashionable demands as well as those of practical utility.

We have given the matter special thought and in this collection we offer the models which, by gradual elimination, we find to be MOST FAVORED for Winter. They are just out of the workrooms of a famous Fifth Avenue couturier whose product goes into the highest class shops in the States.

There are four hundred Coats and they came to us under conditions that make a very special price possible.

Trade Secrets About $3.50 Footwear

We could tell you many trade "secrets," but as they will all lead you to Greenhut's we'll just "tattle" one or two, enough to show you we KNOW there are no better $3.50 shoes in America than ours—VERY FEW AS GOOD.

One of the best known and universally advertised $3.50 Shoes are, according to advertising, "cut by hand."

Wonderful! They ARE cut by hand, and so are our $1.95 Basement shoes, and ALL our shoes, and ALL THE SHOES IN NEW YORK CITY AT ANY PRICE, excepting perhaps the laborer's brogans!

Shoes MUST be cut by hand—it's the BEST way to cut them, the only good way, and the CHEAPEST for the manufacturer.

It would take MILLIONS OF MONEY to make dies to cut shoes by machinery, and as there are so many sizes, and as styles pass often in a few months, the dies would soon be fit for nothing but the scrap heap. OF COURSE SHOES ARE CUT BY HAND.

Again: "Shoes in quarter sizes."

There is NO SUCH THING as a quarter size in shoes. There is no need for them. At present there are 6 sizes to the inch and 7 widths to each size, making 42 sizes to every inch! Do you think your feet need a smaller margin than that?

Our shoes, like all good shoes, are in half sizes, and we've never seen a normal foot that we could not "fit to the dot."

HERE'S THE WORST: "There are no better $3.50 shoes than these WE MAKE and sell."

Well, the "MAKER" we have in mind, with "stores in every city," DOES NOT MAKE ONE-THIRD of the Women's Shoes he sells under the stamp of his name.

They are made in several of the large factories, where ANY dealer can buy the shoes. WE BOUGHT SEVERAL OF THE SAME SHOES AND SELL THEM REGULARLY FOR $3.00.

The correct and logical deduction is that Greenhut's $3.50 shoes are several grades better han this "hand cut," "quarter size" internationally famous shoe at $3.50.

THIS IS THE POINT WE WISH TO MAKE—that when we tell you that the Greenhut merchandising methods, quality standards and price policy all lean strongly to the ADVANTAGE OF THE CONSUMER, we have FACTS and FIGURES that will support us.

At Greenhut's you will find THE BEST $3.50 footwear for women in America.

BLOWS AND KICKS IN TRAINING SCHOOL

More Witnesses Tell of Ill-Treatment of Boys in Brooklyn Institution.

ONE BOY CUT IN THE HEAD

Telephone Company Employe Saw a Keeper Boot a Lad and Strike Him with His Fist.

More accounts of brutality to children in the Brooklyn Disciplinary Training School were given by witnesses before the Special Investigating Commission of the State Board of Charities yesterday. From what they said it was no unusual occurrence that boys were kicked in the sides and struck in the face by a keeper's fist.

George Botticher, an employe of the New York Telephone Company, described a scene witnessed by him when he was sent by his company to install a switchboard in the school two weeks ago. The present investigation, he remarked, was then going on. It was on Monday, Oct. 25, he said, to be exact.

"I was standing on a ladder against the barn. The boys were being formed in line by their keepers in the schoolyard. A little colored boy excited the wrath of one of the keepers somehow. The keeper drew back his leg and shot his foot into the boy's back. He sent the boy flying."

The telephone man also told of an assault on a boy named "Crusoe."

"Crusoe and another boy were quarreling near the dining room door. Guard Howard was called to settle the dispute. The guard was mad because his own supper was interrupted. When he reached the boys he came up with his knee and caught young Crusoe in the ribs. Then he hit the child on both sides of the face with his fist. Then he 'uppercut' him under the nose. The child then went upstairs and I don't know what became of him afterward."

Botticher, being looked upon as an absolutely disinterested witness, the Commissioners were more than ordinarily interested in his descriptions of Supt. Farrell.

"Supt. Farrell went around the yard swinging a policeman's billy," said he, "and would show that he had been drinking."

It was developed in the hearings that when Chairman Byk of the Law Committee was talking to some of the children with a view to collecting evidence Supt. Farrell ran up to him and tried to scare him off with a cudgel.

How a boy's head was cut in a score of places during a beating in the school was testified to yesterday by an attending physician.

The Physician's Statement.

"I examined a boy named Louis Rubenson, who was said to be an ungovernable child before he was committed to the school. He seemed to be in perfectly good health," the physician testified. "Some weeks later, at the request of the boy's parents, I obtained the boy's release. When the boy was brought to me I was shocked at his appearance. He had from fifteen to twenty cuts on his head and a five-inch scar on his face.

"There was a threatened scandal regarding this case. Superintendent Farrell telephoned me to come out and see what a fine school it was. He brought the beaten boy before me in his office. He put the boy through a mock oath, ending with the words, 'If you don't tell the truth, you'll have to come back and live here.' He made other indirect threats. Then he asked the boy if he had ever been beaten in the institution, and the child, after hesitating and manifesting considerable mental disquiet, answered:

"'No one ever touched me.'

"Miss Hutchinson, the 'House Mother,' subsequently told me the cuts and scars on the child's head had been caused by 'eczema.' But that same night the child's father called me up on the telephone and told me that the child had been frightened into making the exculpatory statement before the Superintendent."

The physician swore that he had examined at least fifty boys, who had been inmates of the Disciplinary Training School at different times. Practically all had spoken of either ill-treatment or bad food.

Threatens to Shoot a Boy.

The accused Superintendent went out on the front lawn with a loaded revolver and threatened to shoot a boy who was a former inmate of the school, according to a sworn affidavit submitted by Chairman Byk. The affidavit is made by Isidor Newland, a clerk in the school. Newland swears that the boys are frequently deprived of two meals a day for some petty breach of discipline.

An affidavit sworn to by Caretaker McCarren describes the mopping up of blood after Supt. Farrell's assault on the Batchellor boy.

Another caretaker swears that the children were not kept from smoking and chewing tobacco, although the caretaker complained to the Superintendent about it.

The Grand Jury's investigations of the school, which were conducted last month under the direction of County Judge Dike, will be continued by the November Grand Jury under County Judge Fawcett. There was a rumor yesterday that members of the school's Board of Management might possibly be indicted with others.

Some time must elapse before any change is made at the institution. The committee will report to the full board on Nov. 17, and the board will appear personally before Gov. Hughes when it has considered its form of recommendation.

Some Assemblyman or State Senator will then have to introduce a special act to abolish the school, and the children will be transferred to the various regular juvenile institutions which are directly under the city's Department of Charities and Correction.

MAN CHASED AS A THIEF.

Woman Stenographer Says She Saw Him with a Stolen Purse.

Two hundred or more women clerks and stenographers employed in the Home Life Building, at 256 Broadway, were thrown into an uproar yesterday when a young man almost threw himself down five flights of stairs in an effort to escape from a woman stenographer who was yelling "Stop thief!" at every breath.

The young man darted out of the front door and passed within a few feet of Traffic Policeman Andrew Nylander. The policeman heard the cries from within the building and immediately gave chase.

The young man was a good runner, and Nylander wore his heavy Winter uniform. But he began to gain on the fugitive. The chase led from the building down to Park Place, and then west to Church Street. The fugitive turned north in Church Street and ran to Murray, and thence to West Broadway, where he was caught by Nylander.

The policeman took his prisoner back to the Home Life Building, and Miss Irene Hamilton, a clerk of 165 Jefferson Avenue, Brooklyn, identified him as the one she had chased away when he tried to steal a purse belonging to Margaret Tarty of 851 Marcy Avenue, Brooklyn.

The prisoner was in the act of leaving the dining room furnished to employes of the Home Life on the sixth floor of the building, Miss Hamilton said, when she noticed that he carried a woman's purse. The purse, she said, belonged to Miss Tarty, who had left the room for a few minutes.

The prisoner said he was Martin W. Payne of 316 West 116th Street. In the Tombs Court he denied all knowledge of the incident. Magistrate Kernochan remanded him in default of $1,000 bail for examination to-day.

The purse contained $53.79.

THREE CARS IN A SMASH.

Passengers Pitched About and One Girl Seriously Injured.

As two crowded Sixth Avenue cars, one bound east, the other west, were crossing Eighth Avenue in the early morning rush hour yesterday, a northbound Eighth Avenue car, driven by Motorman John Beckman of 79 West Ninnety-fourth Street, approached the crossisng at considerable speed.

The two Sixth Avenue cars were almost parallel when the Eighth Avenue car, slowed only a trifle by its brakes, crashed amidships into the eastbound Sixth Avenue car, grinding it with such force against the westbound car as to throw it against the elevated structure.

The streets were crowded with wagons and pedestrians. In all three cars, filled with workmen and working women, passengers were standing. The crash of broken glass and splintering of woodwork were mixed with screams and shouts. Many passengers were pitched of their feet. Several were cut and bruised, and in the eastbound car Miss Jennie Coughlin of 122 West Sixty-first Street was thrown helpless on the floor.

Patrolman Montgomery carried the injured girl to the curb and sent in calls for ambulances. One coming from Flower Hospital took the girl there when it was ascertained that she was injured internally. Other injured passengers scattered to various drug stores for treatment.

The fault rested entirely, according to Mr. Root, General Manager of the Metropolitan, with the motorman of the uptown car, who had not thrown on his airbrake till too late. No great damage was done to any of the cars, but the traffic at that congested point was blocked for nearly half an hour.

Demented Man Rescued in Nevada After Wandering Five Days.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3.—According to a letter received in this city from Lee, Nev., C. A. Balha, a former Los Angeles druggist, has been rescued from death on the Nevada desert, after wandering five days demented, and subsisting on the flesh of snakes and lizards and water obtained from the cactus plant.

Balha left Leeland, Nev., Oct. 20, for Sand Tanks, on the trail to the Lee district. He was accompanied by Jack Lampslade. They ran out of water, and, Balha being unable to go further, Lampslade pushed ahead and reached Lee. He returned with a searching party, and Balha was found after several days' search.

CARNEGIE AWARDS FOR FIFTY HEROES

Commission, with Medals and Money, Rewards Those Who Saved Lives of Others.

$33,000 TO BE DISTRIBUTED

Ohioan Who Rowed Boat Over River in Flood and Rescued Three Persons Gets $1,000.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 3.—With the regular Fall meeting of the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission to-day came the rewarding of fifty persons throughout this country and Canada for acts of bravery and illustrious conduct called to the attention of the commission during the last three months. With the exception of one award, made to a citizen of Canada, the persons remembered by the Carnegie Commission are residents of the United States, twenty-two living in Ohio.

Approximately $33,000, twenty-three silver and twenty-seven bronze medals were awarded by the action of to-day's meeting of the commission. Of the fifty heroic acts approved fourteen of the persons responsible for them met their death. In these cases next of kin received the award.

Prominent among the awards, and probably the most spectacular act of bravery called to the attention of the Commission, was the case of Halley M. Woods, a merchant of Athens, Ohio. During the floods of the Hocking River, in 1907, Woods, unassisted, rescued two men and a woman from almost certain death. He rowed a flat-bottomed skiff through a wild running river current into the second-story window of a half-submerged house, carrying the three persons there to shore and safety. In investigating the case of Woods, the Commission found that he was in debt in excess of $1,000 for his small merchandise store, and presented to him a check for $1,000 and a silver medal.

Another instance called to the attention of the Commission was that of William F. Sayle, of North Attleboro, Mass., a fifteen-year-old boy who, unassisted and heavily dressed, jumped into a hole in the ice broken by the weight of a boy and a girl, who had been skating on the thin coating and buoyed the couple up until assistance came. Young Sayle refused aid himself until the boy and girl had been taken from the ice hole and were on their way to safety.

In Philadelphia, the commission found William H. Edwards, a 'longshoreman, 25 years old, who forgot race prejudice in his anxiety to be of service to his fellowmen. While the Arcadia, a freight steamer, plying between Hamburg and Philadelphia, was being unloaded in June, 1908, an explosion in the cargo occurred. Most of the stevedores working below decks were knocked down and bruised, some being burned. Many of the workers deserted the ship. Smoke and flames came from the hatches. Cries of the injured below decks came to the party of men waiting on deck.

Edwards volunteered to attempt the rescue of the imprisoned men. Tying a rope to a lighter, he slid into the burning hold, but could find nothing. Hearing groans he deserted his guide rope and bending low searched in the direction of the cries of pain. After a long search he located Lucius Hubbard, a negro. Bearing the unconscious and injured workman to the open hatch he had him hoisted to the deck and safety, following himself when assured there was no other person in the burning vessel. A silver medal was given to Edwards and $1,000 to be applied to the purchase of a home or such other purpose as may be approved by the commission.

Among the other persons to whom awards were made are: T. J. Madden of Thomaston, Conn.; A. K. Sweet of Norwood, R. I.; R. H. Reeder of Bordentown, N. J., and relatives of the late Michael Donlon of Meriden, Conn.

Canned Health:

Thousands of eastern people go west every year for their health.

The clean, bracing air of the high altitudes; pure sweet waters flowing from snowy heights; the even temperature—warm sunny days and cool bracing nights—all combine to produce perfect bodily health.

Carnation Milk

comes from healthy cows that live in this atmosphere all the time. They browse on mountain slopes that are green all the year 'round. They are in perfect health and their milk is perfect milk.

Carnation Milk has the maximum of richness and contains no foreign substances to affect its flavor. Cows in other parts of the country often take impurities into the system in artificial foods and doubtful spring, lake or river water.

CARNATION MILK brings to your table all the purity and vigor of the western mountains.

If you have tried some brand of "evaporated" milk and did not like it, try Carnation—it's different.

SCIENCE TRUSTEES ARE NOW IN ERROR

Mother Church Condemns Committee of First Church for Its View of Christian Science.

COMMITTEE IS DIVIDED

Report on Mrs. Stetson's Case Will Not Be Unanimous—Many Complaints of Late Leader's Methods.

On the eve of the congregational meeting in First Church of Christ, Scientist, which to-day will bring the turbulent situation there to a climax, word came from Boston last night that the Directors of the Mother Church have accused the First Church Trustees of having an erroneous conception of Christian Science and of having set up the claim that they and others concerned in the investigation of Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson's teachings are the "reflection of infinite mind," and are therefore not amenable to interference from the Mother Church.

This is the most drastic accusation which has as yet been made by the Mother Church officials since Mrs. Eddy's Directors deposed Mrs. Stetson and admonished sixteen of her practitioners.

Shortly after the news reached here it was learned that the report of the Committee of Inquiry to be made to-day will probably not be a unanimous one, though it is unlikely there will be a minority report. Which of the Trustees on the committee has abandoned the cause of Mrs. Stetson could not be learned.

The stinging rebuke to the Trustees of First Church came in the form of a letter from the Mother Church Directors to the Committee of Inquiry. Its letter and the reply of the Mother Church Directors will appear in the next issue of The Christian Science Sentinel under date of Nov. 6.

These two letters were telegraphed from Boston last night. The first, dated Oct. 29, and signed by Edwin F. Hatfield, Chairman of the committee, says that different jurisdictions are granted to the First Church Christ, Scientist, of Boston, commonly referred to as the Mother Church, and to the several branch churches, and consequently that the Directors of the Mother Church and the Trustees of the branch churches have distinctive duties.

"The fulfillment of these duties includes not only the full and fearless administration of just discipline within their respective jurisdictions by each of said constituted authorities, but also non-interference by the other in the performance of its duty," says the letter. It goes on:

> According to our understanding of Christian Science there is only one mind, and this mind is manifested in and through all that really exists. To acknowledge any other mind as existent or as operating is to deny the fundamental spiritual fact declared and emphasized in our beloved leader's writings, and constituting the cornerstone of all Christian Science churches.
>
> In the name of Christian Science this committee takes this occasion to call upon you, and each of your members, to know that every one connected with this inquiry, or with the constituted authority of this branch church, is a reflection of and is subject only to the one infinite mind, and is faithfully fulfilling the action which this fact makes possible and imperative under the operation of divine principle, which our beloved leader, Mary Baker Eddy, has once for all discovered, effectually declared, and continues to demonstrate for the salvation of the whole world from sin, sickness, and death.
>
> Error cannot separate this branch church from The Mother Church, any more than error can separate Man from God, Idea from Principle.

The Directors' reply, as sent from Boston under the date of Nov. 3, was in part as follows:

> With respect to your protest against what you call interference on our part, we beg to say that the jurisdiction of this board extends to every matter affecting the cause of Christian Science as a whole.
>
> Also, that this board may deal with such matters directly or take them up with the officers of branch churches, according to the exigency of each case, and in accordance with the by-laws of this church. The relation between the mother church and its branches necessarily gives to this board such supervision over the branches as may be necessary to preserve the purity and integrity of the Christian religion, which it represents.
>
> We must, in Christian fellowship, call your attention to the fact that your concept of Christian Science as expressed in your letter is erroneous, and of itself shows the difficulty under which you are laboring. Your statement that you call upon the members of this board "to know that every one connected with this inquiry, or with the constituted authority of this branch church, is a reflection of and is subject only to the one Infinite Mind, and is faithfully fulfilling the acton which this fact makes possible," &c., &c., is nothing more nor less than a claim on your part that mortals are the reflection of Infinite Mind.
>
> Of such a claim, Mrs. Eddy writes on Page 572 of "Science and Health," "In science we are children of God; but whatever is of material sense, or mortal, belongs not to His children, for materiality is the inverted image of spirituality"; and again, on Page 27 of "No and Yes," "Mortal man is the antipode of immortal man, and the two should not be confounded." The logical effect of your demand is to require us to attribute to you as mortals the infallibility of Divine Mind.

The members of the Committee of Inquiry are Edwin F. Hatfield, Adolph Rusch, Joseph B. Whitney, John Franklin Crowell, John D. Higgins, W. H. Taylor, Mrs. Susan Thomas, and Mrs. Isabelle Dam.

An affidavit made by one of the leading practitioners in First Church concerning Mrs. Stetson's alleged attempt to make capital out of a letter sent her by Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy several weeks ago reached the hands of the Mother Church officials yesterday. This affidavit explains that Mrs. Stetson had been in the habit of calling together her twenty-six practitioners every day in the reading rooms of the church to get information from them concerning their patients.

This had been complained of, and the matter had been taken before the Mother Church authorities. Just about that time Mrs. Stetson sent Mrs. Eddy a composite letter addressed to her by her practitioners, containing expressions of praise. A few days later the reply came from Mrs. Eddy reproving her for allowing her students to take such an attitude toward her.

The affidavit says that Mrs. Stetson eliminated the words of censure from Mrs. Eddy's letter and replaced them with certain sentences from "Science and Health," but left in the words from the original letter, "Get your students to help you." She, according to the affidavit, appeared before her practitioners' meeting and, waving the communication in her hand, said:

"Now I have authority from Mrs. Eddy to call you all together. You see she says to me 'get your students to help you.'"

The practitioner who made the affidavit explained yesterday that Mrs. Stetson succeeded in this way in making some of her practitioners believe that the message from Mrs. Eddy was really a compliment to her instead of a severe reproof.

Reports were circulated yesterday by former practitioners of the church that poor patients were discouraged from joining the congregation. One woman, who had at one time a large practice, told how she had been severely upbraided in the vestibule of the church itself for giving her services to a family that was in such need that she had had to supply them with food.

MITCHELL ASKS JURY TRIAL.

Declares Himself Willing to Go to Jail in Defense of Principle.

John Mitchell, Vice President of the American Federation of Labor, whose sentence to nine months' imprisonment in the Bucks Stove and Range Company's case has been upheld by the United States Court of Appeals, was out of town when the decision was made known. He arrived in New York yesterday, but not in time to meet President Gompers, who took the midnight train for Washington on Tuesday.

Mitchell has already discussed the situation freely, and has expressed himself as believing that he was only exercising his constitutional rights. He is, however, willing to go to jail in defense of a principle, if the court of last resort sustains the Court of Appeals. He had little to add yesterday to what he has said on previous occasions.

"The matter will undoubtedly be taken up by the convention of the American Federation of Labor, which begins in Toronto on Tuesday," he declared.

"Trial by jury is the traditional and constitutional right of a free people. The agitation against the decision will be of National scope and will be kept up. Meantime every legal remedy will be tried to have the sentence set aside."

CALLS ENGLISH DRAMATISTS.

Frohman Summons Them for Conference on New London Venture.

Charles Frohman has called a conference of English playwrights to meet him in America during Christmas week for a final consultation on his London repertoire theatre venture. Mr. Frohman will not be able to go to London as early as usual this year on account of the number of productions he has yet to make in this country, and as the repertoire theatre scheme is to be launched at the Duke of York's Theatre in February, he has asked the playwrights to come to him.

Invitations have been extended to John Galsworthy, author of "Strife"; J. M. Barrie, author of "Peter Pan" and "What Every Woman Knows"; Granville Barker, stage director of the London Repertoire Theatre; George Bernard Shaw, W. Somerset Maugham, author of "Jack Straw" and "Lady Frederick," and Haddon Chambers, author of "The Tyranny of Tears."

The group of dramatists will be the guests of Mr. Frohman while in this country. The councils will be held in his office in the Empire Theatre Building.

BIG HOTEL FOR BALTIMORE.

Isaac E. Emerson Buys Downtown Lot for the Building.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 3.—Isaac E. Emerson, a manufacturer, has purchased the Baltimore & Ohio lot on the corner of Baltimore and Calvert Streets, to erect a fifteen-story hotel there, to cost about $1,000,000. The lot was the former site of the Baltimore & Ohio Building, which was burned during the big fire. The Baltimore & Ohio moved to the corner of Charles and Baltimore Streets, and offered the old site for sale. It was regarded as the most valuable vacant lot in Baltimore, and there have been frequent negotiations for its purchase.

Mr. Emerson is at present in Reno, Nev., with his daughter, Mrs. Smith Hollins McKim, who has joined the divorce colony there. Mrs. Emerson, however, tonight admitted that the negotiations had been consummated, and said the plans were in the hands of an architect.

Assemblyman Cuvillier Very Ill.

Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier of the Thirtieth Assembly District, (Percy Nagle's district,) who was taken ill a week ago with pneumonia and gastritis, was yesterday reported in a serious condition. He is expected to recover, however. The Assemblyman was defeated for re-election at the polls Tuesday, but his physicians have kept that fact from him, fearing a relapse.

PUPILS OF WRIGHT NEAR WORLD RECORD

Army Officers Fly for 61¾ Minutes, Approaching the Two-Man Mark.

VOYAGE IS STOPPED BY WIND

Aeronauts Won't Descend Until Wilbur Wright Insists—He Comes to New York to Meet Orville.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Only the rising of the wind prevented two of Wilbur Wright's pupils from surpassing the world's record in long time two-man flying this morning at the College Park field of aviation. Lieuts. Foulois and Humphreys remained aloft together for 1 hour 1¾ minutes, exceeding the College Park record for the event by twenty minutes, and falling only ten minutes short of the record made by Orville Wright with Lieut. Lahm at Fort Myer last Summer. As it was they exceeded all records made by any of the pupils of the Wright brothers in this country.

Wilbur Wright was on the ground watching the flight, and it was he who insisted by signals that the two officers descend in the face of the rising wind.

The two officers in the aeroplane took turns steering, one relieving the other when the cold affected his hands. When the wind became too high Mr. Wright got Lieut. Lahm to signal to the flyers to descend.

The flight began at 8:15 A. M., after one false start. Lieut. Foulois took the levers at the start and kept control for fifty minutes, until his hands were so numbed that he could not operate successfully. Although he was not suffering, except in the hands, he turned over the levers to Lieut. Humphreys, who controlled the biplane for the remainder of the voyage.

Toward the end of the trip the wind freshened and the biplane skidded noticeably on the turns. Lieut. Lahm went out on the field and signalled the officers to quit. They probably did not see the signal, for one or two rounds of flying tends to clog the vision. At last Lieut. Foulois reached up and jerked the cord which shuts off the engine.

Another notable flight of the day was with Lieut. Commander Sweet of the navy as a passenger. Mr. Sweet's weight is seventeen pounds in excess of that of any other passenger who has been taken up here. Two unsuccessful efforts were made by Mr. Wright to carry Mr. Sweet as a passenger. Lieut. Lahm accomplished the feat after one false start. He remained in the air 8¾ minutes with Mr. Sweet.

Following this flight, Lieuts. Humphreys and Foulois flew for about 25 minutes.

Mr. Wright left College Park to-day for New York, to meet Orville and Miss Katherine Wright, who are going home after Orville's work in Germany. Possibly Wilbur and Orville will go to College Park for a day or two, but Wilbur's real work as instructor is over. Unless there is some accident or defect in the machinery Mr. Wright is not likely to return, and consequently has made, most likely, his last flight for some time in the vicinity of the capital. It seems probable that Wilbur and Orville will give most of their time hereafter to the manufacture of biplanes and not to their operation. Although Wilbur has said he will not take part in the next international aviation meet, nobody would be surprised if he changed his mind.

Lieut. Lahm will leave the Signal Corps probably Dec. 1, and will return to his regiment, the Sixth Cavalry. His place at the school of aviation will be taken by Lieut. Walter C. Jones of the Thirteenth Infantry. Lieut. Lahm does not know just when the change will go into effect.

Wilbur Wright arrived in New York late yesterday. He had nothing to say as to the results of his work at College Park, Md., or as to his plans for the future.

Talks on Teeth

By G. GORDON MARTIN
(Incorporated).

The Plight of the Toothless Man

The man with one or two teeth left in either jaw had no alternative but plates before the Martinolar Method of supplying missing teeth without plates or ordinary bridgework was discovered and supplied by us.

He was literally between two fires—couldn't eat without teeth, couldn't eat with those "false teeth" he could buy.

The plate wearer rolls his food about in his mouth and mashes it, but he can't grind it up.

With Martinolar teeth he can grind it up exactly as he would if he had natural teeth.

No plates to destroy his speech, no ordinary bridgework to torture him and make his gums sore.

The Martinolar Method of supplying missing teeth bears the same relation to the old-fashioned "false teeth" that the electric light bears to the tallow dip as an illuminant. No comparison between the two.

The Martinolar Method has revolutionized the science of dentistry and brought health and happiness to thousands of people who have had this work done for them by us.

The method is one that calls for no pain or discomfort while the patient is in the chair.

Don't imagine you are going to be "operated upon," or that there is any cutting or boring into the gums—nothing of that kind in connection with it.

We guarantee results. After making a careful and painstaking examination and diagnosis of your case, if we decide we can restore your teeth with the Martinolar Method we will tell you so, and then guarantee the work.

Not only that, but we tighten loose teeth and make them firm and solid in the gums.

You will find all our offices elegantly furnished and perfectly equipped to obtain the best results in all forms of dentistry.

Our operators are of necessity experts—they have to be to perfom the difficult work which is demanded by the Martinolar Method—therefore you will be in the best of hands, no matter how simple a piece of work you may have which needs attention.

It cannot be any too well done—you may as well have the best that is obtainable.

Those living at a distance from our offices are invited to write for our free book, "Martinolar Dentistry," which explains the method and is a valuable treatise on the teeth in general.

Call or write to-day.

VOTES AND THE VOTERS.

Let us not delude ourselves with the belief that the voters of New York through a virtuous resolve and by conscious and deliberate purpose smashed Tammany. Tammany was smashed because Hearst ran. That is all there is to it. If Hearst had not been in the field, a very large part of the voters who gave him their suffrages would have voted for Tammany's candidates, good and bad alike, and Mr. Murphy's ticket would have been elected by majorities that would have shocked all righteous men. It is good that Tammany is smashed, but works of salvation should nevertheless go on, as the punishment was obviously not inflicted because of Tammany's vices, rather because of its blunders and of accident.

Tammany may derive some small comfort from these reflections, but Mr. Murphy is deprived of all sources of consolation, since his organization is not only routed, but it is routed by his unconscionable blunders. Had he not stolen the Independence League column, Mr. Hearst would have had a party, he would have been pretty sure to nominate Hearst candidates for city and borough offices in all the boroughs, and so, Fusion failing, Mr. Murphy would have triumphed all along the line.

Murphy's calculations went all awry. He cared nothing for Gaynor, of course, but nominated him because he hoped that with his already great popularity, and his skill in winning more of it, he would pull through the city and borough tickets as well as the Tammany nominees in this county. Gaynor proved to be a weak candidate for Tammany itself. He got only 134,478 votes in Manhattan and the Bronx, as against 140,264 for McClellan four years ago. While Gaynor was weak in this borough, he was strong in Brooklyn. That borough gave him 23,000 votes more than McClellan got. In Queens he gained 4,300 over McClellan, and in Richmond 1,000. His total gains of 28,000 in the other boroughs are reduced to 22,000 by the deduction of 6,000 votes lost in Manhattan and the Bronx. It is a notable circumstance that, while the total vote for the three candidates in Manhattan and the Bronx fell off 20,000 from the vote of four years ago, the Brooklyn vote was practically unchanged.

It is evident that Mr. Hearst drew much of his strength from the Republicans. That is shown by a comparison of the Bannard vote in Manhattan this year with the vote cast for Beckett, the Republican candidate for Surrogate last year. Beckett had no other indorsement than that of the Prohibition Party, and polled 144,651 votes. Making a deduction of 7 per cent. from this total, by reason of the fact that the Presidential vote of last year was larger in that ratio, the figures proper for comparison are these: Beckett, 1908, 134,651; Bannard, 1909, 86,888. It will be seen that 48,000 cast for the Republican candidate for Surrogate last year were withheld from the Republican and Fusion candidate for Mayor this year in Manhattan. Most of these evidently went to Mr. Hearst. This is a matter that should be of interest to Chairman Parsons and his Republican associates.

Tammany is determined to pass through four very lean and hungry years. For that, as everybody admits, the organization must thank Mr. Hearst. A great part of the responsibility for its misfortunes, too, it may allot to its ancient foe, Mr. William M. Ivins, for Mr. Ivins was chiefly instrumental in persuading Mr. Hearst to make the run. He shares with Mr. Hearst the community's gratitude for the good that has been accomplished.

THE PHILIPPINES TRADE UNDER THE NEW TARIFF.

September was the first full month under the new tariff affecting Philippines products, and the course of trade affords several surprises. All imports arriving from the Philippines were free of duty, except $426 worth in transit from other countries. Yet the aggregate of imports, $821,036, was less than the $952,467 of imports in September, 1908, when there were also $679,509 of dutiable imports. The volume of business has been halved, if not by the reduction of duty, yet certainly after the reduction, which was expected to have a stimulating effect, naturally.

No sugar whatever was imported in September last, although 35,168,000 pounds came in the year before. There was nothing particular about this in September, because the August trade had indicated it by a preliminary decline, when the duty-free sugar was less than the dutiable sugar in 1908. The tariff favor shown to Philippines sugar has evidently failed to give the stimulus anticipated. It was stipulated that precedence in exemption from duties was to be given to producers of less than 500 tons in each fiscal year. It was kindly meant, but it was ill adapted for its purpose. Sugar cannot be produced on that scale in competition with the facilities of larger producers. But when no sugar at all comes it is necessary to infer that the trade is affected by an influence similar to that affecting trade between the United States and Canada and Great Britain. The preference to Britain does not impede the trade with the United States. Apparently the Filipinos find the nearer markets in China and Japan better than that in the United States, despite the preference.

The imports of tobacco, however, have been stimulated. In 1908 the imports were $6 worth. This year $12,253 worth came under the attraction of exemption from customs. Hemp contributed seven-eighths of the total trade, and cocoanut meat came next. There are other articles on the list, and some of them show increases, but in trivial amounts. Still the changes suffice to show that the currents of trade have been affected more by other conditions than by the tariff changes.

PEARY, WHO REACHED THE POLE.

Before a scientific tribunal competent to judge the evidence of an achievement which should make his name remembered through all time, Commander Robert E. Peary, U. S. N., has submitted the record of his original observations and field notes and his instruments, and has presented himself for oral examination. The National Geographical Society yesterday approved the findings of its Special Committee on Research, officially recognized Commander Peary as the successful leader of an expedition that reached the north pole on April 6 of this year, and directed the award of medals to him and to Robert A. Bartlett, Master of the arctic ship Roosevelt—"a British subject who could boast that next to an American he had been nearest the pole."

Commander Peary's data were subjected to the scrutiny of scientists whose reputations depended upon their rendering a report acceptable not alone to the National Geographical Society, but to the scientific bodies of the world. These men were not satisfied with Mr. Peary's assertion that he had compassed the pole, nor was he satisfied until his records had received the cold and pitiless tests which they knew well how to apply. Now, after thorough investigation, the Chief Geographer of the United States Geological Survey, the Superintendent of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, and one of the severest and most critical navigators of the American service, declare that Peary has reached the pole, and attach their signatures to his credentials.

This man, whose eighth and last expedition has surpassed the British record, the Italian record, and the American record, which was his own, in the crowning achievement of polar exploration, is an American citizen. His countrymen may speak of him with pride and certainty as the gainer for them of the prize for which all nations have for centuries striven. Among the far northern tribes his exploits, extending through nearly a quarter of a century, have enriched the folk tales; he is a mythological hero, to be revered and worshipped. Here he is known as a dauntless and an honest man.

LUCKIEST OF THE BOROUGHS.

Fortune has chosen the Borough of Brooklyn for her own and prodigally bestows her favors, not by the handful, but by millions. The key to all the millions has now been put into the hands of Brooklyn.

In a moment of exaltation The Brooklyn Eagle two weeks ago donned the mantle of the seer and with, as it seems to us, quite too much diffidence, put forward this foreshadowing:

> It is, therefore, within the range of possibility that the Borough of Brooklyn will have eight votes, and Long Island nine votes in the Board of Estimate that will go into power on Jan. 1. Then something will be doing. Of course, no party would have thought of giving to Brooklyn both the Mayoralty and the Controllership. But advocates of subways here have a right to smile over the adventitious conditions that make up the political situation.

Brooklyn does not smile, she laughs outright, and shakes all over with glee and merriment, for what The Eagle ventured to predict only by suggestion has actually come to pass. The Borough of Brooklyn will have eight votes in the next Board of Estimate, and Queens with one makes up the total of nine for Long Island, out of a total of sixteen. The control of expenditures has crossed over the river.

Exulting in the accomplished fact, our neighbor The Eagle sets forth in unmistakable terms what Brooklyn will do with the power now put into her hands, how she will profit by the estate that has come into her possession and control:

> Ever since consolidation Brooklyn has failed to receive its just share of appropriations and improvements, because it has been overshadowed by Manhattan. * * * Thus this election holds the seeds of the deliverance of Brooklyn and of the development of this borough to the dominance to which it is entitled by the high order of intelligence of its citizenship, and to which it will soon be entitled by the count of noses, from which there is no appeal.

What would constitute Brooklyn's "just share" of the appropriations may be a matter of dispute. The facts are that in 1907 Brooklyn contributed $19,799,000 to the general tax fund, and took from it more than double that sum. In 1908 she paid in taxes $23,000,000, and received in appropriations $47,000,000. Is this a "just share"? What proportion of the total tax fund Brooklyn will take for herself now that she has control, with the aid of Queens, is yet to be determined. Manhattan, which last year contributed 68 per cent. of the total sum raised by taxation, will be in an anxious frame of mind until it is known how much Brooklyn will allot to herself as a fair distribution. Brooklyn saw her opportunity in this election. She supported Gaynor loyally, and with an eye out for her chance. Manhattan was indifferent, for that Borough cast 20,000 fewer votes than were cast four years ago.

After all, we may with the utmost good will and sincerity congratulate Brooklyn, for her gain is not all our loss, even though we are so heavily assessed for what she costs. The population of the great city needs more room, it needs new homes. Brooklyn has a vast area open to improvement and settlement. The construction and occupation of modest homes, to be sure, do not create great assessable values, but the increase of population in Brooklyn will add to the value of the property in Manhattan. We have invested a hundred million in bridges for the benefit immediately of Brooklyn and Queens, but, also, for the benefit of the whole city. The new subways which Brooklyn will now build and pay for largely with Manhattan's money will also benefit us. Our neighbor The Eagle told its readers a few days ago to vote for the debt limit amendment because the new money it would make available was "for Brooklyn." To be sure it is for Brooklyn. Manhattan is more interested in Brooklyn than in New Jersey. It is well that subways should be built there to stay the efflux of population from this city and State. Manhattan asks, however, all the boroughs have a right to ask, that when new subways are laid out in Brooklyn the routes shall be determined with consideration for public benefit, not for private gain. Then the advantage will accrue to us all.

THE CHECK IN MASSACHUSETTS.

On the eve of the election in Massachusetts Senator Lodge made a very earnest appeal to the voters who had heretofore stood by the Republican policy of protection to rally in force to the support of the ticket because the opposition had made that policy the object of its chief attack. Practically he presented the tariff as the main issue in the election. The beggarly majority of 8,000 for Gov. Draper in place of the 60,000 he received last year cannot be a very satisfactory response for the Senator to receive. It is open to those who wish to do so to explain the change by other facts, but it remains true that by the test deliberately suggested by the National leader of the party the Aldrich tariff is not popular in the Bay State.

It is to be noted that the appeal this year in behalf of the tariff was based on the special favors Massachusetts interests had received. The extortionate duties on cotton and on woolen goods were intended to win the gratitude of Massachusetts. They were the worst from the point of view of the general welfare, but the men of Massachusetts were expected to overlook that fact because the treasuries of Massachusetts cotton and woolen mills were to be fattened on the monopolistic privileges secured. Why they did not respond to this appeal to State selfishness is not far to seek. The tariff favors are confined to too few. The tariff oppression reaches too many. There are more voters in the State who wear cotton and woolen goods and otherwise use and pay for them than there are stockholders in mills. Even the operatives' share in the tariff favors do not seem to impress the general mind. Why should it? The duties on woolen goods, for example, are from three to eight times as much as the total cost of the labor in producing them. The workmen may well doubt the motives of employers who give them such a pitiful fraction of the profits exacted from the consumer. It hardly offsets the higher prices they have to pay for the goods of their own production which they are obliged to buy for their families.

We have no wish to exaggerate the significance of the check administered to the extreme protectionists in Massachusetts. We know their organized resources and with what unscrupulous energy they will use them when the issue is more definitely made. But it is not to be denied that a check has been encountered. Taken in connection with the signs we have recently had from the Middle West, the prospect for the extremists in the next session of Congress is not wholly rosy.

DECENCY IN MARYLAND.

There ought to be general satisfaction throughout the country that the people of Maryland have defeated the contemptible plot to take away the right to vote from respectable, property owning, and intelligent negroes in that State.

It was a plot conceived in the mean and crafty spirit of the elder Gorman and his little ring of conscienceless schemers. On its face it was a means of preventing negro domination, but there was no possible danger of such domination. Nor was it in any sense an effort to purify election by restricting or suppressing a corruptible vote. That can be done, as it is done in Mississippi, for instance—where the negroes are in an actual and considerable majority—by a fair test of intelligence, equally enforced. The Maryland plot was almost openly directed as much against the better class of negro voters as against the worse. Moreover, in preparation for it, there had been enacted a scheme of balloting so complex, so full of opportunities for trickery, that white men as well as black men were in practice disfranchised in advance because they could not surely master its intricacies. Indeed, the ludicrous as well as discreditable spectacle was afforded of one of the high counselors in the Democratic organization being unable to use the ballot correctly. The whole plan was meant to throw the control of the State into the hands of the Democratic machine and to bind the decent whites quite as much as the negroes.

Party spirit was appealed to even more than race feeling, and the plan had the support of some of the Democratic leaders who had previously resisted it. But the sense of decency of the people at large was too strong to permit its success. There was also a strong opposition to it on the part of the voters of foreign birth or descent, who saw that like measures might easily be used to cut down their own rights. The satisfaction over the defeat of the scheme is fully shared by all sensible Democrats who know that their party can gain nothing by reinforcing the corrupt and arbitrary machine politicians.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Big Crowds That Were Well Controlled.

Though the election night crowds on the streets were neither quite as large nor quite as much disposed to vigorous hilarity as those which New York has seen on several other election nights in recent years, the number of people out in search of excitement and ready enough to make it was sufficient to create a police problem of considerable proportions. No careful observer could have failed to see that the problem was solved with commendable discretion and tact.

As usual, no doubt, there will be some to complain that individual policemen showed themselves lacking in these fine qualities and were unnecessarily and even outrageously harsh to particular fractions of the moving throngs, but as a rule and on the whole the management of the multitude was admirable. While roughs and rowdies were cowed or punished, the decent and well-intentioned merrymaker was permitted to express his emotions with that reasonable extension of ordinary liberties which an occasion of the kind justifies.

In the neighborhood of Times Square the experiment was tried of keeping somewhat apart the crowds moving north and south, and though this innovation created at first some little irritation among those whose celebratory habits it disturbed, the general effect was excellent. At any rate, it kept physical interferences and practical jokes within bounds, for people walking along together in procession instinctively treat each other with an audacity mitigated by their longer propinquity, while those brought face to face for only a moment are less restrained by the fear of consequences. The idea is therefore a good one, and its application should be extended.

A familiar but always curious feature of the demonstration was the absence from it of any visible mournfulness or regret at the result of the election. No doubt many were disappointed by the bulletins, but there were no signs of anything even remotely approaching deep regret. This may have been due to the early retirement of the real mourners, but more probably it was to be explained by a subconscious realization on everybody's part that the city is vastly bigger than its officials, and that an election is a fine thing and a suitable subject for rejoicing in spite of the fact that everybody cannot be satisfied with its outcome.

Fifty Are Robbed by Four

When a lone brigand walks through a railway train and collects the money and watches of all the passengers, those of us who have never been through such an adventure wonder why in the world one or more of his selected victims do not try a quick dash at the despoiler. It never is tried, however, so there must be some good reason—the one first suggesting itself being that everybody is afraid.

Even harder to understand is how four Italians, near Paterson, could go to the door of a house occupied by fifty of their fellow countrymen, and, calling them out one by one, seize each as he appeared on the threshold, bind them all with ropes, and then depart with everything they had in their pockets—the savings from much hard work.

To be sure, the robbers were armed, but so, probably, were a majority of those whom they robbed, and the chances are that the latter were only too familiar with the use of knives and revolvers. It cannot be, exactly, that they were afraid; at least they were not afraid of the weapons with which they were threatened. Somehow or other they were overawed by the personality of the thieves.

At any rate, it was a most curious episode for this part of the country, however it might have been in the mountains of Calabria.

Martians Hard at Work.

Speaking with the authority and assurance which his long study of Mars gives him, Prof. Lowell rather impatiently dismisses the reports of the less experienced British observers in regard to cataclysmic changes on the surface of the planet. What they saw, he says, were such of the ordinary seasonal mutations as their imperfect facilities and their unfavorable locations allowed them to see. The polar snowcaps are melting as usual with the advancing Summer, the canals are becoming visible as the vegetation along their banks thrives on the renewed supply of water, and the so-called cyclonic clouds are the accustomed results of rapid evaporation.

The one thing that is new this year according to Prof. Lowell, is something of which the European astronomers apparently caught no glimpse, since they say nothing about canals never seen before. Several, he states, were observed by the watchers at Flagstaff, and he thinks that they prove an extension or modification of the canal system. That is a highly interesting suggestion, and it will seem probable enough for those who accept Prof. Lowell's evidence as demonstrating that Mars is inhabited as well as habitable. If the mysterious lines are great irrigation ditches, and if new ones are pushing across the planet's deserts, of course there are Martians to do the work, and all of the Professor's contentions are sustained.

Unfortunately, the argument, so strong in its conclusion, is just a bit weak in its premises, and a good many objections will have to be answered before everybody will accept the hypothesis that Mars has a reticulation of canals beside which that of Holland is absurdly insignificant. If there are any Martians, undoubtedly they are engaged in a desperate struggle for existence on their dying world, but the difficulty of making water move through canals dug along the strangely flat surface of the planet is not much less than that of digging the canals, and it is hardly an exaggeration to say that the one basis of Prof. Lowell's theory is the apparent artificiality of the markings which he and some other, but not all, observers have been able to discover.

If there are new canals—and Prof. Lowell says that he has photographed them—the problem, already sufficiently difficult, is still further complicated. An exchange of signals with the Martians is probably the only way to settle it, and that will not be done to-morrow or next day.

PEARY'S CHARACTER.

An Appreciation by a Reader of His Book.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Much of my leisure in the past month has been spent in reading Peary's "Northward Over the Great Ice," and I have just finished that fascinating story of exploration and discovery in the Land of the White Unknown. It has opened for me a new world of which I will wish to learn more. Arctic travel will have greater interest for all who, through this book, have come to know so intimately the land, its people, its dangers, and its possibilities. That is a great addition to one's intellectual pleasure, but beyond all that, the point that remains most strongly impressed upon my mind is the revelation which is here made of the man. In all the trips we note how the author has, unconsciously, drawn his own portrait, and I bow with deep respect to the great, patient hero of the North.

His courage stands out as one of his characteristics; he has the Anglo-Saxon grit that will not allow circumstances to conquer him. Mishaps, continuous enough to discourage most men, only serve to make him more determined to win success in the face of every obstacle. Dame Nature gave to him one of the best of "birthday gifts," the ability to rise above discouragements, to be hopeful in seeming defeat, and to inspire others with his own certainty that success will come to crown their efforts.

His men showed their faith in him, the Eskimos look to him as their great friend. Why? Because his consideration for them, his care of them in sickness, his forethought in planning for their welfare, his loyalty to them, had brought out all the kindly feelings of which human nature is capable. Note all through the book how he gives credit to his assistants for their work, their faithfulness, their unwavering spirit, and we see why they followed him willingly. The "nobleness that is in all men, sleeping, but never dead," rose to meet the noble nature of their leader. There is no boasting of what he had done, but the record is filled with his tributes to their faithfulness, their persevering work, their uncomplaining fortitude.

And it was not only his human companions toward whom his heart was warm. When we read of his feeling for "the sole survivor," in 1895, Sanikpah, the poor dog, who "gave out and lay down exhausted some distance from the lodge," but who was fed and cared for by his grateful master before he took his own much-needed meal, we know that we are looking at Greatheart himself, and our estimate of humanity is higher because of this act.

What have the years in store for the noble Peary? Only the All-Knowing can answer that question. The veil of the future is not lifted to show what awaits him. But we hope that the years to come may be restful, happy ones, crowned with all the honors that the world can give to a successful man, and that he may find his truest rest, his deepest happiness, in the home where "brown eyes and eyes of baby blue" are ever brighter because of his presence.

Cook's New-Found Land.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Have I missed some part of the account of Dr. Cook's journey, that I should be all this time wondering why he did not see the new-found land on his return from the pole? My understanding is that he sighted land to the west as he went north, passing about the eighty-fourth parallel, and also that his return route lay still further west. I should think he would surely have encountered this new land.

STOP FOOTBALL.

Would Have the Game Prohibited by Law.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Is it not about time to stop football? Are we to continue losing our boys—and good ones at that—in such senseless waste?

Almost any boy with the opportunity and ability to play football will do so, if allowed. The college or school that he loves, he is willing to give his life for—but why allow him? Haven't we enough games of strength and skill requiring the same attributes of manliness, and developing these qualities, in which he may participate without the abnormal risk of life and limb entailed in this game? By all means, let us have games—and there is a certain element of danger in all—but let us have laws against one involving such a chance of "killing."

We prohibit the prizefight. Why not football? I played nearly all games as a boy and was hurt more or less in all, but have thanked my parents for having kept me from football, in which I am positive I would have been seriously injured, for I always played "to win," and that means no more nor less than "get hurt." But some boys—and good ones, too—must play and the law allows them. The lightweight "end" with grit and courage in every fibre, or the fast little "quarter" throws himself into a ponderous mass and breaks the "interference," stopping the ball, but at what cost? A cripple for life, perhaps, or only a heartbroken family to tell the tale.

When are we going to stop? I must confess that the game is fascinating to watch or play, but why such a terrible risk for mere "sport?" The boys with spirit will always play, but let the older heads insist that he shall not give up his valuable little life in mere play. We need the courageous and fearless for our homes and our country, and every loss is a loss to us all.

Among thinking people generally football is, I believe, considered an evil—in many ways not here mentioned—so let us take the bull by the horns and prohibit our boys by law from risking their lives so needlessly.

Let me say just one word to you—father or mother—whose boy may be filling you with pride by his achievements on the gridiron—stop him before too late! If football is eliminated he will shine on some other athletic field, and develop those same qualities which may some day bring more lasting glory and honor to his name—and yours.

NO MOLLYCODDLE.

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 1, 1909.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

With the last tragic death for a mere pastime, will not the mothers of American youth join together to protest against the brutal game of football as now played?

The effect on young girls, who can see young men carried off the field injured they know not how much, with perfect equanimity is demoralizing to them, and goes back to the Roman times when women enjoyed cruelty and gave the signal to kill the victim of a public sport.

There is too much value put upon mere physical strength, and I hope that all mothers, and the Government as well, will use every endeavor to stop the practice of such field sports.

A GREATER CITY DIOCESE.

Episcopalians Need It for Missionary Work in Brooklyn.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mr. Lawrence, in his letter in to-day's Times, mentions the possibility of a division of the Diocese of New York, only to dismiss it with the remark that it will take two years to consummate. He advocates the election of a Bishop Coadjutor as the immediate solution of the problem.

There is another aspect to this question which should receive careful consideration before either one of these solutions is reached. Bishop Potter and the late Dr. Huntington hoped to see the existence of a diocese which would be coextensive with Greater New York. Is not this the statesmanlike move for the Episcopal Church to make next?

At present, so far as New York City is concerned, the Episcopal Church is divided into two parts. Part of the church is in the Diocese of New York and part is in the Diocese of Long Island. The diocesan organizations divide the church in the same way that the commonwealth organizations separate New York from New Jersey. The wealth of the church is in Manhattan; the great missionary opportunity of the church is in Brooklyn and Queens. Money is only one factor in missions, a relatively small one, but an important factor. A strong man properly financed will give the church a self-supporting parish in a new section in five years; a weak man poorly supported will merely keep a struggling mission alive. For many years the people have been pouring into Brooklyn and Queens, but the Episcopal Church shows no sign of growth. The missionary opportunity before the Episcopal Church is not being met. The section of Long Island outside the city is rural in character and cannot be interested in city missions; the Brooklyn churches are not sufficiently strong to meet the situation. Brooklyn and Manhattan combined could do for all the new boroughs what Manhattan has begun to do for the Bronx under Bishop Greer's splendid leadership.

It will at once be said by Mr. Lawrence and others that the Bishop of Long Island has disposed of this solution by opposing in his last convention address a division of his diocese, and his consent to such division is required by the canons.

The Bishop of Long Island in his convention address was concerned simply with the formation of a new diocese in Long Island. This solution, on the contrary, calls for no new diocese, but merely a readjustment of territory between two already existing and adjacent dioceses. It was the opinion of Dr. Huntington and other canonists that the canons neither prevent nor provide for such a move, and all that is needed to consummate it is an act of General Convention. The initiative of the effort to form a new diocese lies with the Bishop, but not of a plan to take territory from one diocese and give it to another. This is in the hands of the parishes concerned, the Diocesan Convention and the General Convention. Should the Bishop of Long Island, therefore, refuse to take the initiative so far as the law is concerned, it would be possible for the Diocesan Convention to act without him. But the Bishop of Long Island knows the missionary situation in the western end of his diocese, and is a man ready to do what seems to him the wise and true thing.

The wise move for the Convention of New York to take on Nov. 10, in my judgment, is to favor the formation of a diocese of the greater city, the formation of a new up-State diocese, and to appoint a committee to confer with a similar committee from the Diocese of Long Island, in case such a committee is appointed. The Convention of Long Island will meet next May, and that will allow it time to take action on this matter before the General Convention at Cincinnati. Both dioceses, therefore, may go before the next General Convention and request the necessary legislation.

There is much sympathy in Brooklyn and Queens with such a move because the churches realize their missionary opportunity and regret their inability to meet it more worthily.

Wants Erie Trains Started.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I read with interest this morning in The Times the account of a wireless telephone test on the Erie Railroad. The inventor claims that by using his telephone a train can be easily stopped.

The writer, an old Erie commuter, wishes to inquire why it wouldn't be desirable, before adopting this new patent which stops trains, to get something to START our local trains on get something to start our local trains on time?

C. W. LOCKWOOD.

Nutley, N. J., Nov. 2, 1909.

TO JOHN MILTON.

"He for God only, she for God in him."—Paradise Lost.

A tremendous epic, pompous and solemn,
John Milton, that was you wrote;
But I cannot forgive the side remark,
Which the same above I quote;
Your style is a jewel-starred fabric of gold,
Robe fit for coronation,
But your views on "The Woman Question" fill
My soul with consternation!

Now don't mistake me; I admire your epic,
It's so very nice and long,
And on religion and morals and such,
You always come out so strong;
It's a marvel to me how you kept that gait,
That tranquil, complacent stride,
Through the sudden changes of two distinct worlds,
And the hot of Hell beside.

And Oh, your hero! that big, shining Satan
With heart of untamed fire,
Who dared to want to be God, and in Heaven
Gave sword to his desire;
Splendidest hero conceived by the human,
Insurgent and Captain, too,
With a mind to o'erleap the Established Caste,
And the quick, sure will to do!

Dared to want to be God!—my spirit trumpets
His spirit from height to height;
All the noble in me leaps wide to courage—
The man in his mighty fight!
Dared to want to be God * * * whence came our "sin,"
The velvet mold of the grave,
And in vast wake of these the serene white Christ
With hope to heal and save.

But Adam, he's a first-class mollycoddle,
No timber in him at all;
Even sans Satan and Eve and the Apple,
The man was certain to fall;
He ducked behind the woman when trouble came,
And talked a blue streak, I bet;
A model of domestic evasion that
Most men are following yet.

Your Eve, I confess, I don't admire much,
Too facile to disobey;
When the snake popped 'round the tree, such a woman
Would scream and scamper away;
But if she has to find her God in Adam,
One couldn't ask much of her;
As a conductor of Divine Justice he
Was not a man to prefer.

Don't think I don't like your poem, John Milton,
Or read far into the night;
But the side remark I have quoted above
I can't get over it quite;
You had had three wives, and you were blind. Please, Sir,
Accept this appreciation,
Though your views on "The Woman Question" fill
My soul with consternation!

PRESIDENT LEADS A PARADE

Parries Question as to His Stand on Alabama Prohibition Amendment —Defends Golf.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 3.—President Taft brought his twenty hours' stay in Birmingham to a close this afternoon and left for Macon, Ga. He stopped to-night for a short stay at Opelika, Ala., and at Columbus, Ga.

In his principal Birmingham address, delivered at Capital Park this afternoon to an immense and demonstrative crowd, the President again expressed his good will toward the South. While doing so a gray-bearded man in the crowd called out:

"God bless you; we all love you."

A broad smile came over the President's face as he replied:

"That reminds me of the old quotation, 'It may be all right to dissemble your love, but why did you kick me downstairs?' But I have no fault to find on that score," added the President. "The fact that you had so little to do with putting me where I am makes me appreciate the warmth and sincerity of your reception all the more."

The President urged support in carrying out the Roosevelt policies, to bring about better conditions of honesty and integrity in business and public affairs without regard to party lines. He also referred to the proposition to amend the State Constitution by providing in it for an indefinite continuance of State-wide prohibition. He was asked how he stood on the question.

"I am not an Alabamian," he replied amid laughter, "and I am in somewhat the position of Brother Fox, who, when he was called upon to decide a case between a lion and some other ferocious beast, protested that he had a bad cold and had entirely lost his sense of smell."

In one of his speeches here to-day, the President sought to defend golf from the charge that it is a rich man's game.

"The game of golf," he said, "I am not only fond of myself, but I am serious in thinking that its general spread through the country is a real advance in the matter of hygiene and healthfulness and long life to men between fifteen and seventy. Now, I speak with some fervor on the game of golf, because during the last Presidential election I was not without caution as to the effect of too great enthusiasm shown on my part in reference to the game.

"It was supposed at that time to be, and it was heralded in the newspapers as being, a game indicating aristocratic leaning and association with wealth, that was supposed to injure one in the standing of the 'plain people,' as Lincoln called them. But I am hopeful now that the virtues of golf as a trainer of character and as a leveler instead of an exalter of people will be so well understood that in any future political campaign golf will figure rather as a reason for electing a candidate who is addicted to it, than to defeat him."

At 8:30 A. M. the President was driven to the Country Club, where breakfast was served. The breakfast was a simple affair, and there were no speeches.

About noon began the parade, one of the largest ever seen in Birmingham, composed of commercial, civic, and fraternal organizations, school children, and no less than 300 automobiles. German and Italian societies turned out with native and American flags floating.

As the Presidential party passed the Paul Hayne school, on the south side, several hundred children sang "The Star-Spangled Banner" and "Dixie." The President, after riding through the better part of the business section of the city at the head of the parade, took his position on the reviewing stand in front of the Southern Club, and the parade passed in review. Luncheon was served afterward at the club.

When the President left the luncheon the way from the clubhouse door to the waiting automobile was lined on one side by veterans of the Confederate Army and on the other side by veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic. As he passed down this avenue Mr. Taft shook hands alternately with each one.

As he shook hands with one of the Confederates the old fellow said:

"Mr. President, you have captured the Secessionists, the Ku Klux, and the cranky Democrats, all of them."

"Well, that's a whole lot," smilingly replied the President.

At 2 o'clock the President addressed the people at Capital Park. At 4:10 he departed for Macon.

Wherever he went to-day the President was received by enthusiastic crowds, and it is growing more and more evident that his welcome in the South is probably the most cordial he has received in any section of the country.

TELLS OF SUFFRAGIST GAINS.

Mrs. Snowden Declares Women Have Forced the Question Into Politics.

Mrs. Philip Snowden, the young suffragette wife of an English member of Parliament, arrived in this city from England yesterday morning, and in the afternoon talked of the progress made by woman suffrage in Great Britain since her visit to this country a year ago.

"Woman suffrage has become a matter of practical politics in my country since I was here," said Mrs. Snowden. "It is a question with every man in the street. Before it was discussed only by comfortable old ladies in their back parlors. Now, too, we have formed an anti-suffrage society, which has filled the country with inextinguishable laughter. The Countess of Jersey is the President, and Mrs. Humphry Ward is the power behind the throne."

There are many members of the nobility in this organization, and Mrs. Snowden told how an unconverted visitor was grabbed as a welcome victim, set before the society while its ammunition was fired at her, and then as she still remained in error, this parting shot was aimed at her:

"Just think who you will meet in our society?"

On her previous visit Mrs. Snowden acknowledged herself in sympathy with the suffragettes, although personally opposed to taking part in their demonstrations.

"There is no doubt that they have harassed the Government very much and bored me," she said in answer to a question if the English people were bored by their aggressiveness. "I am pleased that the militant suffragists have broken the press boycott, and we are now reported. But they are more enthusiastic than wise. No indiscriminate flinging of stones or using of weapons is justified. Nothing of a criminal nature had been done by the suffragettes when I was here before. I do not think they intend to be criminal now, but they are obsessed and a bit out of hand."

GALICIANS IN DIRE WANT.

Oscar S. Straus Appeals to the Red Cross for Aid for Them.

The New York State Branch of the American National Red Cross has received the following cable message from Oscar S. Straus, Minister to Turkey:

> With the approach of Winter fully 60,000 women and children in Galicia, whose husbands and fathers were massacred in April, are sorely in need of shelter and the necessaries of life. Funds exhausted. Appeal urgent. Kindly make public.

The State Branch of the American National Red Cross also announces that contributions may be sent to Jacob H. Schiff, Treasurer Red Cross, 500 Fifth Avenue.

NEW THEATRE HAS BAD OPERA ACOUSTICS

Orchestra Pit Has a Solid Cement Wall Separating Orchestra from the Audience.

VOLUME OF SOUND LOST

Metropolitan Director Says Experiments Are Being Made to Remedy Defects—All Right for Drama.

That the New Theatre has proved a disappointment acoustically, so far as performances of opera go, was admitted yesterday by one of the Directors of the Metropolitan Opera Company, who said that every possible experiment was being made to improve matters. Another person, who is closely in touch with the orchestra of the Metropolitan Opera House, said that the New Theatre had been constructed with an absolute disregard for performances of opera.

"It is too late to change anything vitally connected with the building," said this person, "but the fact remains that $2,000,000 has been expended on a theatre which is to be used for opera on two occasions a week, with an absolute disregard for the orchestra which is to play the music of the operas.

"The orchestra pit is not only deeply sunk like that of a pit in an ordinary theatre, but it is floored and walled with concrete cement. This is not the worst. A solid wall of cement separates the orchestra from the audience. It is, of course, impossible to make any volume of sound carry through this wall.

"Every possible experiment is now being made with the pit. It has been suggested that changing the usual seating arrangement of the orchestra may have an effect. It is also hoped that some sort of a wooden flooring may help to send the sound out. The fact remains that attempts are being made at the latest possible moment to correct a fault which should never have been allowed to occur if those who had the building of the theatre in charge had considered that it was to be used for opera.

"We are all hoping that an audience in the theatre or some improvised contrivance may save the day. At present the situation is not any too hopeful. It is really necessary to entirely remodel the orchestra pit to obtain the best effect, which should have been aimed for."

The director of the Metropolitan Opera Company said: "So far as dramatic performances are concerned the theatre seems to be all right. It will also accommodate itself to a symphony concert which is held on the stage. But when the orchestra is in the pit one gets quite the wrong effect from the back of the house. It seems impossible to hear anything but the percussion instruments. The sound of the stringed instruments entirely disappears.

"It has been felt that much of this loss of sound is due to the fact that the New Theatre is constructed in part of cement, which probably absorbs the sound to a large extent. It is also possible that a sounding board of some sort may do away with the present difficulty. Perhaps when an orchestra is playing in the pit when the theatre is filled it may give a different effect. The fact remains that the result at the present time is disappointing and that some remedy seems to be demanded."

Mr. Ames, the director of the New Theatre, could not be seen last night.

NEW TIMES SQUARE THEATRE.

George M. Cohan Company Has Option—Beck Was to Have Been Lessee.

The George M. Cohan Theatre Company, recently incorporated in Albany, has obtained an option on the new theatre that is to be erected in Times Square, at the southeast corner of Broadway and Forty-third Street, by the Forty-third Street and Broadway Realty Company. The incorporators of the Cohan Theatre Company are Sam H. Harris and Dennis F. O'Brien of New York and Frank R. Tait of St. Louis.

Martin Beck, manager of the Orpheum vaudeville circuit, was to have been the lessee of this new Times Square theatre, but he found that its capacity would be too small for vaudeville on the scale he desired.

YOLANDA MERO'S CONCERT.

First American Appearance of a Young Hungarian Pianist.

Yolanda Mero made her American debut last evening in Carnegie Hall. She is a pianist, young, strong, and a Hungarian. Her arrangements for her American debut were ambitious. She had the assistance of the Russian Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Modest Altschuler, and with it she played two concertos, Chopin's in F minor and Liszt's in A major. Miss Mero has talent unquestionably. She has much brilliant technical skill and power of arm and finger which for the most part exist in and of and, for themselves in her playing at present, for the reason that they are not controlled and well ordered. Miss Mero has not arrived at a ripe and well-rounded conception of the music she plays; she does not perceive the deeper qualities, the poetic beauty, the lambent grace, and exquisite proportion of the Chopin concerto, and her playing of it is lacking in repose and poignancy and in lucidity of phrasing. She put a tremendous amount of energy into it, and there was a brilliancy that would have been more telling if it had had more incisive rhythmic quality in certain passages. Her tone is generally fine and round and not without variety, and there were pages that she played with a real beauty and charm. The long, recitative-like passage was very well conceived and executed.

It is likely that Miss Mero's art will ripen and deepen, for she has undoubtedly unusual gifts and attainments. There was a large audience that gave her much applause. The orchestra accompanied her crudely, and gave a singularly strident and unfinished performance of Svendsen's "Carnival in Paris." Between the two concertos it played Ippolitow-Ivanow's "Caucasian Sketches."

Columbia Sophomores in a Comedy.

Columbia sophomores will produce "Before and After," an adaptation by Leo Ditrichstein from the French, at the Waldorf-Astoria next month. Mr. Kean, who has successfully coached several sophomore plays in the past, has again been engaged as coach, and rehearsals will begin immediately. The play will be produced on three consecutive evenings and one matinee, beginning Dec. 15.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Rehearsals of Charles Klein's new play, "The Next of Kin," which Henry B. Harris will produce, will begin to-day at the Hudson Theatre, under the personal direction of the author.

Fiske O'Hara has begun rehearsals of "The Wearing of the Green," the new comedy by Theodore Burt Sayre, in which he is to star.

Thomas W. Ross is to head the Chicago company of "The Fortune Hunter" that will open at the Olympic Theatre on Dec. 26, after a week in Rochester and Buffalo. Mr. Ross originated the role of Nat Duncan when the play was first produced, last Spring.

May Mackenzie has been engaged by the Schuberts for a leading part with Zelda Sears in Clyde Fitch's comedy, "Kitty and the Canary."

Harriet Brown, recently seen here in "The Motor Girl," has been engaged for "The Belle of Brittany."

Mrs. William E. Corey, known to the stage as Maybelle Gilman, gave a theatre party at Maxine Elliott's Theatre yesterday afternoon to witness "The Passing of the Third Floor Back."

"The Admiral," with William F. Hawtrey, has been withdrawn after a preliminary tour, and will be recast and reconstructed while arrangements are being made for a New York production of the piece.

Liebler & Co. have sent to the proprietors of more than 22,000 newspapers in the United States a query asking for a criticism of the incident in "The Fourth Estate," in which the managing editor of a paper yields to the demands of a large advertiser.

MATINEE FOR "OLD LOVERS."

Miss Taliaferro to Try to Prove That True Love Still Flourishes Here.

Miss Mabel Taliaferro, who is appearing in "Springtime" at the Liberty Theatre, has taken upon herself the task of proving that right here in New York true love is flourishing. "Springtime" is the love story of a dainty little maid who lived in old Louisiana in 1815. It is the story of a good and lasting love. Recently the opinion was expressed that it would be hard to find in this city of so much wickedness a love that had survived the flight of time.

Miss Taliaferro thinks not. In order to demonstrate this she has set apart 500 seats for Wednesday's matinee for "old lovers." Couples over 60 years who have been happily married may have free seats. They will have to write to Miss Taliaferro the story of their love and life. The actress looks for Wednesday afternoon to witness a reunion of Darbys and Joans.

"I am not a person who sees nothing but the sordid in life," said Miss Taliaferro yesterday. "I believe there is just as much that is pure and good, and that love is just as sweet and lasting as in the days of the long ago."

MISS OLIVE SCHLEY WEDS.

Becomes the Bride of William Moore Shackford at St. Bartholomew's.

The wedding of Miss Olive Schley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Schley, to William Moore Shackford, took place yesterday afternoon in St. Bartholomew's Protestant Episcopal Church, Madison Avenue and Forty-fourth Street. The Rev. Dr. Leighton Parks performed the ceremony, which was followed by a small reception at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Schley, 17 West Fifty-second Street.

Miss Schley made an unusually handsome bride in her long trained robe of orchid embroidered satin, trimmed with old point lace.

Her attendants were her sister-in-law, Mrs. Reeve Schley; Mrs. Max Behr, formerly Miss Evelyn Schley; Miss Margaret Hubbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Loring Hubbell, and Miss Anna Shackford, a sister of the bridegroom. Their frocks were of pink chiffon over pink satin, and their large pink satin hats were trimmed with large pink tulle bows.

Mr. Shackford's best man was his brother, Lieut. Chauncey Shackford, U. S. N., and his ushers were Reeve Schley, brother of the bride; Gardner Perry, a cousin of Mr. Shackford; Arthur H. Hagemeyer, Augustus Skillin, Benjamin Hotchkiss, Lawrence Slade, Morris H. Mundy, and Arnold L'Hommedieu.

Mr. Shackford is the son of the late Commodore William G. Shackford, U. S. N.

SLOANE—BRADLEY.

The marriage of Miss Eva Bradley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bradley, to William Douglas Sloane, took place yesterday evening at their home, 320 West Sixty-sixth Street, where the reception was held. The Rev. Dr. George P. Eckman officiated. Miss Bradley's attendants were her sister, Miss Isabelle Bradley, and the little Misses Margaret Sloane Manson and Helen Lynch. Mr. Sloane's brother, J. Parker Sloane, was best man, and the ushers were Paul Cooley, James Hopkins, R. T. Lynch, and Dr. Samuel Tracey.

HENRY—BENSON.

William Eugene Henry and Miss Jennie Mae Benson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Richard Benson, were married yesterday at the home of the bride's parents in New Rochelle, N. Y. The Rev. Robert Gardner McGregor officiated. The only attendant was little Miss Robina Knox, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Knox. Yesterday was Mr. Henry's birthday, and the same date as the wedding of the bride's parents. Mr. Henry is Assistant Postmaster at Nazareth, Penn., where he and his bride will make their home.

BISHOP—KENDALL.

Miss Marjorie Stevens Kendall and Maitland Lathrop Bishop were married at the house of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Beals Kendall, 12 Gramercy Park, on Wednesday afternoon. The Rev. Samuel C. Bushnell of Arlington, Mass., officiated. Merrill Bishop, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. After the ceremony a small reception followed. Mr. and Mrs. Bishop will spend the Winter in Southern California.

WRIGHT—GOUGH.

Miss Lucy Hayden Gough, daughter of the late Wilfred Gough of Chaptico, St. Mary's County, Md., was married in Christ Church at her home last Thursday by the Bishop of Washington, the Rev. Dr. Alfred Harding, to the Rev. William John Wright, an Episcopal clergyman of Washington, D. C.

BARTLETT—PLATT.

The marriage of Miss Henrietta Platt, daughter of the late Henry B. Platt, to Donald L. Bartlett of New York took place yesterday afternoon in the South Church, Madison Avenue. Raymond Platt gave his sister in marriage, and Miss Platt's attendants were Mrs. William R. Loomis, matron of honor, and Miss Alletta Platt, a cousin of the bride.

FLETCHER—WATSON.

The marriage of Miss Annie Hamilton Watson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hamilton Watson, to Charles Fletcher, son of Joseph E. Fletcher, Vice Commodore of the Larchmont Yacht Club, took place yesterday in Grace Church, Providence, R. I.

Miss Wells Weds at Yokohama.

Miss Elizabeth Wells, daughter of Stewart B. Wells, and John de G. Bevery were married on Nov. 2, at Yokohama, Japan.

The Misses Margery and Dorothy Ficken, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. H. Edwards Ficken, have returned from their country place at Huntington, L. I.

DIPPEL TAKES THE CHICAGO AUDITORIUM

With Associates Buys Lease from Klaw & Erlanger and Will Give Opera Next Fall.

HOUSE TO BE REMODELED

New Company to be Independent, but Affiliated with Metropolitan—Possible Chain of Opera Houses.

It begins to look as if within a year America intends to establish a chain of opera houses, like those which all the smaller continental cities possess. Boston and Philadelphia already own opera houses. Yesterday it was announced that John C. Shaffer, of Chicago, and Andreas Dippel, of New York, acting on behalf of a group of leading Chicago and New York business men, have purchased the lease of the Auditorium Theatre, in Chicago, from Klaw & Erlanger, and will give a season of twenty weeks of opera, commencing in the fall of 1910.

The Auditorium is to be entirely remodeled, and will be made, it is said, one of the most beautiful and artistic opera houses in America. The alterations, however, will not be allowed to in any way interfere with the present acoustic qualities of the house, which are recognized to be perfect. The decorations and the new boxes will be arranged somewhat after the style of those in the Metropolitan in New York.

Mr. Dippel has offered his services to the organization as general manager in an honorary position, and will, in conjunction with the Board of Directors of the new company, select a general musical director of the highest standing, who will have entire charge of the production of opera in Chicago.

The opera company in Chicago will be absolutely independent of all other organizations, but will be affiliated with the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York. It will have its own conductors, artists, orchestra, chorus, ballet, scenery, costumes, etc.; in short, its own complete, independent artistic and business administration, and will give a season of twenty weeks of opera, beginning in the fall of 1910. The immediate possession of the theatre will be given to Messrs. Shaffer and Dippel, on behalf of the new company, but Klaw & Erlanger will continue to manage the theatre for the remainder of the season and have full control of the bookings and attractions that are to be presented there until the theatre is remodeled as an opera house and the Chicago Opera Company started.

Mr. Dippel, when seen at the Metropolitan Opera House last evening, was enthusiastic about the new project, the success of which he felt to be assured.

"My position with the company," he said, "is that of General Director, but it is in a sense honorary; that is, I shall not be in Chicago, but here in New York, but I shall be glad to give all the advice which seems necessary, and will probably have a hand in making the repertoire.

"The Metropolitan Company will visit the Auditorium as usual this Spring, and may make visits to Chicago in the future seasons. At any rate, the Chicago company will be an entirely distinct and separate organization."

There were many speculations made last night about who the musical director of the company would be. It is quite possible that the position will be offered to Cleonfonte Campanini, who this season is directing the orchestra at the San Carlo Opera in Naples. Whether opera will be given in French, German, Italian, or English is not yet announced.

"It is quite possible," said a prominent Director of the Metropolitan Opera Company last night, "that opera will be sung there in English at least within a few years, and not only there but here and in all the other American Opera Houses. In France all opera, be it written by Massenet, Wagner, or Puccini, is sung in French; in Germany all opera is sung in German.

"In New York we are accustomed to hearing the operas sung in the languages in which they were written, but this necessitates the company being twice as large as is necessary. Also with the increased demand for opera singers many of the houses will have to depend upon American singers. Why ask these singers to sing in languages which they will have to learn, and the audiences cannot understand? French opera singers usually do not even speak Italian. Eventually of course the demand created by the various Opera Houses will create a conservatory here, which will be sufficient for the needs of students.

"I do not mean to say that there are not such institutions here now. I only mean to say that the singers who graduate from American institutions now usually do not find chances to sing here. It will also create a demand for operas by American composers."

FOLLOWS PRODIGY SON.

Father Hides on Steamer and Embraces Boy Violinist on Pier.

Jascha Bron, 16 years old, is a musical prodigy who two months ago created a sensation in London by his violin playing. The young man, who burst from obscurity in Moscow, where he was born, is here for a concert tour under the management of R. E. Johnston. The manager obtained him a few weeks ago when he was abroad. In drawing up a contract for the young musician's parents to sign, it was stipulated that the boy's father must not accompany him across the ocean or seek even at long distance to interfere with him in his work here.

Bron arrived here yesterday on the Cunard liner Carmania. He was met at the pier by Mr. Johnston, and both were standing talking near the young man's baggage when a rather short, gray-bearded man well past middle age rushed up to the singer and throwing his arms about him began to talk excitedly in Russian. The lad dropped his instrument case and greeted the man with every manifestation of gladness and affection.

"This is my father," he explained between embraces to the astonished manager.

The father rather than be separated from his son had crossed the Atlantic on the same vessel as the lad. The elder Bron was in the second cabin, while his son occupied a room in the first-class. The father, knowing the terms of his son's contract, did not make his presence on board known to his son.

It took the services of an interpreter to straighten matters out. The manager told young Bron his father could remain here if he consented never to interfere with the lad or attend any performance where he played.

During this discussion the father, with tears in his eyes, explained again and again to Johnston that he came over without his son's knowing it because he could not bear to think of his boy being alone amidst strangers in a strange land.

FOR THE TABLE.

Loin lamb chops are 25 cents and were 30, and French chops are the same price. Shoulder chops are 16 cents.

JOHN S. KENNEDY'S FUNERAL.

Financiers and Trustees of Institutions at Services for Philanthropist.

John Stewart Kennedy, President of the Presbyterian Hospital, who died Sunday at his residence, 6 West Fifty-seventh Street, was buried yesterday at Woodlawn after impressive funeral ceremonies held at the Madison Square Presbyterian Church.

Trustees and managers of the numerous institutions of which Mr. Kennedy was an executive officer or Trustee were present at the services. The Presbyterian Hospital, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the New York Public Library, Columbia University, Robert College, Constantinople; the Charity Organization Society, the St. Andrew's Society, the United States Trust Company, and the Bank of Manhattan Company sent their officers and Trustees. In addition to these there were present the Medical Board of the Presbyterian Hospital, its staff, and its School of Nurses, for whom Mr. Kennedy had provided a residence. The Union League Club was represented by a special committee.

The Chamber of Commerce appointed a special committee of eleven financiers, formerly Vice Presidents of the Chamber, to represent it at the funeral of its former Vice President. They were J. Pierpont Morgan, Jacob H. Schiff, James J. Hill, George F. Baer, Gustav H. Schwab, Cleveland H. Dodge, Joseph H. Choate, George F. Seward, William Bayard Cutting, Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, and John Claflin.

The services were conducted by the pastor, the Rev. Charles H. Parkhurst, and the Rev. A. W. Halsey.

The honorary pallbearers were Stephen Baker, President of the Bank of Manhattan Company; Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University; Robert W. De Forest, President of the Charity Organization Society; Cleveland H. Dodge; Howard Elliott, President of the Northern Pacific Railway; Seth Low, J. Pierpont Morgan, George A. Morrison, former President of the St. Andrew's Society; Henry L. Smith, John A. Stewart, and Frederick Sturges, Vice President of the Presbyterian Hospital.

Among the others present in the church were Andrew Carnegie and Mrs. Carnegie, Henry De Forest, and Eugene Delano.

Rev. Adoniram J. Patterson.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Nov. 3.—The Rev. Adoniram J. Patterson, O. D., pastor emeritus of the Roxbury Universalist Church, died this afternoon at the age of 83.

Dr. Patterson was born in Spring Township, Penn. He was admitted to the ministry in 1852, and in the following year became pastor of the Universalist Church in Gerard, Penn. In 1866 he was called to the Universalist Church at Roxbury, Mass. He resigned to become a member of the New Hampshire Legislature, and served in this capacity for two years, after which he again took up the pastorate of the Roxbury Church, where he served until 1888, when he was made pastor emeritus. He was President of the Massachusetts Universalist Convention from 1873 to 1898.

Mr. Letz's Recital.

A recital was given in Mendelssohn Hall last evening by Mr. Hans Letz, violinist. He is said to be a pupil of the Hoch-Schule in Berlin. His programme included the first movement of Joachim's Hungarian concerto, an adagio by Viotti, a rondo by Vieuxtemps, Brahms's sonata for piano and violin in G major, Op. 78; the entr'acte from Massenet's "Thais," in which the solo violin is employed and is called a "Meditation," and Sarasate's "Les Adieux." Mr. Letz is a player well schooled in the fundamentals of his art, and he plays with serious and sincere purpose and with much that is artistic. His tone is not notable for much richness or sensuous beauty, and it is only pretty small in volume, but he plays with admirably correct intonation. Some of his performance last evening was rather dry and scholastic; such was Brahms's beautiful sonata, that is in itself an inspiration and a stimulus to avoid dryness and scholasticism. Mr. Kurt Schindler played the piano parts.

SHOCK KILLS E. COTTERILL.

Former Broker Prostrated When Wife Is Burned at Hallowe'en Party.

Ernest Cotterill, a former bond and real estate broker of this city, died yesterday from heart failure induced by shock as the result of a serious accident in which his wife was badly burned during a Hallowe'en party at his country home, Sunnybrook, at Flanders, Morris County, N. J.

The party was held last Friday night, and a number of guests from New York were invited to the festivities. At the height of the merriment, while the guests were marching around the room with lighted candles, Mrs. Cotterill slipped and the candle set fire to her clothing. While several members of the frightened party rushed into other rooms to get wraps with which to extinguish the flames, Mrs. Cotterill's nephew grabbed one of the fire extinguishers kept in the house and succeeded in putting out the blaze, but not until Mrs. Cotterill was severely burned about the body.

Mr. Cotterill, who had been suffering from nervous trouble for the last six years, was prostrated at the accident, and for a time it was feared he would not live through the night. The next day he appeared better, but his weakened physical condition, combined with heart trouble, caused his death yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Cotterill had made all arrangements to sail for Europe with his wife within the next few days. He was about fifty years old. The funeral will be held to-morrow, and the interment will be at Baltimore, Md. Mrs. Cotterill is still in a critical condition.

CONTROLLER GAUS BURIED.

Gov. Hughes an Honorary Pallbearer at Services in Albany.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 3.—Governor Hughes was one of the honorary pallbearers at the funeral of State Controller Charles H. Gaus, which was held at 2:30 o'clock to-day from All Saints' Cathedral. The other honorary pallbearers were Timothy L. Woodruff, Chairman of the Republican State Committee; Deputy Controller Otto Kelsey, Representative Herbert Parsons of New York, William Barnes, Jr., Mayor-elect James B. McEwan and Mayor Henry F. Snyder.

Lieut. Governor White was unable to be present. Many State officials and members of the Legislature attended. The services were conducted by the Right Rev. William C. Doane, Bishop of Albany. Interment was in Rural Cemetery.

Obituary Notes.

JOHN P. KENNEDY, an actor, died yesterday at the Presbyterian Hospital, after an illness of three months. He was 32 years of age. He was born in Decatur, Ill. His specialty was dancing and low comedy, his last appearance being in "Miss Hook of Holland," which was played last Fall at the Criterion Theatre. In addition to his theatrical work he conducted a dancing school with his sister, Miss Josephine Kennedy, at the Berkeley Lyceum. Mr. Kennedy was never married. He lived at 102 West Sixty-first Street with his sister. Mr. Kennedy was a thirty-second degree Mason, a member of the Elks and the Actors' Society.

REUBEN A. HENRY, son of William Henry, the founder of Scranton, Penn., died yesterday at the age of 91 years, at his home, 283 Eighth Street, Jersey City. He was a railroad man, having been general auditor for the Delaware & Hudson Railroad and general ticket agent of the Lackawanna Railroad. A widow and two sons survive him. He will be buried in Wilkesbarre, Penn.

MARTIN DEVITT, formerly a well known New York specie broker, died on Tuesday in his home, 66 Mercer Street, Jersey City, in his 77th year. He was born in Ireland and brought to America at the age of 9. After being in the brokerage business for fifty years Mr. Devitt retired two years ago from the firm of Stullu & Devitt, who had an office in Battery Place. He left three sons and two daughters.

PAUL SHEEHAN, one of the night chiefs in the Western Union Telegraph office, 195 Broadway, died suddenly on Tuesday night, at his home, 19 Eldert Street, Brooklyn, after an illness lasting several months. He had been in the Western Union employ for nearly forty years. A widow and four children survive him.

JOSEPH STEINMETZ, a veteran of the civil war, and for many years an employe of the New York Post Office, died on Tuesday.

Major F. M. H. KENDRICK, U. S. A., retired, died suddenly in his home in St. Paul of heart disease, on Tuesday night, in his 72d year. He began his military career as second lieutenant of volunteers in the Thirty-first Massachusetts Infantry, in 1862, and joined the regular army as Second Lieutenant, in 1867, in the Seventh Infantry. He was promoted to captain in 1889 and major in 1899, and retired in October, 1900.

WILLIAM BUTLER, formerly United States Court Judge for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, died on Tuesday, at his home in West Chester, Pa., in his 88th year. He was for forty years a member of the Federal judiciary, and retired about ten years ago on account of age. Judge Butler came of a highly respectable Quaker family, and was a brother of "Honest" Samuel Butler, who was State Treasurer for Pennsylvania for many years. A son, William Butler, Jr., was elected a judge of the courts of Chester County at the age of thirty-four, and a nephew, Thomas S. Butler, was elected to Congress for several terms.

Mrs. CATHERINE VAN RENSSELAER BERRY died on Monday at her home in Washington. She was the widow of Nathaniel Berry and a daughter of the late Stephen Van Rensselaer of Albany, who was known as the "Last Patroon." He was directly descended from the old Van Rensselaer family which figured early in the history of that part of the country. Mrs. Berry was born in Albany and spent the early portion of her life in Paris, and went to Washington thirty-five years ago. She is survived by two children, Miss Natalie Berry and Judge Walter Van Rensselaer Berry, a member of the International Court of Arbitration in Cairo, Egypt.

JOHN VINCENT CARROLL died on Monday, in his home, 330 Prospect Place, Brooklyn, in his 78th year. He retired from the livery stable business twelve years ago with a comfortable fortune. Four sons and two daughters survive him.

Mrs. ELLEN M. CROSBY died on Tuesday at her home in Bayonne, N. J., in her 83d year. Her sister, Mrs. Frances D. Flanders, of Scotch Plains, died in the same house on Monday, in her 80th year. The double funeral was held yesterday. Mrs. Crosby left one daughter, Mrs. Nellie Cottrell, in whose home she and her sister died.

JOHN EDWARD SUTTON died at his home, 134 Willoughby Avenue, Brooklyn, on Tuesday from Bright's disease. He was born in Brooklyn 40 years ago. He was formerly engaged in the mining business, but the later years of his life he devoted to managing his mother's estate in this city, and his own realty holdings in Westchester County, N. Y., and Bethlehem, N. H. He left a mother, Mrs. Belle Stow Sutton.

THOMAS STANLEY NEDHAM, a civil engineer, who has been connected for the last ten years with the New Jersey Portland Cement Company at Perth Amboy, died yesterday at his home, 129 High Street, Perth Amboy. Mr. Nedham was in his fifty-eighth year, and had been suffering from heart trouble for several months. In early life he was engaged in construction work in the South. He left a widow, one son, Stanley Cromwell Nedham, and one daughter, Miss Marion Nedham. His brother, Henry B. Nedham, of this city, is President of the New Jersey Portland Cement Company.

Marriage and death notices intended for insertion in the New York Times may be telephoned to 1000 Bryant.

THE ASSET INVISIBLE

Sincerity of purpose shapes the destiny of commerce.

It is never itemized in a statement of assets and liabilities.

It is one of many things that prove the inadequacy of figures.

We are not philanthropists, but we do occasionally advise against a proposition which looks good for us but bad for the owner.

This isn't a sacrifice, but good judgment.

Our prosperity is founded on the general prosperity of real estate investments.

One disappointed owner has the effect of discouraging others. We have an eye to to-morrow.

SAVAGE LOOMS UP STRONG FOR YALE

Substitute Full Back Smashes 'Scrubs' Line for Three Touchdowns.

STAR OF ELI'S BACKFIELD

Half Back Daly Gets Into the Scrimmage After Recovering from Injuries —Explorer Borup Views Practice.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 3.—The football coaches to-day opened the gates of the university field, for all the scrimmaging and the secret drill was limited to signal rehearsal. It was all of the old style, line-boring kind, and the 'Varsity was not held by the scrubs during the afternoon. Three times the regulars swept down the field from centre for a touch-down. Daly, Francis, and Savage were the trio to start the play. It was Daly's first work for more than a week, and he proved that his recent injury was only slight. His work was to-day powerful and steady. Savage, however, was the back field star. His gains were larger than those of any other back, and he never failed to get the yards needed. Savage made the three touch-downs which comprised the afternoon's scoring. Hobbs kicked all three goals.

The line-up to-day was as follows: Left end, Vaughan; left tackle, Hobbs; left guard, Andrus; centre, Cooney; right guard, Brown; right tackle, Lilley; right end, Brooks; quarter back, Corey; left half back, Daly and Holt; right half back, Francis; full back, Savage.

The coaches at the field were Veeder, Bigelow, Cockran, Adee, and Roraback. George Borup, who went north with Peary, was also out and received a warm welcome from Trainer John Mack, who knew Borup when he was a member of the Yale track squad.

FOOTBALL IS BARBAROUS.

Archbishop Ryan Scores the Kind Played by American Collegians.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Nov. 3.—"Football as played at present by the college teams of this country is barbarous and ought to be abolished," said Archbishop Ryan of this city to-day. "Instead they should play association football, as it is called now-a-days. It is the kind we played when I was at college, where the players kick the ball and not each other."

Archbishop Ryan's comment was brought out by the death of Michael Burke, a student at the Medico-Chirurgical College, who received fatal injuries in a game last Saturday. Burke, whose home was in Shenandoah, was a member of the Cathedral while attending college here, and was personally known to the Archbishop. Burke's funeral, which will be attended by a number of Medico-Chirurgical students, will be held to-morrow at Shenandoah.

Rush for Yale-Harvard Tickets.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 3.—Yale and Harvard football officials are staggered at the demand for tickets to their annual football game at Cambridge on Nov. 20. Seats are being distributed under the application system. To-day applications closed, and the managers are at their wits end to devise means to accommodate the alumni of the two institutions, not counting in the general public. Long ago it was seen that football lovers outside the Yale and Harvard graduates would have to hustle for seats. Now it is certain that, even if the alumni can be seated, they will have to greatly curtail their family parties. At Yale for the first time it has been found necessary to cut down the allowance of tickets from three to two for each graduate. At Harvard the number was reduced from three to two several years ago. Harvard has many more alumni than Yale to seat, so that Harvard's half of the tickets on the Stadium does not begin to go as far as at Yale. There are 34,500 seats in the Stadium. Yale takes half, and Harvard the remainder, but Yale has for several years gracefully turned back to Harvard from 3,000 to 5,000 of Yale's half in order that Harvard alumni might all be accommodated. To-day's rush for tickets here makes it certain that Yale men have more than applied for Yale's share of the seats in the Stadium, and that, for the first time, Yale cannot help Harvard in filling the demand of the Crimson after the Yale graduates have been satisfied.

Prices for tickets this year are sure to reach figures before unknown. Already $50 each is offered here by a Westerner for three tickets. There seems no room to doubt that blocks of three tickets will surely bring $100 apiece long before the day for the game.

Navy May Play Pennsylvania.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 3.—That football is not under the ban at the Naval Academy was indicated this afternoon by particularly lively work for the first team and an interesting game of the interclass series, which were going on at the same time. The first team lined up against the fourth class team for about fifteen minutes and scored two touchdowns. Then it had about the same period against the scrub and crossed its line once. Capt. Meyer, Reifsnider, and Byrd are still kept out of practice on account of their injuries, but Richardson, the full back, who until last Saturday was also a member of the hospital squad, played throughout the practice and made two of the touchdowns. Irwin played quarter back in Byrd's place, and is developing into a good player. He has a much better physique than Byrd. The Army game having been canceled the Midshipmen are taking much interest in the preparation for the Washington and Jefferson game next Saturday and the Western Reserve game a week later. There is also some talk of having a big game to close the season, and one suggestion was that the University of Pennsylvania might be induced to prolong its season a few days and play the Naval Academy either on Franklin Field or at Annapolis.

Cornell Defense Seems Stronger.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 3.—Judging by the defensive work of the Cornell line in the last scrimmage before the game with Harvard next Saturday, the Ithacans are bound to play a much stronger game against the Crimson than was expected last week, when they were defeated by Williams. While the 'Varsity was unable to score against the second team, due perhaps to the absence of a number of star men, they played a stubborn defensive game that pleased the coaches. The men who laid off to-day were Capt. Tydeman, Hoffman, right half back; Simson, full back; Crosby, right end, and Donnan, left tackle. The work of O'Connor at right guard on the defensive, and Weeks at right tackle, was especially good, both men breaking up many of the second team's formations and spoiling several plays. Stude was started at left tackle, but when the scrimmage was hottest, he weakened, and the scrubs gained through him. Monk was sent into the position, and he did a great deal better. The scrubs also succeeded in getting around Sutton, the big crew man, who played left end. Carter, who was substituted, was stronger. Coach Larkin put in Stevenson at the other end, who seems to be gaining right along, and may be selected to play in Saturday's game. Gass was at full back for the first time in several weeks, and played well, especially on the defensive.

Four Touchdowns for Princeton.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 3.—With the return of cool weather the 'Varsity and scrub teams were hard at it again to-day and four touchdowns were scored by the former. McCrohan, Read, and Dawson were absent, but the rest of the regulars reported. Hart in the back field alternated with Sparks in carrying the ball, and this pair gained ground through the scrub line at will. Bard and Sparks both made some fine end runs. Later this trio was taken out and Cunningham, Matthews, and Woodle substituted. Waller, who has been 'Varsity guard, was shifted to the scrub to-day, Buckingham taking his place. McGregor also played in the line in McCrohan's place and showed up well. The coach's greatest worry has been the finding of end material. Gill and Ballin and Devito, who was put in later, all played a great game in this position, Gill especially showing great speed and tackling ability. Bill Edwards, 1900, was on the field to-day with the coaches and lots of snap and ginger was the result.

Harvard Planning to Beat Yale.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 3.—The Harvard football squad had light practice to-day on account of rain. After a talk by Coach Haughton the men ran through signals under the stadium sheds, opposed by the second eleven. No tackling was allowed, the "subs" acting as a foil with instructions to mass around the point of attack. The 'Varsity lined up as they will on Saturday against Cornell. McKay and G. Brown will not play Saturday, and Corbett's appearance is problematic. After the open session the 'Varsity went into practice within the stadium, working out formations planned to defeat Yale. West, the big guard, is said to have rounded into condition, but the displacement of L. Withington as guard is about the last thing the coaches figure on now. His brother, Paul, and Fisher promise to develop into as formidable a centre trio as Harvard has had for years. L. Smith's work in the West Point game is said by the Crimson coaches as being superior to any end they have, and "Gill" will have to fight hard to displace the youngster. Former Head Coach Dave Campbell arrived to-day to help instruct the team.

Three Brown Players Injured.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 3.—The wet field here to-day prevented the 'Varsity from scoring in a fifteen-minute half with the scrub team. The practice was behind closed gates and lasted for more than two hours. Several new formations were tried, to be used against Yale next Saturday but with little success because of the wet field and slippery ball. Coach Schwinn, who came to Providence yesterday to help Head Coach Gammons with the back field, gave his while attention to strengthening the interference in end runs. Toward the end of practice the 'Varsity lined up against the scrubs, but could not score. Three men were injured, and it is doubtful if they will be able to get in the Yale game Saturday. Full Back High and Left End Ashbaugh came out of the scrimmage with sprained ankles, and Allen received a broken nose. The loss of High will be keenly felt, as there is really no other competent man to take his place.

Light Football Work at N. Y. U.

Light practice only was held at New York University yesterday afternoon, the players taking it easy after their strenuous work against Wesleyan on election day. Coach Olcott lined the 'Varsity up against the scrubs for a short time, but no tackling was permitted. The work was gone through chiefly that Olcott might indicate to the men what their weak points were. Cooney, centre, has an injured knee and Crawford, right end, is suffering with a sprained finger.

St. Mark's School, 6; Groton School, 0.

SOUTHBORO, Mass., Nov. 3.—St. Mark's School football team to-day defeated the Groton School eleven by the score of 6 to 0.

PRETEND WINS IN CREEDMOOR STAKES

T. Monahan's Colt First with Three Horses Abreast for Aqueduct Feature Race.

HOFFMAN TAKES HANDICAP

Irish Lad's Half Brother Beats Harrigan and Rose Queen in Fastest Sprint of the Meeting.

Results that fell far short of convincing racegoers weer made in a long succession of hard-fought finishes at Aqueduct yesterday. Betting men vehemently disputed that the best horse was placed first in at least three of the six events, and the Western jockey, Butwell, who has had a fair share of prominence in metropolitan racing this season, figured largely in arguments, after his somewhat remarkable day of ill fortune or worse. Butwell rode well-backed horses in all the six races, but none of them got home first, two of the number, as receding favorites, being beaten in races where they looked best even at the end. Butwell showed to least advantage on Quantico, in the first event, which his mount seemed to have at his mercy, though at post time there was a very marked support for Lad of Langden, which looked like the only real contender.

Quantico took the track at the lifting of the barrier, raced swinging in front into the very last strides, and then, with Butwell sitting still and riding as if he assumed the race to be already over, Lad of Langden came on and, under a hustling ride by Glass, beat Quantico a head on the post. Butwell was close to winning several times after that, but each time was just far enough back to make opportunity for argument.

His mount in the Creedmoor Stakes, six and a half furlongs, for two-year-olds, the feature of the card, was Charlie Hargrave, the actual post favorite; and in this event there was a finish with three horses abreast, Pretend winning in the last jump by a head, with Dull Care and Charlie Hargrave almost on a line with him.

Harrigan was another favorite, and he most certainly should have won, and actually did seem to get home first. Rose Queen led the field until the horses were in the last furlong, where Hoffman, half-brother to the great horse Irish Lad, went up to her as the filly tired. Butwell, on Harrigan, in the meantime had pulled in behind Hoffman and Rose Queen, and though his horse was going much the strongest, Harrigan was shut in behind, and Butwell made no move to get out and come around until there was less than a furlong to go. Then Harrigan made his run and was running over Hoffman, appearing to get up on the post, where Butwell, apparently in the belief that he had won, ceased his riding, and Hoffman, according to the judges, got home first by a head in 1:13 2-5, the fastest sprint race of the meeting. The summaries:

JOCKEY DONOHUE HURT.

Steeplechase Rider Breaks Shoulder When Thistledale Falls.

PIMLICO, Md., Nov. 3.—A good crowd was out to see some of the finest racing of the present meeting. The Patapsco Huntpurse, two miles on the flat, was won easily by Algie, the favorite. The Glenmore steeplechase was won by Waterway. Thistledale, the favorite, fell at the twelfth jump. Donohue, his rider, had his shoulder broken. The Pimlico Fall handicap was won by Superstition, a long shot, breaking the track record held by himself, clipping off 1 3-5 seconds. The summaries:

FIRST RACE.—Six furlongs; purse, $400. Top Note, 107 pounds, (G. Burns,) 9 to 5, 7 to 10, and 1 to 3, won; Lothario, 98, (Reid,) 7 to 2, 6 to 5, and 1 to 2, second; King Commoner, 110, (Davenport,) 5 to 1, 8 to 5, and 3 to 5, third. Time—1:14. AUTO RACERS START FOR ATLANTA MEET

Twenty Drivers and Cars to Engage in Four Days of Competition.

OFFICIALS ALSO ON THE WAY

A. R. Pardington Will Be Referee, Sam Miles and Al Reeves Judges, C. H. Warner Timer, Fred Wagner Starter.

Twenty of the best auto drivers in the country, an equal number of cars, and several officials left the city last night for Atlanta for the big meet which is scheduled for Nov. 9 to 13 at the new Motordrome. A special fast freight train carried the racing cars, and three cars were attached to the night express for the delegation from this city. Prominent among the cars were several that competed in the Vanderbilt Cup race.

Fred Wagner, the official starter, had charge of the party, which traveled over the Seaboard Air Line. In the party was the Chalmers-Detroit team, including William Knipper, Lee Lorimer, Bert Dingley, and Joe Matson. They were accompanied by H. L. Bell, manager of the racing team; Jack Aiken and Charlie Merz, who will drive a pair of Nationals; George Robertson, who will be at the wheel of a Simplex; Louis Disbrow, who will drive a Rainier; Hugh Harding, the Apperson pilot; Harroun, the Marmon crack; Lewis Strang of the Fiat outfit; Louis Chevrolet and his brother, Albert, who will handle Buick cars, and Harry Stillman, the Marmon driver.

Walter Christie took the big racer which bears his name, which will probably be driven by Joe Seymour. H. J. Kilpatrick was on hand with his four-cylinder Hotchkiss, which young Sheppard drove in the 1906 Vanderbilt Cup race. The other members of the party were C. W. Matheson, President of the Matheson Car Company. He will have Neil Whalen at the wheel of his machine; H. W. Hobbs, Michelin Tire Company; H. W. Britton, and Jack Rutherford. S. B. Murdock will look after the interest of the party en route.

A. R. Pardington will act as referee and will leave Sunday with a party. Sam Miles and Al Reeves will officiate as judges, and C. H. Warner will be the timer. Fred J. Wagner will handle the starting flag. The party picked up Courtlandt B. Cramp at Philadelphia. Barney Oldfield, who will drive a Benz, is already at the Motordrome. The promoters have offered $8,000 and a number of trophies in prizes for the week. The Atlanta Auto Show will open Saturday and continue until Nov. 13.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 3.—Clanging bells, screaming whistles, and the cheers of thousands of citizens greeted the New York to Atlanta good roads tourists as they entered this city shortly before 1 o'clock to-day. The arrival here completed a journey of approximately 1,000 miles. The majority of the visitors will remain here for automobile week, Nov. 6 to 13.

BRITISH OFFICERS HERE.

Five Crack Military Riders to Compete at National Horse Show.

Five of Great Britain's crack military riders, headed by Major, the Hon. J. G. Beresford, Seventh Hussars, arrived yesterday on the Cunard Line steamer Carmania. The four officers accompanying Major Beresford are Lieuts. T. Gerard Hetherington, Eighteenth Hussars, Curragh of Kildare; P. G. Yorke, Royal Horse Artillery; C. F. Walwyn, Royal Horse Artillery, and T. H. Sebag-Montifiore, Royal Field Artillery. The horses, which arrived Monday, will begin active preparations to-day for the show.

Major Beresford and his fellow-officers said that they had a pleasant trip over and were delighted with the opportunity of visiting America, particularly with the outlook for a splendid week's sport at the National Horse Show. This is not Major Beresford's first visit to this country, as he came over with Sir Thomas Lipton for the last race for America's Cup.

The British officers have had considerable experience in amateur steeplechase riding, particularly Major Beresford and Lieut. Hetherington. All of them are members of hunts and enthusiastic followers of hounds.

Major Beresford, Lieuts. Hetherington, and Walwyn are at the Waldorf Astoria, and Lieuts. Yorke and Sebag-Montifiore are at the Holland House.

Columbia Tennis Title for Moses.

By defeating L. S. Fleischman yesterday in the final match of the Columbia University tennis tournament, A. S. Moses became the champion the second successive time. The scores were 6—1, 9—7, 6—8, 4—6, 6—1.

YONKERS RACES OFF.

Empire City Jockey Club Gives Up Dates for Season's Last Meeting.

Matt J. Winn, racing manager for the Empire City Jockey Club, at the Queens County Jockey Club's Aqueduct track yesterday, made official announcement that the proposed race meeting at the Empire City Club's Yonkers track had been declared off. Mr. Winn, who is manager of several Western racing enterprises, only arrived in New York yesterday from Louisville, Ky., called here for a conference with James Butler, President and the chief stockholder in the Empire City Club, and the decision, giving up the proposed race meeting at Yonkers, for which dates had been granted by The Jockey Club, was announced at once after he talked with Mr. Butler.

The only reason stated for the course taken by the Empire City Club was that Mr. Butler had decided it would be for the best interest of New York racing in the future to give up the short meeting at Yonkers and permit the turf season to end with the racing on Long Island, where the last racing scheduled is for Monday of next week.

The dates claimed for Yonkers covered only one week, carrying the racing up to Nov. 15, the limit permitted by law, but until within the past day or two Mr. Butler's club had made every preparation to run off the meeting, in spite of the lateness of the season and the handicap of bad weather. Improvements had been made at the Yonkers track, with a view to providing for the comfort of visitors in cold weather, and there was no intimation of a change of plans until the meeting was declared off, after a conference between Mr. Butler and Mr. Winn.

According to rumor the club was decided in its course by antagonism to Yonkers racing which recently has developed. The club, it was said, determined to avoid any conflict or legal complications for the present, preferring to wait for final decision on racing matters which still are in the courts.

It was at once suggested that the Queens County Jockey Club take the dates given up by Yonkers, and extend the Aqueduct meeting a week, but no action on this has been taken yet, as it would be necessary to secure the approval of the Jockey Club stewards before such a change could be made.

FINAL SPEEDWAY MATINEE.

Interesting Races Mark the Closing Events Over the Half Mile Course.

A number of interesting races marked the final Fall matinee of the Road Drivers' Association of New York yesterday afternoon over the half-mile course on the Speedway. Six events were on the programme and in all the competition was keen, with many close finishes, all of the events going three heats with the exception of one between Lillie Wilkes, driven by Dr. J. H. Ferster, and Hiram Abiff, owned by William J. Minor, which, though it was won in straight heats by the latter horse, furnished one of the most exciting finishes of the day.

In the race for Class A trotters, Aristo, driven by Gross, took an easy victory from Charles Weiland's chestnut gelding Sid Axworthy. The first heat went to Aristo by about a length, and Sid Axworthy had the honors in the second. The final, however, showed Aristo again in the lead at the end, with Sid Axworthy a length away. In this heat both horses broke as they were nearing the finish.

Jap, with Thomas Lawson in the wagon, continued his winning streak and captured the Class C event for trotters in pretty style. In the first heat Jap finished third to J. J. Corkery's Loushetell and Triphammer, driven by G. Grunzfelder, but the two succeeding times down the stretch saw Jap the winner with a comfortable margin to spare.

After being practically distanced in the first heat of the Class A pacers, Dr. J. H. Ferster's Lillie Wilkes, in the second trial, gave William J. Minor's Hiram Abiff a spirited race from start to finish, and lost by only the margin of a nose. The summary:

Flower Leads Columbia Runners.

The longest handicap cross country run of the series being held for novices at Columbia University in preparation for the National junior championships came off yesterday, in which F. S. Flower finished first. De Gruchy, who was the only scratch man, though coming in seventh, made the best time, running the six and one-half miles in 36 minutes 20 seconds.

READ—

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 26, 1909.

Mr. J. M. Gilbert, Manager Continental Caoutchouc Co., 1,788 Broadway, New York:

Dear Sir—I take this opportunity to express to you the great satisfaction of our dealers and customers throughout the country upon our adopting your Continental Demountable Rim as standard equipment. It seems to be the universal opinion that this rim eliminates to a large extent tire trouble, by making quick change possible.

We have used this rim for several years past in races and contests, and on some hundreds of customers' cars, and this year have already put out so far, several hundred cars where this rim is standard equipment, and have yet to know of one case where it has not given perfect satisfaction.

I wish to congratulate you upon putting such a satisfactory product on the market.

Yours very truly,

F. B. STEARNS, President.
F. B. STEARNS COMPANY.

New York City, Oct. 21, 1909.

Continental Caoutchouc Co., 1,788-90 Broadway, City:

Dear Sir—In the great 24-hour race at Brighton Beach, Oct. 15 and 16, the Lozier cars won first and second place, the winning car breaking the world's record by making 1,196 miles, also winning the special prize for making the greatest number of miles in the last hour. In addition, the winning car won the Sewall & Alden trophy for making a greater number of miles than ever made by any other in a 24-hour race during the year 1909.

As you know, our 45 and 50 H. P. stock cars are regularly equipped with Continental Demountable Rims, and these were used during the race, and the quick tire changes which the use of these rims enabled us to make, contributed in no small degree to the splendid time made by both cars, and we, therefore, feel that you are entitled to share with us in this double victory. Yours truly,

LOZIER MOTOR CAR CO.
(Signed) C. A. EMISE,
Mgr. Publicity Dept.

These are the safest Demountable Rims and are recommended by all motor car manufacturers as the best. Quickest to operate and guaranteed by us to give absolute satisfaction. Reference:—every motorist using them.

DE ORO SECURES LEAD OVER DALY

Three-Cushion Champion Scores 50 Points to 36 in the First Night's Play for Title.

PLAY WAS UNINTERESTING

Over-Cautiousness on the Part of Players Caused Contest to Drag Over Eighty-two Innings.

Alfred De Oro of New York and the present champion led John Daly of Chicago last night in the first of three nights' play at McGraw's Academy, Thirty-fifth Street and Sixth Avenue, by the score of 50 to 36. The men are playing 150 points for the three-cushion billiard championship of the United States, 50 points a night for three nights, for a purse of $500 and the trophy.

The game, except at intervals, was uninteresting. Cautious playing marked the work of both men, and safety play was of frequent occurrence. De Oro at one stage of the game led by 19 points, but as the contest progressed the Chicagoan showed to better advantage. He required thirty-two innings to reach double figures, while in the same number of turns at the table De Oro tallied 25. There were several bright spots marked by brilliant cue work by the pair.

A controversy arose in the twenty-fifth inning. In the twenty-fourth Daly shot with the wrong ball. De Oro ignored the foul and shot with the same ball used by his opponent. The Chicago player claimed a foul after De Oro had made the shot, but Referee Gallagher decided in favor of the champion after a long argument. This seemed to put De Oro on his mettle and he gathered in ten points in his next four innings. In his last run of 3 the champion played a splendid position game. Two more points came from De Oro's cue in the thirtieth inning, and the champion's score showed half the necessary points with Daly's string standing at 9. The score:

Championship Billiards at 18.2.

The entry list for the world's championship billiard tournament at 18-inch balk line, two shots in balk, to be held in the Concert Hall of Madison Square Garden, beginning Nov. 22, was announced yesterday by John T. Doyle, Frank Keeney, and Maurice Daly, the committee of the Room Keepers' Association of New York, under the auspices of which the competition is to be held. Six famous experts at the game have engaged, these being Firmin Cassignol, Paris; George F. Slosson, New York; Geore Sutton, Chicago; A. G. Cutler, Boston; Calvin Demarest, Chicago, and H. P. Cline, Philadelphia.

The tournament is to consist of games of 500 points up, subject to the present rules governing the game, with $5,000 in prize money offered, to be divided with the stakes of the players and the net receipts as follows: To the winner, 40 per cent.; second, 30 per cent.; third, 20 per cent.; fourth, 10 per cent.

Firmin Cassignol, at present the leading player of France, sailed for New York yesterday on the Majestic, which is due to arrive next Wednesday, and he will immediately begin practicing at one of the leading rooms. Calvin Demarest, Slosson, and Cutler are here practicing now, and the other players will be in New York soon to take up preliminary practice.

CENTRAL GIVES PLAN TO SPEND MILLIONS

Railway's Application to Issue $44,658,000 of New Stock Heard by Commission.

BIG SUM FOR BETTERMENTS

$25,000,000 of Notes Due in February to be Taken Up—May Go to Stockholders at Par.

ALBANY, Nov. 3.—The Public Service Commission, Second District, gave a hearing to-day upon the application of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad Company for authority to issue additional capital stock to the amount of 446,580 shares, of the par value of $100 each. Out of the proceeds of the sale of this stock it is proposed to pay the three-year 5 per cent. gold notes, amounting to $25,000,000, which become due on Feb. 1, 1910, the balance to be applied toward the improvements which have been or are now being made by the company.

Albert H. Harris, Vice President, and George W. Kittredge, Chief Engineer, appeared in support of the application. The schedule shows that the company proposes to spend, between Sept. 1, 1909, and Dec. 31, 1910, for new equipment the following amounts: Locomotives, $1,763,750; passenger equipment, $1,853,900; freight equipment, $7,980,400, and marine equipment, $439,500.

Among the expenditures of the company for construction and improvement chargeable to capital, subsequent to Sept. 1, 1909, are $13,920,400 in connection with the electrification of the lines and station improvements in New York City and vicinity. The total of the expenditures listed under this head amount to $29,165,100.

The stockholders on April 10, 1906, voted to increase the company's capital stock from $150,000,000 to $250,000,000. With the stock for which the consent of the commission is asked the total amount of outstanding capital stock will be $223,290,000.

The commission reserved its decision.

This application to the Public Service Commission revealed yesterday the purpose of the New York Central to issue to its stockholders additional stock to the extent of 25 per cent. of their holdings. The Directors have not yet fixed the terms of subscription nor decided on the date of issue. Details are awaiting the decision of the Public Service Commission.

In the absence of official information on the subject, it was pretty definitely understood yesterday that the New York Central shareholders will be given a chance to take this new stock at par, thus giving them valuable subscription rights, as Central stock is now selling at about 135. The granting of such rights would be in keeping with the disposition recently expressed by bankers and railroad men in favor of allowing such advantages to accrue to stockholders. The Pennsylvania, which on Monday announced an issue of $80,000,000 new stock fixed the price at par, although previous issues had been made at higher prices.

SETTLES McCARREN ACCOUNT.

$92,212 Paid by Receiver of Ennis & Stoppani.

Lindsay Russell, receiver in bankruptcy of Ennis & Stoppani, stock brokers, of 34 New Street, has made a statement of his work as receiver since April 13, which is before Stanley W. Dexter, referee in bankruptcy, of 71 Broadway, for examination and report.

The available assets are $450,602, consisting of cash, $158,267; securities, $40,000; cash surplus, Mechanics' Bank loan, $7,835; surplus of securities, Mechanics' Bank, $140,000; estimated value of lease of 38 and 40 Broad Street, $10,000; Bridgeport property, $25,000; equity in Allenhurst property, $3,500; equity in Deal properties, $16,500; stock of the Ennis Rubber Manufacturing Company, $25,000, and Chicago assets of $25,000. The receipts have been $163,212 and the disbursements $4,936.

The settlement with the late Senator Patrick H. McCarren of Brooklyn was for $92,212, representing the difference between the price of the stocks at the time of purchase and the price at the time of the firm's suspension. The stock and purchase prices are: 2,500 shares of Amalgamated Copper, 114½; 2,000 shares Brooklyn Rapid Transit, 81⅝, and 50 shares United States Rubber first preferred, 93⅞.

Settlements were made with several others, among whom were: John Cudahy, $2,329; T. Cleveland, $14,366, and H. D. Banister, $3,649.

The yacht Ignita was sold for $5,000 and an automobile for $6,000. Mr. Russell is negotiating for the sale of the plant of the Ennis Rubber Manufacturing Company, to which Mr. Ennis had advanced $86,000.

AGITATION IN COTTON OPTIONS

Rumors of Heavy Selling of Insiders Caused Opening Break in Market.

Excitement in the cotton market continued yesterday, and there were reports and denials that some of the leaders of the recent advance in cotton had sold out their holdings. Opening at new high prices for this movement the several options began shortly after the opening to fall under the pressure of heavy sales. The break extended in some directions to as much as $1.50 a bale, but when this point had been reached buying attributed to the W. P. Brown following drove the market back to and even above the best prices recorded at the opening.

Reports that the Patten holdings of cotton had been sold out at a profit of $3,000,000 was a factor in the early decline, and a denial of the same report influenced speculation in the afternoon, when prices were again advancing rapidly in most of the options.

The dealings on the Cotton Exchange were estimated at close to 1,000,000 bales, which is an unusually heavy total. At the close the prices of the active options showed net gains for the day of from 12 to 18 points.

TRADING IN BALTIMORE.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 3.—Despite the considerable advance by Atlantic Coast Line Railroad 4s certificates during the past week, the price continued to move, and to-day an additional gain of 3 points was made, the bonds selling at 103⅛. One week ago the bonds sold at 93½. Demand was fairly good and prices were well sustained and showed very little change. Shares, 635; bonds, $96,000.

RECORD BUSINESS IN STEEL.

October Far Ahead of Any Other Month in Orders and Production.

Records continue to be made in the iron and steel trades. Statistics compiled for October by The Iron Age show that the new record established in September in pig iron making was exceeded by over 200,000 tons. At the same time it is announced that the actual orders for finished products booked during the month exceed all previous records in the history of the trade. It is unofficially estimated that the Steel Corporation booked 1,850,000 tons of business during the month.

Speaking of the general conditions in the finished trade, The Iron Trade Review says:

> October was a record breaker in actual business done in iron and steel. During other periods of prosperity, contracting, which was really little more than giving an option to buy, was at a heavier rate, but during last month the Steel Corporation companies and numerous independent interests booked for definite rolling the largest aggregate of tonnage of finished products ever recorded.
>
> A new October record for ore shipments from the Lake Superior region has been made, the total being 6,600,000 tons, or nearly 200,000 tons more than the previous October record of 1907.

The Iron Age says:

> Following the remarkable record of September, the performance of the blast furnaces of the country in October is amazing, and points to a consumption of iron and steel greater than has been appreciated. Practically complete figures to The Iron Age on the third day after the close of the month show a production of coke and anthracite iron in October of 2,592,516 gross tons, against 2,385,206 tons in September. The steel companies produced 1,766,162 tons in October, or 56,973 tons a day, against a daily average of 55,361 tons in September. The merchant furnaces increased their daily rate of 24,146 tons in September to 26,656 tons last month.
>
> It thus appears that pig iron production last month, allowing 35,000 tons for charcoal iron, was at the rate of close to 31,000,000 tons a year. Whereas at the beginning of October the active weekly capacity was 565,606 tons for 299 furnaces, we entered November with 309 coke and anthracite furnaces in blast, having a weekly capacity of 593,608 tons, or at the rate of 31,400,000 tons a year, allowing for charcoal iron.

It is shown that the United States Steel Corporation's blast furnaces and steel works far exceeded their best records in October.

COPPER INTERESTS CLOSER.

Cross Lines Between Several Companies Make Understanding Probable.

In the reported intention of two of the Directors of Phelps, Dodge & Co. to enter the boards of two of the Cole-Ryan properties Wall Street was inclined to find confirmation of the movement toward the establishment of a community of interest in the copper industry similar to that which has been worked out in the steel trade.

A short time ago the Greene-Cananea Copper Company took over from the Phelps-Dodge interests the Indiana-Sonora mines, giving payment in stock, and it is to represent this holding that James McLean, Vice President of Phelps, Dodge & Co., is to enter the Directorate of the Greene-Cananea Copper Company. At the same time George Notman, secretary of Phelps, Dodge & Co., will become a Director of the Greene Consolidated Copper Company, of which all but a small percentage of the shares is owned by the Greene-Cananea Company.

The interests in the Greene-Cananea Copper Company, which was organized by John D. Ryan, President of the Anaconda Copper Company, and Thomas F. Cole are largely identical with those in control of the Amalgamated Copper Company.

LA ROSE DIVIDEND REDUCED.

Purpose Is to Accumulate a Cash Reserve and Develop Properties.

The new management of the La Rose Consolidated Mines Company, after an inspection of the properties, officially announced yesterday from Montreal that the dividend now paid at the rate of 8 per cent. annually would be reduced in order to allow the accumulation of a larger cash reserve for the development of the company's properties.

Early in October, when it first became rumored on the Curb that there had been a split in the management of the property, there was a slump in the stock, which dropped from 7⅞ to 5⅝. Yesterday, after opening at 6, the shares dropped to 4⅞, a new low record for the year, on heavy trading.

At the annual meeting last month new Montreal interests entered the Directorate and elected new officers, who are responsible for the policy of development at the expense of dividends.

EXTEND CANADIAN NORTHERN.

Ocean Lines to be Established and Outlet to Pacific Gained.

Special to The New York Times.

TORONTO, Ontario, Nov. 3.—Rumors of the proposed incorporation of the Canadian Northern Steamship Company, with a capitalization of $2,000,000, were confirmed this afternoon by D. D. Mann, Vice President of the Canadian Northern Railway. The company will enter actively into rivalry with the Canadian Pacific and other vessel lines for the passenger and freight traffic of both Atlantic and Pacific, and will construct vessels for that purpose.

Mr. Mann returned last Sunday from a conference with officials of the Government of British Columbia, which has taken up his company's offer to extend its transcontinental road from Edmonton through the Yellowhead Pass to Vancouver, and north on Vancouver Island, on the assurance of a bond guarantee of $35,000 per mile. The proposal will shortly be submitted to the people. This will give the Canadian Northern Railway its long-desired Pacific outlet.

RAILROAD MAKES NO ANSWER.

Norfolk & Southern Fails to Reply to Petition for Investigation.

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 3.—The Norfolk & Southern Railway Company to-day failed to make answer to the original petition filed in the Trust Company of America receivership proceedings against that road by Fergus Reid, minority bondholder, asking a searching investigation into the financial organization of the defendant road by those now desiring its sale under foreclosure for reorganization. This was the last day in which answer could be filed.

Judge Waddill directed special counsel for the receivers in this connection to draw such report and make such recommendation as may be deemed proper to-morrow. Failure of the defendant to make answer is declared by the Reid interest to throw a new phase on the entire situation as well as the proposed sale of Dec. 7.

La Rose Consolidated Reaches New Low Record for Year on Heavy Trading.

DIVIDEND CUT IS COMING

Announcement by Management That Disbursements Will Be Curtailed and Funds Turned Back Into Property.

Interest in the mining list on the Curb yesterday centred in La Rose Consolidated, which, on the announcement that a reduction in the dividend was intended so that funds for development might be increased, dropped to still lower levels than those reached in the slump of last month. After an opening at 6, the shares dropped to 4⅞, which compares with the previous low record for the year of 5⅝, reached on Oct. 8. After transactions of 28,000 shares the closing price was at 4 15-16. Nipissing was also weak, selling down from 11¼ to 10⅝. The close after transactions of 5,000 shares was at 10¾. The copper stocks were comparatively active, and many small gains were made. Dealing in Pennsylvania rights added interest to the market, and transactions of 50,000 shares were reported, the price fluctuating between 8½ and 8⅞. The close was at 8¾, even with the opening. Butte Coalition made a high record for the year at 29¼.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 3.—The victory of the Republican organization in the city election yesterday was generally regarded to-day as settling the strip ticket question in favor of the Rapid Transit Company, and the traction stocks accordingly took an upward spurt at the opening of the market. Rapid Transit opened at 28, compared with 26½ at the close on Monday, and rose to 28¼ on heavy dealings, one odd lot changing hands at 29. Union Traction at the same time jumped to 54, a gain of 1½ points, at the opening, and then gradually dropped back to near 53, with trading comparatively heavy. The market was inactive in the afternoon and closed a little heavy, with the exception of the traction shares.

WON'T EXTRADITE F. W. BOYER

Offense Charged by His Wife Not a Crime in New Jersey.

Word was received in this city last night that Gov. Fort of New Jersey had refused to sign extradition papers for Frank W. Boyer, former Treasurer of L. Boyer's Sons Company, 82 Beaver Street, presented by Sheriff Rich of Greenwich, Conn. The charges on which extradition was sought were for his alleged desertion of his wife in this city. It was also charged that he was with an actress in Greenwich.

Gov. Fort refused to sign the papers, on the ground that the allegations presented to his Attorney General, while perhaps of what would constitute a crime in Connecticut, were not allegations of what was a crime in New Jersey. Boyer was then set free. Sheriff Rich had arrested him.

This is but one more step in a legal fight between Boyer and his wife, which has been going on for a number of years. Mrs. Catherine L. Boyer, who now lives in Brooklyn, alleges, through her counsel, Blandy, Mooney & Shipman of 41 Wall Street, that her husband, from whom she has never been divorced, has been traveling about the country with an actress. He is alleged to have lived with her last Summer in a handsome villa at Greenwich, Conn. Mrs. Boyer is now engaged in trying to compel her husband to pay her $5,000 alimony a year.

According to Mrs. Boyer's affidavit she had been happy with her husband until 1902. They had a son, now Secretary of L. Boyer's Sons Company, and a daughter, now married; but in 1902 Mrs. Boyer swears she found that her husband was maintaining for a Miss Barrington an apartment at 224 Central Park West under the name of Frederick Barrington.

Later, she declares, he moved with her to Mount Vernon, N. Y., where he lived under his own name. There, according to the affidavit, the woman carried visiting cards with "Mrs. Frank W. Boyer" engraved on them.

Mr. Boyer, a man of considerable wealth, was Vice President and Director of the Myles Standish Spring Water Company.

TO SELL VAN WORMER LIBRARY

Banker Wills It, and a Woman Friend Shares in His Estate.

The will of John R. Van Wormer of 344 West Fifty-seventh Street, Secretary and General Manager of the Lincoln Safe Deposit and Warehouse Company at 32 East Forty-second Street, who died on Oct. 27, was filed yesterday for probate. The collection of books was his hobby, and he had an extensive library. His will gave the Trustees permission to dispose of it. The clause bearing on this read:

> A part of the first monies earned were invested in books, and the habit of acquiring them has grown with my growth and has strengthened with my strength. My library is valuable intrinsically, but is especially valuable to me because of its associations, and of the relations it has borne to the formation of my intellectual life. If properly disposed of it should bring a much larger amount than was paid for it.

His sister, Mrs. Flora M. Taylor of Adams, N. Y., gets $1,000 and the testator's interest in a property in that town. The residue is to be divided into three equal parts, one each going to Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Ella E. Wood, another sister of East Aurora, N. Y., and Mrs. Lillian W. Cooke of 344 West Fifty-seventh Street. The document said that Mrs. Cooke was "an intimate friend to whom I am under great obligations, and who deserves substantial recognition at my hands."

Mr. Van Wormer also directed that she be allowed to make selections from his personal belongings, which she is to keep as souvenirs.

SPURNED, FIGHTS FOR CHILD.

Mrs. Grace Chadbourne of New York Wants Custody of Daughter.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Mrs. Grace Chadbourne, of New York, divorced wife of Dr. Joseph Washall, who was drowned in Lake Michigan Sept. 18 by being washed overboard from a yacht, will not allow any one but herself, if she can help it, to be guardian of her daughter, Ellen Washall, 15 years old. She will make a determined legal fight to gain possession of the girl. This became evident to-day when her attorneys filed their appearance in the Superior Court on behalf of Mrs. Chadbourne.

Some time ago the girl filed a petition in the Superior Court through Dr. Sydney J. Knowles, who was associated in the dental business with her father, to have Agnes L. Hellmuth, who had been employed as housekeeper by her father at Lake Forest, appointed her guardian. By the terms of the will the girl will inherit $50,000 when she becomes of age.

After the death of Dr. Washall, Mrs. Chadbourne hurried to Chicago to be at the side of her daughter. Shortly after the girl filed the petition in which she spurned the mother. Mrs. Chadbourne has twenty days within which to file an answer to her daughter's petition.

Government to Sell Belgian Hares.

Three Belgian hares which have boarded for over two months at the expense of the United States will be sold at public auction this morning at 11 o'clock in the seizure room at the Appraiser's warehouse. The hares arrived from Antwerp on a Red Star steamship in August, and were unclaimed. The Customs officials were unable to find the owner. The purchaser will be required to pay 20 per cent. duty on the animals under the provisions of the tariff law.

METAL MARKET REPORTS.

At the Metal Exchange yesterday some irregularity was shown although business was quiet. Copper ruled steady but unchanged, while tin eased off ¼ for spot. Other commodities were unchanged.

On the Metal Exchange of London yesterday copper, for both spot and future deliveries, made a recession of 5s from the final figures of Tuesday for both commodities. The market finished easy, closing quotations ruling at: Spot, £57 15s; futures, £58 17s 6d.

Pig tin ended easy with spot and future deliveries down 12s 6d to £138 2s 6d and £140 2s 6d, respectively. Spanish pig lead was steady and unchanged at £13. Spelter continued on the old basis at £23 5s. Cleveland warrants were quoted at 51s 3d.

MAURETANIA'S SKIPPER QUITS.

Capt. Pritchard Resigns After 53 Years' Service at Sea.

Before sailing yesterday for Liverpool on the Mauretania, Capt. John Pritchard, Commodore of the line, announced that he had sent in his resignation to the Cunard Company, in Liverpool, and did not expect to bring the ship out again next voyage.

"It is possible that the Directors may wish me to stay in command until she lays up for a month in December, but there are plenty of Captains waiting in Liverpool, and the younger men should have a chance," said the Captain.

"When I reached the age limit—63—eighteen months ago I sent in the customary official notice to the company, and they gave me an extension of time which expired on Monday. I have served fifty-three years at sea and thirty years in the Cunard Company's service."

Capt. Pritchard was born in the ancient Welch seaport Carnarvon, and made his first voyage to sea when he was ten years old in a 150-ton schooner engaged in coastwise trade. At twenty-one he joined one of the East Indiamen called the Dhuleep Singh, which traded round the Cape of Good Hope from Liverpool to Calcutta.

At twenty-seven Capt. Pritchard had his first command, the Aberdeen, a clipper bark in the Australian trade. He remained in sailing vessels trading to China Australia, and India until 1880, when he joined the Cunard service as fourth officer of the Samaria. He was appointed Captain of the same vessel on Jan. 1, 1892.

It was while he was third officer of the Samaria, on Jan. 15, 1881, that he had charge of the boat which picked up the crew of the bark Mary of Aberistwith, South Wales, in mid-Atlantic, just as she was foundering with thirteen hands. For the gallant rescue in a heavy sea, in which they risked their lives, the boat's crew of the Samaria received $25 each, and Pritchard received the Royal Humane Society's medal.

From the command of the Samaria he went in succession to the Scythia, Corinthia, Sylvania, Saxonia, Ivernia, Etruria, Lucania, Campania, Carmania, Caronia, and Mauretania without an accident—a world's record for ocean passages in the mercantile marine.

Capt. Pritchard went over to Boston for the week end and said good-bye to all his friends, and shook hands with all the officials on the pier yesterday before he went on the bridge. As the liner went astern into the river the 'longshoremen waved their caps and cheered him.

ICE COST 25 CENTS A TON

To Cut and House, Says Letter of Official Read at the Trust's Trial.

At the trial of the American Ice Company for attempting to create a monopoly, resumed yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Wheeler, Special Deputy Attorney General Osborne read a number of letters written by John D. Schoonmaker during his Vice Presidency of the defendant corporation. They referred for the most part to the scale of prices, which, according to Mr. Osborne, had gone steadily upward from the time the American Ice Company entered the field, despite the improved methods in gathering ice.

One letter said that it cost 25 cents a ton to cut and house the product, and a letter written a few months later predicted $4 a ton as a future market price.

Mr. Schoonmaker's letters advocated assembling the men interested in ice in the principal cities for the purpose of keeping up the prices.

The only witness on the stand yesterday was Charles C. Larrabee of Bath, Me., a sales agent in the corporation during its first half year. He said a "lister" provided with horse and wagon would follow the delivery wagons of the marked independent and secure a list of his customers. The ground would then be covered by a canvasser, he testified, authorized to name whatever prices would induce the customers to make contracts with the American Ice Company, and when a sufficient number of these had been weaned from the independent the latter would sell out his business, agreeing not to resume competition.

He also told of conversations he had with Charles W. Morse. He could not remember that Morse ever discussed his plans for the company.

John B. Stanchfield, counsel for the defense, brought from the witness the statement that competitors of the American Company had used the same method of getting customers.

SUBWAY CONTRACTS READY.

Commission Will Sign Them When Contractors' Bonds Are Approved.

Two of the bidders on the Brooklyn Fourth Avenue subway, William Bradley and the E. F. Smith Contracting Company, left contracts signed by themselves with the Public Service Commission yesterday. The Bradley contracts cover the second section, from Willoughby Street to Ashland Place, which is to cost $3,436,019, and the third section, from Ashland Place to Sackett Street. This section is to cost $3,592,091.50. The Smith concern has the fourth section, from Sackett Street to Tenth Street, costing $2,283,553.30, and the sixth section, from Twenty-seventh Street to Forty-third Street, costing $2,808,982.80. These figures are exclusive of the cost of pipe galleries.

The contracts cannot be signed by the Public Service Commission until the bonds which stand behind them have been approved. It is thought that all of the Fourth Avenue subway contractors will have their contracts in the hands of the commission by the last of next week.

BENNINGTON BOILER UNSAFE.

Lieut. Wade Says Bar Was Used to Raise Safety Valve.

Lieut. Charles T. Wade, instructor of mathematics at the Naval Academy in Annapolis, who is suing the International Magazine for $100,000 damages for libel, was cross-examined yesterday before Judge Ray and a jury in the United States Circuit Court by Mirabeau L. Towns, counsel for the defendant corporation.

The article complained of by Lieut. Wade was printed in March, 1907, in the Cosmopolitan, published by the International Magazine. It was written by Charles Edward Russell in the form of a criticism of the Naval Personnel bill on cabled orders from William R. Hearst. In a reference to the catastrophe aboard the gunboat Bennington, Mr. Russell is alleged to have said:

"A young ensign stepped from the bridge to the fireroom and tried the experiment of cutting out the steam gauge and plugging the safety valve with dire results."

Lieut. Wade was Chief Engineer of the Bennington when her boilers exploded a few years ago.

During the cross-examination Lieut. Wade said that he entered the Naval Academy in 1896. He could not remember the name of the Congressman who secured his appointment. He said that he was a cadet at the Academy for four years, and that in 1899 the course of studies was changed because of the passage of the Naval Personnel bill, which reorganized the naval service on the British model, making the line and steam engineering department one, on shipboard. This change, it was asserted in the magazine, curtailed the education of the cadets and made them unfit to be intrusted with the boilers and machinery of warships.

Lieut. Wade said that for nine months the apparatus for raising the safety valve of boiler D on the Bennington had been out of gear, and that in making regular weekly examinations of the safety valve an iron bar was used to raise the lever. He admitted further that the gunboat was the only vessel upon which he had seen the safety valve lever lifted by means of a slice bar, and that the twisting apparatus could have been put in fit condition for use in a few days.

The trial will continue.

SEASON'S FIRST MUSIC RIDE.

Interesting Programme Offered at Central Park Academy.

Tan bark sports were in full swing last night at the first of the weekly music rides this season at the Central Park Riding Academy, Broadway and Fifty-ninth Street. Not only were there many people taking part in the equestrian manoeuvres, but the spectators' galleries showed an enthusiastic gathering, and many were unable to gain places of vantage from which to view the events.

Led by Miss Florence Levi and Mr. George Von Karlowski, seventy-three persons participated in the opening ride, the large array of riders being taken through intricate formations which required skillful riding and called forth much applause from the galleries.

One of the most interesting of the events of the evening was the high school riding by Mr. Martin Stark on his horse Ira. If any one exhibition appealed more than another it was this, the horse responding to every wish of the rider in excellent style.

A polo game also added to the attractiveness and furnished a bit of excitement, with Otis Coleman, Frank Gillani, and J. Edward Maher, the Blues and Kennith Wylie, Charles Gerhardt and Murray Wilder as the Reds. A steeplechase race also figured prominently.

Cash Prizes for Essays.

The opportunity to write economic essays for cash prizes has been brought to the attention of students of Columbia University by Prof. J. Laurence Laughlin of the University of Chicago, Chairman of the committee in charge of the contest. The prizes amount to $2,000 and are given by Hart Schaffner & Marx. The subjects cover such questions as the effect of labor unions on international trade, the best means of raising the wages of the unskilled and protection in the United States.

Bridge Walker Falls to Death.

In the presence of many children who were in the public playground under the Williamsburg bridge, at Berry and South Fifth Streets, Williamsburg, Robert Sands, a riveter, of 164 Meeker Avenue, was instantly killed yesterday by falling seventy feet. He fell backward to the playground, where about forty children were gathered. Sands struck on the back of his head. His neck was broken and skull fractured.

Columbia Seniors Win on Gridiron.

The seniors were surprised to find when they lined up against the freshmen in an interclass football game at Columbia University yesterday that they were in for a fight. But the speed of the 1913 team could not counteract the greater weight of the seniors, who ran up a score of 22 to 0 against them. The line-up and summary:

Seniors, 22.	Position.	Freshmen, 0.
Giegerich	Centre	Titus
Steinschneider	Right guard	Kline
Hamman	Right tackle	Kohlbush
Murphy	Right end	Meltzer
Selvage	Quarter back	Shaw
Phelan	Right half back	Malley
Landers	Full back	Latenser

Touchdowns—Landers, (2,) Keator, (2.) Goals from touchdown—Keator, (2.) Substitutes—Spencer for Steinschneider, Wheeler for Ward. Umpire—Donald Lowe. Referee—Bernie Wefers. Timekeeper—James C. Rice.

How Father Gapon was Led to His Death

The world remembers the Hero of "Red Sunday" in St. Petersburg. The man who saved Father Gapon on that day subsequently learned that he was a provocateur and he led him to his death. The death of Gapon, concerning which there has been much mystery, is now cleared up—and by the man who brought it about. The story, one of most dramatic interest, will be published in THE TIMES next Sunday.

Many pages of charming photographs will be found in the Picture Section next Sunday. The Vanderbilt Cup race furnishes the subject for one page, the approaching Horse Show for another. Two pages will be given to what might be termed a pictorial introduction of the Grand Opera season, new stars and old favorites of both houses, and scenes from the new operas. There will be a half-page reproduction of a flashlight photograph of the Suffragists in convention in Carnegie Hall, interesting pictures of the Czar of Russia's departure for Italy, photographs of the King of Greece and his family, and many other photographs interesting in themselves and bearing directly on the news of the day.

COPPER AGAIN THE FEATURE

City Bonds Benefit by Election Results—Record October Iron Output—No Change in English Bank Rate.

Business on the Stock Exchange yesterday followed in large measure the channels marked out on Monday. Trading was in relatively small volume and the movement of prices strong. Amalgamated Copper was the feature of the dealings, its rise of over 3 points forming the direct response to the admitted negotiations under way among the larger producers of the metal to bring order out of the chaos which has existed in the trade for months past. There is much to justify the belief that these negotiations will be successful, and that a tacit understanding along the lines so successful with the steel producers will be reached. The election yesterday of two representatives of a large independent copper company to the Directorates of a group of properties associated with Amalgamated interests is perhaps the first open step in this direction. Nothing was found by Wall Street in the outcome of the local elections to influence decided action in the securities markets, although the apparent safeguards which have been put about the city's credit through the selection of a conservative Board of Estimate seemed to find reflection in the stronger tendency of New York City bonds. It is worth noting that United States Steel, which has overshadowed the trading in all other departments in recent markets, has moderated its pace, although its price remains comparatively firm. Current news items of interest to the financial community included another batch of excellent railroad statements from such properties as the Northern Pacific and the Norfolk & Western, roads which in September gained $788,000 and $527,000 gross, respectively; the announcement of the making of an application by the New York Central to the up-State Public Service Commission for authority to issue additional stock to the amount of 25 per cent. of its present capital stock, and the usual weekly reviews of the iron and steel trades, containing this time the statistics of pig iron output in October, which created a new high record, with actual production for the month of 2,592,000 tons, as compared with 2,385,000 tons in September.

Monday's upturn in call money rates to 5 per cent. proved to be only a passing flurry, since renewals yesterday morning were easily negotiated at 4 per cent., with the final loans of the day made at 3½ per cent. The fact that the Bank of England during the day was called upon to forward $1,250,000 to South America gave rise to a report that at the regular meeting of the Bank's Directors to-day the present discount would be advanced to 6 per cent., but private cables to international bankers here ran contrary to such reports.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Wednesday.

Customers of commission houses on the Consolidated Stock Exchange appeared to be purchasing small lots of stock representing an unusually wide variety of issues for one day's dealings. Transactions in sixty-four different stocks were dealt in, although the total for the day, 81,710 shares, was comparatively small. So far as the standard stocks were concerned, most activity was witnessed toward the close of the day, when there was some sharp bidding on the part of early short sellers.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Nov. 3.—Buying orders in the local copper shares were numerous to-day, and prices are higher all around as a result of the day's trading. Amalgamated was the leader in the upward movement, gaining nearly three points and closing at the top eighth. Butte Coalition advanced to 29¼; Greene-Cananea to 11⅞; Miami to 16½. Nevada was active and fractionally higher. Superior Copper sold up to 60½, while the balance of the list is from one-eighth to a point higher. The undertone continued strong throughout the session, and the market closed steady at the advance.

THE COFFEE MARKET.

Coffee transactions totaled more than 100,000 bags yesterday and closed at 5 points advance to 5 points decline. There was active buying for outside account, as well as for foreign account, and there was also evidence of steadily broadening interest on the speculative side. Foreign markets were steady to firm, and owing to holidays in Rio and Santos on Monday and Tuesday there were no advices from Brazil. Spot coffee quiet; Santos No. 4, 8¼c. Contract prices follows:

THE COTTON MARKET.

Sensational Rise to New Records—Closes 7 to 41 Points Higher.

Cotton ruled sensationally firm yesterday, making new high records in the late trading. The close was steady, with the active months showing a net gain of 12 to 18 points, while August was 41 points net higher, and new crop deliveries 7 to 8 points higher.

The market opened steady at an advance of 5@7 points, sold 9 to 11 points net higher, and broke to a net loss of 15@19 points, before it sold up.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Copper Very Active.

Copper was easily the feature of yesterday's market, and while the general understanding in Wall Street that arrangements are well advanced for the establishment of harmony among copper producers was again largely responsible for the movement in the stock, yet some attention was paid to the less plausible report that the Directors proposed to raise the dividend on the stock at the next meeting for dividend purposes. James McLean of Phelps, Dodge & Co. was elected a Director of the Greene Cananea Company, and George Notman, also of Phelps, Dodge & Co., was elected to the board of the Greene Consolidated Copper Company. The selection of these two to the boards of the most prominent of the Cole-Ryan properties was looked upon as confirmation of the current reports of the negotiations under way among the large producers, particularly so since Mr. McLean has been conspicuous in the meetings the copper people have been holding with George W. Perkins, who is supposed to have put them in possession of the details of the working agreement among the steel makers. Incidentally the volume of transactions in Copper crossed that in Steel for the first time since the main movement in Steel began.

⁂

Morgan's Influence in N. Y. Central.

The fact that the New York Central has followed so closely in the steps of the New Haven in seeking additional capital by means of a stock issue went far to confirm Wall Street's belief that Mr. Morgan has been the prime mover in both cases, and that he is urging this course as a precautionary measure in the event of legislation by Congress looking toward the granting of discretionary powers to the Inter-State Commerce Commission over railroad capitalization in the future. The Atlantic Coast Line, which also arranged for fresh capital some days ago, is generally looked upon as a road whose policy is influenced in some measure by Mr. Morgan's views, and if the Louisville & Nashville follows the precedent set by the three roads already named the present belief of Wall Street regarding Mr. Morgan's part in the programme of capital increases will become a conviction.

⁂

New Record for Exchanges.

Exchanges at the New York Clearing House yesterday made a new high record for any single day in the history of that institution amounting to $736,461,000, which compares with the previous high figure of $688,884,000 made on Jan. 3, 1906, and with a customary average of about $300,000,000. The balances for the day were $27,000,000, and the extent of the clearings is explained by the fact that on each business day this week there was a two-day accumulation of checks.

⁂

Big Increase in Freight.

The New York Central reported yesterday that loaded car movements on its lines for October showed an increase of 246,093 loaded cars over October, 1908, and an increase of 109,751 loaded cars over October, 1907. The loaded car movement in October was the largest by nearly 110,000 of any month in the history of the road.

⁂

New 5 Per Cent. Bond Issue.

The entire $2,500,000 issue of Kanawha & Michigan second mortgage 5 per cent. bonds has been sold to Moffat & White, with whom Lee, Higginson & Co. are associated in the purchase. The bonds were authorized by the road's stockholders two years ago to fund debts of the company and strengthen its financial position. The Kanawha & Michigan is controlled by the Hocking Valley and forms part of that system's through line from the West Virginia and Ohio coal fields to the lake ports. The bankers propose shortly to offer the bonds for public subscription at a price to yield 5 per cent. or more. Bonds yielding as much as 5 per cent. and over appeal to many investors who seek more return on their investment than can be had from a bond of the savings bank class, and bankers at present are picking out bonds of this class to present to investors.

⁂

Negotiations for the listing of 'Frisco bonds on the Coulisse of the Paris Bourse, which were talked of at the time that the admission to the Bourse itself of the common stock of the United States Steel Corporation was confidently predicted last Summer, have been successfully concluded, according to cable advices from Paris yesterday. The bonds are the general lien 15-20-year 5 per cent. bonds of the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad Company sold by Speyer & Co. to Paris bankers some time ago. The possibilities of the Coulisse as a market for American securities has been successfully tried out since early in this year, when the first preferred stock of the United States Rubber Company and the common stock of the Utah Copper Company gained admission to trading there through the issuance of certificates representing blocks of the shares deposited with the Bankers' Trust Company and guaranteed by French bankers to the satisfaction of the authorities.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

WHEAT.—An easier feeling yesterday followed weaker cables, more favorable weather, and reports of a further decline in cash premiums. Trading was quiet early and at first the market held steady. Weakness abroad over the election was due to lower offerings of La Plata wheat, and more liberal offerings from Russia in the Continental markets. Interior receipts so far this week are 5,177,000 bushels, against 4,755,000 last week and 3,227,000 last year. Exports this week are 1,113,000 bushels, against 967,000 last week and 1,058,000 last year. Cash wheat in New York closed weak, with No. 2 red $1.25⅞ asked, elevator, domestic, and $1.21, free on board afloat, asked to arrive; No. 1 Northern Duluth, $1.11½, and No. 2 hard Winter, $1.18, nominal, free on board afloat.

CORN.—Crop advices ruled very favorable yesterday. The Kentucky November report showed an average yield of thirty bushels, against twenty-five last year, and indicated crop for that State of 107,000,000 bushels. Interior receipts were 448,000, and so far this week amounted to 1,458,000, against 843,000 last year. Cash corn in New York was steady, with No. 2 quoted 69½c elevator, domestic; 70c, delivered, and 70c, free on board afloat; No. 2 yellow, 71c, all nominal.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Little Business Done in Americans on the London Exchange.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Money temporarily was in better supply and easier on the market to-day, and discounts were weak in sympathy.

Trading on the Stock Exchange commenced fairly steady, but reacted on the forced liquidation of Kaffirs by Paris in connection with the settlement and Glasgow selling, which unsettled the rest of the market. Consols lost ⅛ and Grand Trunk dropped, while the prospective new issues checked business in gilt-edged securities.

Only small business was done early in American securities, but at noon the market became steady, with values from ⅛ below to ¾ above Monday's New York closing. The New York opening came steady and little change occurred from the forenoon except in Amalgamated, which advanced sharply on Wall Street buying. The market closed dull.

Bar silver steady, 25 3-16d per ounce.

Money, 4½@4¾ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bils is 4¾@4⅞ per cent.; for three months' bills, 4½@4⅞ per cent.

PARIS, Nov. 3.—Prices on the Bourse to-day were firm.

Three per cent. rentes, 99f 12½c for the account.

Exchange on London, 25f 22c for checks.

BERLIN, Nov. 3.—Trading on the Boerse to-day was inactive.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

N. W. Harris & Co. and the Harris Trust and Savings Bank have purchased $1,600,000 first mortgage 5 per cent. twenty-year bonds of the Oklahoma Gas and Electric Company of Oklahoma City.

Harry Steele Morrison, formerly secretary to Lyman J. Gage, and for the last four years private secretary of Frank A. Vanderlip, President of the National City Bank, has become associated with the Stock Exchange House of Swartwout & Appenzellar.

A handsome printed volume, fully illustrated with plates, has been issued on "Coins of the World," with the compliments of The Banking Law Journal. In addition to the pictorial presentation of the current coins of each country, with the usual catalogue of their names and values in United States money, a concise history of the coinage systems of the respective countries is given. There is also a chapter on historic coins. The work has been edited by Maurice L. Muhleman and the illustrations are from the collection in the Philadelphia Mint.

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—While Sears-Roebuck slowly advanced in the early trading, Illinois Brick recovered under the pressure of some profit taking. The insiders came to the conclusion Monday that the market for this stock was going too fast. Boxboard mounted to 19 in the late trading on talk of increased earnings and listing in New York. A pool is operating in Boxboard, however. Illinois Brick closed the day at 64½, and Sears-Roebuck at 139¾—both lower than yesterday. Booth Fisheries preferred was a point higher.

THE PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD COMPANY

NOTICE TO STOCKHOLDERS

PHILADELPHIA, PA., November 1st, 1909.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors held this date the following resolution was adopted:

"RESOLVED That, pursuant to the consent and authority given and conferred by appropriate action duly taken by this Company's stockholders for increasing its capital stock, and for the purpose of providing the funds necessary to meet maturing obligations of the Company, and for other corporate purposes, an increase of this Company's capital stock equal to twenty-five per centum of the aggregate amount thereof which shall be issued and outstanding at the close of business on the fifteenth day of November, 1909, is hereby authorized and directed, and the same shall be issued and disposed of in manner following:

The privilege of subscribing for said stock at par $50 per share, on December 8th, and to and inclusive of December 18th, 1909, on which latter date the privilege will cease, is hereby given to stockholders as they shall stand registered on the books of the Company at the close of business on November 15th, 1909, to the extent of twenty-five per centum of their respective holdings.

The terms of subscription will be as follows:

Payments may be made in three instalments, or they may be made in full, viz.:

The first instalment, 30 per cent., or $15.00 per share, at the time of making the subscription between December 8th and December 18th, 1909, inclusive.

The second instalment, 30 per cent., or $15.00 per share, between February 23rd and March 1st, 1910, inclusive.

And the third instalment, 40 per cent., or $20.00 per share, between May 26th and June 1st, 1910, inclusive.

Payments in full at the time of making the subscription, between December 8th and December 18th, 1909, inclusive.

Warrants will be issued by the Treasurer to each stockholder, specifying the amount of stock to which he is entitled to subscribe under this privilege, and such privilege may be sold by any stockholder, the warrants to have thereon a form of assignment therefor. The warrants, accompanied by the payment of the first instalment, shall be returned by the stockholders to the Treasurer between December 8th and December 18th, 1909, inclusive, and if not so returned, and the first instalment so paid, the warrants shall be void and of no value.

The Treasurer will issue, on surrender of the warrants and payment of the first instalment receipts which will be assignable and which are to be returned to the Treasurer at the time of the payment of the second instalment, whereupon assignable receipts covering the first and second instalment payments will be issued, which are to be surrendered to the Treasurer on payment of the third instalment.

Upon payment of the last instalment there will be issued a check for interest at the rate of six per centum per annum on the first instalment from December 18th, 1909, and on the second instalment from March 1st, 1910, all up to June 1st, 1910, which will amount to $0.63 per share.

To subscribers making payment in full between December 8th and December 18th, 1909, inclusive, and to those making payment of the last instalment between May 26th and June 1st, 1910, inclusive, full paid negotiable stock receipts will be issued for whole shares, exchangeable, ten days after payment, for stock certificates carrying all dividends thereafter declared.

For fractional shares, full paid stock receipts will be issued upon payments in full or upon payment of the last instalment. They will not carry any dividend or interest, but will be convertible into stock when the fractions presented make whole shares, provided such conversion is made on or before October 31st, 1910. After April 30th, 1910, such fractional stock receipts issued upon payments in full, or after October 31st, 1910, fractional receipts issued upon payment of the last instalment will be redeemed in cash at the rate of $50 per share, without interest.

Fractional receipts will pass by delivery.

The right to receive stock shall not accrue to any stockholder under this privilege unless the terms of subscription are fully complied with and payments made at the dates hereinbefore stated, and no subscription or assignment of the privilege will be recognized unless made on the forms furnished by the Company."

Warrants will be mailed about November 23rd, to stockholders of record November 15th, 1909, who have filed permanent dividend orders in this office, to the addresses indicated on such orders, and where dividends are collected by bankers, brokers, or others on powers of attorney or other authority, the warrants will be sent to such authorized parties for delivery to the stockholders, unless other instructions are received relative thereto prior to November 23rd, 1909.

ALL COMMUNICATIONS BY MAIL SHOULD BE ADDRESSED TO THE TREASURER AT PHILADELPHIA

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Builders Buy on Morningside Heights—Large Plot Sold on East 83d Street—Day's Dealings by Brokers and at Auction.

Gibbs & Kirby have sold for William J. Casey the plot, 75 by 115 by 121, on the east side of Claremont Avenue, 300 feet north of 122d Street, to J. Clarence Brennan, who will build an eight-story apartment house on the property.

The Realty Company of America (Franklin Pettit, President,) has sold the southwest corner of Broadway and 113th Street, a plot 100 by 100. A report to the effect that Isaac Mayer & Son, who built and sold the twelve-story Devonshire apartment at the southeast corner of Broadway and 113th Street, were the purchasers of this property was denied last night by Mr. Mayer.

W. D. Morgan has sold for Henri Fouchaux to the New York Operating Company the plot on the west side of Broadway, 17.5 feet north of 162d Street, 25 by 175 by 51.3 at the rear. The purchasing company owns the corner and now controls a plot 42.5 by 175 and irregular.

Dyckman Lots in New Hands.

Charles Griffith Moses & Brother have sold for Bertha Bernauer the plot of four lots on the south side of 202d Street, 100 feet west of Ninth Avenue.

To Build on East 83d Street.

William A. White & Sons, in conjunction with John J. Kavanagh, have sold for Frances A. Clarke and Ellen B. Steese 51 to 63 East Eighty-third Street, seven four-story stone-front dwellings, on plot 125 by 102.2. The property adjoins the large holdings of St. Ignatius's Roman Catholic Church, which include the entire frontage of 204.4 feet on the west side of Park Avenue, between Eighty-third and Eighty-fourth Streets, as well as frontages of 100 and 321.4 feet on Eighty-third and Eighty-fourth Streets, respectively. The property just sold has not been purchased by the church, however. It will be improved by the new owner.

Enlarging 27th Street Site.

David & Harry Lippmann have bought from Mary A. O'Neill, 122 West Twenty-seventh Street, a three-story building, on lot 18.9 by 98.9. Hulbert Peck & Sons were the brokers. The Messrs. Lippmann own the Chelsea apartment house adjoining at 124 to 130, and with their latest purchase now control a plot 98.9 by 98.9, which is one of the largest parcels held under one ownership in this section. It will be resold to builders.

Sale of West 103d Street House.

McKee, Hayward & Co. have sold 305 West 103d Street, a three-story brownstone dwelling, on lot 20 by 100.11.

Isaac Hattenbach has sold for Mary E. Johnson to Carl Blum the three-story dwelling 169 East Ninety-third Street, on lot 14 by 93.

Stores Leased at 181st Street.

The United Cigar Stores Company has leased from Klein & Jackson two stores in the new building at the northeast corner of St. Nicholas Avenue and 181st Street. The lease is for a term of years at an aggregate rental of about $100,000. Four stores in the building have now been rented. A connection with the subway station at this point is now being built and will be operated from the concourse floor of the building.

Factory for Oak Street Lot.

The Meister & Bache Realty Company has sold to a client the three-story frame building 29 Oak Street. The purchaser intends to remove this building and build a five-story factory on the site.

Dey Street Building Leased.

Pease & Elliman have leased the building at 80 Dey Street to Frank Bachman.

J. N. Kalley & Son leased for the American Colortype Company to the Buckbee Publishing Company 27,000 square feet of space in the building at West, Hubert and Washington streets.

M. & L. Hess have leased for Morris Weiss and Jacob Dewald, the tenth loft in 15 West Seventeenth street, to Abraham Elterman; also, for D. Birdsall & Co., the store and basement in 96 and 98 Wooster Street to American Three Way Prism Company; also, for William Fox, the fifth loft, 50 and 52 West Third Street, to H. & T. Wolfert, and for the Mevon Realty Company, the fifth loft in 37 West Nineteenth Street, to Emanuel Rosenthal.

Frederick Fox & Co. have leased for Brody, Adler & Koch, from the plans, about 20,000 square feet of space in the building now in course of construction at 37 to 43 West Twentieth Street, for a long term of years, to John Bonwit and another large garment concern. Seven floors have been leased in this building. The same brokers have also leased for John Bonwit & Brand the ninth loft, about 16,000 square feet, in the building No. 110 and 112 Fifth Avenue, corner of Sixteenth Street, to Morris R. Silverman, and for the Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown & Co., 5,000 square feet of space in 72 Fifth Avenue, corner Thirteenth Street, to Rabinowitz & Koen.

The Charles F. Noyes Company has taken over the management of the thirteen-story office building at 37 and 39 Liberty Street, running through to Maiden Lane, formerly occupied by the Lawyers' Title Insurance Company.

Builders Sell in the Bronx.

A. Weinstein has sold for the Haas & Lipman Construction Company the northeast corner of Prospect Avenue and Macy Place, a new five-story apartment house; also, two five-story houses on Brook Avenue, near 139th Street.

Smith & Phelps have sold for M. F. Kerby the plot of four lots at the northeast corner of Third Avenue and 180th Street.

The Lawyers' Title Insurance Company sold to the Friedman Construction Company eight lots, extending from Westchester Avenue to West Farms Road, north of Hoe Avenue, 100 by 200 by 190 by irregular, just north of the Simpson Street Subway station. The buyers will erect four five-story apartment houses. Charles McManus was the broker.

The McKinley Realty Company sold the plot, 120 by 145, at the northwest corner of Tinton Avenue and 160th Street, near the Prospect Avenue subway station.

Lorenz F. J. Weiher is preparing plans for three five-story apartment houses, to be erected by Haase & Lippman on a plot 100 by 100 at the northwest corner of 156th and Fox Streets. The estimated cost of the buildings is $100,000.

Residence Site Sold in Brooklyn.

Howard C. Pyle & Co. have sold for the estate of Leonard J. Busby the plot at the northeast corner of Eighth Avenue and Montgomery Place, Brooklyn, about 50 by 112, to a Mrs. Clark, who will erect a handsome residence on the property.

SAW ROOSEVELT IN AFRICA.

Ex-President Annoyed at Reports That He Slaughtered Game.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—E. M. Newman, a Chicago publisher, who has completed a six months' tour in Africa, during which he met the Roosevelt party, returned here to-day. Mr. Newman's second meeting with the ex-President occurred in July.

Even then reports had reached Col. Roosevelt of his alleged "slaughter" of game, and he appeared to be much distressed in consequence.

"He shoots only such specimens as are desired by the Smithsonian Institution," said Mr. Newman, "in addition to the lions, which the natives regard as a menace and a pest. "I am not a good shot, but I shoot often," is a quotation Mr. Newman brings from the ex-President.

"The natives and Colonists of Africa in Col. Roosevelt's path expressed great astonishment at the distinguished hunter's energy," said Mr. Newman. "Members of the Roosevelt party in July were nearly tired out and wished to shorten the trip. They had been marched to exhaustion. 'Bwana Tumbo,' the name applied by natives to Col. Roosevelt, means 'big white chief,' by which name the blacks acknowledge the exalted office once held by the hunter, and his prowess as a Nimrod."

NEGRO KILLED BY POSSE.

Had Attacked White Woman—Farmers Hunting for His Companions.

SUTTON, West Va., Nov. 3.—Two organized parties of men are to-night scouring the hills of this county searching for two negroes believed to have aided Charles Lewis, also a negro, in attacking Mrs. Mary Lockhold, wife of a prosperous farmer to-day near the small settlement of Exchange. Lewis, the only known member of the party of three who are thought to have been implicated in the deed is dead, having been shot and killed by a posse of men late to-day while endeavoring to escape near this place.

According to Deputy Sheriff Williams, the three negroes late last night went to the home of George Lockhold, and, after tieing the farmer to a tree and whipping him on his bare back with willow switches, attacked Mrs. Lockhold. Persons who happened to be passing the Lockhold farm heard the screams of the woman and the negroes fled at the approach of the passersby.

A posse of farmers was soon organized, and after a twenty-four-hour hunt Lewis, one of the supposed trio of negroes, was caught. As he turned to flee from his captors after being ordered to throw up his hands, he was shot and instantly killed.

CHINESE LOAN TROUBLE.

Suggestion That Railway Issues May Not Be Completed Disturbs Germans.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 3.—The suggestion that the loan for the construction of the Canton-Hankow and Hankow-Szechuen Railways will probably not be completed has provoked much discussion. It has also been suggested that China should make no further loans for specific objects, but a general Government loan, to be expended as necessity arises, and to be safeguarded by the appointment of foreign advisers in the Board of Posts and Communications.

The German group is especially disturbed over the present situation.

SISTERS BURIED TOGETHER.

Shock of Mrs. Flanders's Death Killed Mrs. Crosby.

At the residence of Mrs. Nellie C. Cottrell, 115 West Eighth Street, Bayonne, N. J., double funeral services were held yesterday afternoon for Mrs. Cottrell's mother, Mrs. Frances L. Flanders of Scotch Plains, N. J., and Mrs. Ellen M. Crosby, aunt of Mrs. Cottrell.

Mrs. Flanders was on a visit to her daughter when she died suddenly of heart trouble. She was 79 years old. Mrs. Crosby died within twenty-four hours of shock caused by her sister's death. She was 82 years of age.

The sisters were buried in Scotch Plains.

Medical Women Incorporated.

The incorporation of the Women's Medical Association was approved by Supreme Court Justice Truax yesterday, its objects being to bring into closer relation the Alumnae of the Woman's Medical College of the New York Infirmary, as well as other women physicians holding degrees. The incorporating physicians are Mary B. Jewett, Josephine Hemenway, Eleanor Parry, Alma Vedin, Annie S. Daniels, Martha Wollstein and Anna Williams. The annual meeting will be held in May.

Club Is Studying Character.

A club for the study of character is being conducted by the Educational Department of the Bedford Branch, Young Men's Christian Association of Brooklyn. The purpose of the club is to help its members acquire facility in quickly sizing up people with whom they have business dealings. It has a further object in aiding its members to better understand their own ability, limitations and the vocation for which they are especially fitted. It is under the direction of Irving E. Vining, a psychologist and student of human nature, who has specialized in this field for years.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

TURNER C. BROWN.—Turner C. Brown, an optician of 538 West 143d Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $746 and no assets.

GINGOLD & EINFELD.—Judge Holt has dismissed the petition in bankruptcy filed on Oct. 6 against Gingold & Einfeld, clothing dealers at 47 Canal Street.

D. H. WECHSLER COMPANY.—The D. H. Wechsler Company, dealer in dry goods, 194 Bleecker Street, has made a settlement with creditors at 20 cents on the dollar, and Judge Holt has dismissed the bankruptcy petition filed against it on Oct. 26.

DR. PIETRO FERRI.—Dr. Pietro Ferri of 101 Park Street has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $32,100 to six creditors and no assets. The largest creditor is Joseph Tesoro, $30,000 mortgage on the southwest corner of Crescent and Belmont Avenues, Bronx.

SAMUEL A. CUTNER.—Schedules in bankruptcy of Samuel A. Cutner, manufacturer of trimmings, 105 Greene Street, show liabilities of $11,784 and assets of $2,260, consisting of stock, $100; machinery, $1,500, and accounts, $660. Among the creditors are Fannie Cutner, $3,346, loans; Rosa Monsheimer, $2,100, loans, and I. B. Kleinert, $1,487, rent.

ZUCKER & KLEIN.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Sarah Zucker and Benjamin Klein, who compose the firm of Zucker & Klein, wholesale dealers in woolens and tailors' trimmings at 487 Broadway, by two creditors, Busch & Co., $1,000, and Denzer & Nathan, $500. They began business here in April last, and have a retail branch in San Francisco. Liabilities are reported to be $20,000.

JAMES MULLALLY.—James Mullally, a liquor dealer at 1,840 Park Avenue, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $9,067 and assets of $555, consisting of stock $500, and cash $55. The largest creditor is H. Kochler & Co., $4,000, secured by a chattel mortgage, and $1,028 unsecured. Judge Holt appointed Marcus Schnitzer receiver, with a bond of $500, and authorized him to continue the busines for ten days.

M. COHEN & CO.—Two petitions in bankruptcy were filed yesterday against Max and Jacob Cohen, who compose the firm of M. Cohen & Co., manufacturers of gowns, dresses, cloaks, and suits at 100 Fifth Avenue, and Judge Holt appointed Augustus N. Hand receiver with a bond of $7,500. The liabilities are stated to be $80,000 to $90,000, and the assets $15,000, in stock and accounts. One petition was filed by two creditors, Louis Levine, $150, and I. G. Roth, Inc., $2,912. The other petition was filed by three creditors—William Meyer & Co., $13; Carl Willenberg, $861, and Stegman & Weill, $210.

DAVID RODBELL.—A meeting of the creditors of David Rodbell, a cloak manufacturer at 584 and 586 Broadway, was held yesterday at the Astor House, with Morris B. Arnold, as Chairman. Leonard Bronner, attorney for Mr. Rodbell, stated that the liabilities were $75,000, exclusive of the claim of the American Woolen Company of $9,716, which is in litigation, and that the assets were $26,000, in stock, fixtures, and accounts. A piece of real estate on Monroe Street was not included in the totals, as it was asserted there would be no equity if it were sold at forced sale. It was also stated that on the day the bankruptcy petition was filed, Mr. Rodbell had taken $12,000 in accounts to the National Discount Company to hypothecate, and had received a check in part payment of $6,000, but the check was stopped, and the company refused to turn over the accounts to Elbert B. Hamlin, receiver, unless the company was paid a commission of 5 per cent. and 2 per cent. interest. Mr. Rodbell was asked some questions by the creditors. He said that as he could not read or write, he had depended on employes and accountants for figures. A statement of Aug. 31 last showed liabilities of $88,000, and assets of about $140,000. Ralph Wolf, one of the attorneys of the American Woolen Company, questioned Mr. Rodbell and the certified public accountant, as to what had become of the assets since them. Depreciation in real estate, losses in manufacturing, discounts on accounts and expenses were among the causes given of shrinkage in assets. Finally an offer of 30 cents on the dollar, cash, was made, which was accepted by some of those present. There are 140 creditors.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Pieces of Leather for Backs of Books Pay 35 Per Cent. as Manufactures.

In denying a claim filed by Knauth, Nachod & Kuhne, the Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday decided that small pieces of leather, deliberately cut to a uniform size, for use as backs of books are subject to the proviso attached to Paragraph 438 of the Dingley law. This provision specifiles that "leather cut into forms suitable for conversion into manufactured articles, shall be classified as manufactures of leather."

Collector Loeb assessed duty at the rate of 35 per cent. on the articles as "manufactures of leather" under Paragraph 450. The importers set up the contention that the goods should be allowed to enter at 20 per cent., under Paragraph 438 as "dressed leather." In overruling this contention, General Appraiser McClelland, in a decision for the Board, says that the claim of the importers would have to be sustained, were it not for the proviso at the end of Paragraph 438.

"We are inclined to the belief," says the decision, "that these pieces of leather, although cut to a form which adapts them specially for use in book-binding, must also be excepted from the general rule. It is our view that the mere cutting of the leather into square pieces does not change its character so as to make it either another article or give it a new commercial designation. Protestants would be entitled to succeed, except for the provision at the end of Paragraph 438."

KNOX TO JAPANESE ON OUR FRIENDSHIP

Looks for Continuation of the Essential Harmony That Has Existed Between Nations.

MIKADO'S BIRTHDAY DINNER

Embassy Gives One to Commercial Commissioners—They Give Thanks for Their Reception Here.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The visiting delegation of Japanese merchants to-day celebrated the Mikado's birthday by abandoning their fixed schedule, and by attending a brief reception at the Japanese Embassy. The rest of the day was passed in informal trips of small parties, while the visit to Washington came to a formal end this evening with a dinner given by the Japanese Embassy.

President Taft has sent to the Emperor the following congratulatory telegram on his birthday:

"I tender your majesty my congratulations on this anniversary of your birth, with wishes for your happiness and expression of the desire of the American people for the welfare of the Japanese Empire and people."

Tables were set for 140 in the banquet hall of the New Willard Hotel, those present including members of the Cabinet and others prominent in the official, social, and business life of Washington. Addresses were made by Secretaries Knox and Ballinger, Mr. Matsui, the Chargé d'Affaires of the Japanese Embassy; Baron Shibusawa and District Commissioner MacFarland.

Senator Knox spoke in part as follows:

> This is an opportunity of which I gladly avail to speak of the ties which have continued to unite our two nations in amity and essential harmony ever since the days when to American representatives first of all you opened your doors for the reciprocal exchange of good will and civilization and trade. We have learned from you as you from us. We admire you for all of your National gifts and virtues, and not the least for those qualities in which you differ from us: for the eminent qualities drawn from a long glorious past through which you must teach and we must learn. Is it your word "bushido" that expresses the source and inspiration of much strength and nobility of the Japanese temperament? Then let Western chivalry, which also looks back to lofty origins, learn what Eastern "bushido" has to teach.

After a tribute to Prince Ito, Secretary Knox said:

> A gifted Englishman of letters has told a fine story of the career and work of Yoshida, whose pupil Prince Ito was, and describing Yoshida's intensity of patriotic virtue, has used language which well describes Ito himself. He hoped, perhaps, to get the good of other lands without their evil; to enable Japan to profit by the knowledge of the barbarians and still keep her inviolate with her own arts and virtues.
>
> Is it too much to say that such hopes of the great minds of Japan are in the way of realization? Japan has set herself in that path, and every friendly and generous heart believes she will keep the faith, and hopes she will attain her goal.
>
> But you already have and will expect keen, yet friendly, rivalries, which are only the stimulating competitions of the struggle toward excellence going on everywhere at all times.
>
> I am confident that you will agree that it is altogether in accordance with the honorable and enlightened attitude both of Japan and the United States and that it should be the aim of true statesmanship to continue to keep abreast of these beneficent movements, in which they have borne so distinguished a part.
>
> Thus the long and unbroken friendship of the United States and Japan, of which your visit and this occasion are such happy symbols, and the laudable common purpose of Japan and the United States to respect each other's rights and with frankness, patience, and good temper to adjust such differences as inevitably arise even between nations of sympathetic and common purposes, will be exemplars which will bear fruit and aid in the gradual realization of the noblest ideals for the unity, concord, and prosperity of the world.

Mr. Matsui said that his countrymen had been able to learn of the enormous potentialities of American enterprise and he hoped thot the meeting between them and the business men of America would conduce to a better understanding between Japan and the United States.

Secretary Ballinger declared that men were born to be useful to one another, and nations likewise to be useful to one another, and so he declared in the matter of international relations Japan could be useful to America and America to Japan.

Especially appreciative of the treatment that had been accorded his countrymen was Baron Shibusawa. Life to them had been perceptibly broadened by their visit to the United States, he said.

"Japan," he continued, "wants to do the best she can within her power to pay the heavy debt she owes to America, and one of the most effective ways to do this, I believe, is in promoting the trade relations between the two countries."

MIKADO HONORS DR. ANGELL.

Michigan Educator Decorated with Imperial Order of the Sacred Treasure

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 3.—Dr. James B. Angell, President Emeritus of the University of Michigan, was notified to-day that he had been decorated by the Emperor of Japan with the first class of the Imperial Order of the Sacred Treasure. The notification came to Dr. Angell in the form of a letter from K. Matsim, Chargé d'Affaires of the Japanese Embassy at Washington. The letter read in part as follows:

> I have the honor to inform you that his Majesty, the Emperor of Japan, has graciously been pleased to confer upon you the first class of the Imperial Order of the Sacred Treasure in token of his high esteem for you as one of the foremost educators of the age, and also his recognition of the distinguished services rendered by you during the period of no less than forty years as President of the University of Michigan, especially in the education of a number of our countrymen, who have proved themselves extremely useful to Japan.

WETS GAIN IN WESTCHESTER.

Anti-Saloon League Wins Only One Town in the County.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 3.—Although the followers of local option made a hard fight in fourteen towns in Westchester, scattering circulars and daily almanac cards denouncing the liquor traffic, the returns to-day show that only one in the county went dry. This was Yorktown, in the northern part of Westchester.

In Mount Pleasant, where John D. Rockefeller has a country estate, the town went in favor of the wets by about 400 majority. Mr. Rockefeller has always been opposed to saloons in the neighborhood of his country home at Pocantico Hills, and it is said that he urged his employes to vote for no-license.

The hardest fight made by the Anti-Saloon League followers was at White Plains. They made an effort to close up every hotel, but were beaten. Even saloons received the privilege of reopening, and White Plains promises to be a very "wet" town hereafter.

The town of Bedford, which has been dry for several years, went for license, while the town of Greenburgh, where William Rockefeller, Miss Helen Gould, Edwin Gould, and other millionaires have their homes, also voted in favor of license. The towns of Pelham and Mamaroneck, in which the New York Athletic and Larchmont Yacht Clubs are situated, both voted against prohibition, as did the town of Ossining.

Among those who led the liquor dealers in their fight against the no-license league was "Admiral Dot," the midget, who owns a hotel at White Plains. He is the State representative in Westchester County of the New York Hotel Men's Association, and did a lot of missionary work in the license cause.

SEES NO HOPE FOR THE CITY.

Prof. Beard Believes Divided Responsibility Makes for Graft.

Charles A. Beard, Professor of Politics in Columbia, holds out little hope to the people of this city during the Gaynor-Fusion Administration. In connection with his lecture on politics yesterday, Prof. Beard declared that the election of Judge Gaynor with a Fusion Board of Estimate is distinctly unfortunate.

"I favor the system of municipal government by commission, for there responsibility can be definitely fixed," said Prof. Beard. "The electors take their faith in certain individuals, and upon them devolves the direct duty of executing the people's wishes.

"But to whom will the next administration be responsible? If the people get few schools and no subways, who will shoulder the blame? Judge Gaynor will lay it to the Fusion Board of Estimate, and the latter will send the defects of administration back to the Tammany Mayor. Where there is a division of responsibility like this, graft and incompetency are bound to spring up.

"Instead of doing at all times what the best interests of the people demand, the two factions may constantly quarrel and wrangle over matters of great importance in an attempt to discredit each other with the people. Four years of such a state of affairs will be sufficient, I think, to demonstrate the necessity in municipal government of definitely placing the responsibility for all acts of the administration."

POTHIER LED BY 11,834.

Republicans Swept Rhode Island—Constitutional Amendments Are Adopted.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 3.—The Republicans fairly swept Rhode Island yesterday, Governor Aram J. Pothier being re-elected by a plurality of 11,834, one of the largest in the State's history. The balance of the Republican State ticket was elected by a substantial majority. The incoming Legislature remains practically unchanged.

All three of the constitutional amendments were adopted by about a three-fourths vote. The amendments give additional veto power to the Governor, provide for the redistricting of the State and make the Lieutenant Governor president of the Senate.

In this city Mayor Henry Fletcher, Republican, was re-elected with a plurality of 458 over James H. Thurston, Democrat.

TYSON HAS MORE BAD LUCK.

Automobilist Is Robbed by Burglars, Then Has a Collision.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., Nov. 3.—John Tyson of Riverside, said to be the unluckiest automobilist in America, had another bad day to-day. Early this morning burglars entered his garage and stole six tire casings, three inner tubes, a siren horn, a storage battery, and a revolver. The stolen goods are worth several hundred dollars.

Just before noon his big racing car collided with the car of Dr. Benjamin J. Sands, Health Officer of Port Chester, and was badly damaged.

One of his cars killed a man at the Long Island races a year ago, and Tyson is under indictment in the New York courts for running over and killing an aged man in New York City. He has met with many minor accidents, from the killing of dogs and poultry to slicing off the fingers of one of his best friends in the chain of his racer.

DEAF MUTE GETS DIVORCE.

Testimony in St. Louis Court Given by Deaf and Dumb Witnesses.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 3.—A divorce was granted by Judge Withrow in the Circuit Court to-day to Mrs. Nannie E. Burns, a deaf mute, from Joseph Burns of Granite City, Ill., also a deaf mute, on the testimony of deaf and dumb witnesses. A woman interpreted the testimony.

Mrs. Burns told, by words of hand, of an attack made on her last Christmas Day by her husband because she told him he ought to go to work. She said that Burns choked her and attacked her with a butcher knife. Edward Schale and Mrs. Mart Poyers, mutes, testified that they witnessed the Christmas Day episode.

Mrs. Burns also charged desertion. They have three children, all of whom are vocally and orally normal.

CAR RAN OVER A DUMMY.

Boys Placed It on Track to Frighten the Motorman.

HUNTINGTON, L. I., Nov. 3.—Boys stuffed a suit of clothes with straw, sewed a soft hat to a pumpkin, which represented a head, and, just as a car driven by Lawrence Newton on the Huntington-Amityville line approached, sent the figure reeling out upon the track.

The car could not be instantly stopped, and he ran down the dummy. Newton and the conductor hurried back, and when they saw the motionless figure Newton nearly fainted.

BIJUR'S ARGUMENT FOR EQUAL RATES

Newly Elected Supreme Court Justice Before the Inter-State Commission at Spokane.

INSISTED ON BLANKET RATE

Ruling in the "Spokane Rate Case" Must Put New York on Plane of Chicago and St. Paul.

Business organizations of New York and other Eastern and Atlantic Coast cities are looking with much interest to the outcome of the "Spokane rate case," governing rates between Eastern cities and the Pacific Coast, which was recently argued before the Inter-State Commerce Commission at Spokane, Wash., by Nathan Bijur, the newly elected Supreme Court Justice on the Fusion ticket.

It is thought that Mr. Bijur's efforts will weigh heavily in securing a continuance of the present "blanket" rate insuring equal freight rates to all cities east of the Missouri River in shipments to the Pacific Coast. This rate has recently been threatened with displacement in favor of a graded system with rates varying according to the distance east, thus practically putting the Pacific Coast trade out of the hands of the East and entirely into the grasp of the Middle West.

Mr. Bijur returned to this city yesterday morning after a tour of a month through various Western cities where the Inter-State Commerce Commission was holding its hearings. He did not learn of his election until yesterday morning when he reached Philadelphia. Many letters and telegrams from friends congratulating him upon his nomination several weeks ago were opened for the first time by him yesterday.

Mr. Bijur went to Spokane as a representative of the Chambers of Commerce, Boards of Trade, and Merchants' Associations of about twenty Eastern and Atlantic Coast cities, including New York.

The City of Spokane complained that the freight rates of the Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, and Great Northern lines from St. Paul, Chicago, New York, and other Eastern cities to Spokane were higher than those through Spokane to Seattle, 400 miles further west.

The railroads defendant denied that there had been therein any violation of the long-and-short-haul clause of the Inter-State commerce law, alleging that the cheaper rates from St. Paul, Chicago, and New York to Seattle were due to competition by water. Their plea was accepted by the commission. Spokane, however, insisted that, even irrespective of the advantages given to Seattle, the freight rates to Spokane from St. Paul were in themselves unreasonable. This plea the commission found to be well grounded and it ordered a reduction in the rate from St. Paul. The railroads, however, were permitted to increase their rates from Chicago 16 2-3 per cent., and a proposal was invited from them relative to the fixing of rates for more easterly cities.

The railroads proposed an abolition of the present equal blanket schedule applying to all cities east of the Missouri River, and suggested a grading of rates ascending in proportion to the distance East. This would have excluded New York and other Atlantic Coast cities from the enjoyment of equal freight rates hitherto existing to the Pacific Coast.

Mr. Bijur insisted that, inasmuch as the railroads had recognized New York, St. Paul, Chicago and all the cities east of the Missouri River as being on the same plane and governed by the same conditions, when they justified their differential rates from those points to Seattle and Spokane on the ground of water competition, and whereas the Commission had admitted this plea at that time, the cities east of the Missouri must still be considered in the same class and governed by the same rate, now that the question was only of New York.

The conduct of the Chicago representatives, who had advised a graded raise in rates for the more easterly cities, he characterized as unfair, and as a policy not of give and take, but of take and take. He declared the railroads were bound by the very attitude they had taken in their earlier defense of their rates to Seattle.

The importance of the Eastern cities retaining their share of the transcontinental and Pacific Coast trade, instead of permitting the Middle West to monopolize it through cheaper freight rates, is widely recognized.

Briefs in the case will be filed by Nov. 15. It is not known when the decision will be announced.

LENNON WINS IN YONKERS.

Democratic Candidate for Mayor Carries the City by 140 Votes.

Official returns give James T. Lennon, Democrat, for Mayor of Yonkers 6,404, and Dr. N. A. Warren, Republican, 6,264.

The Board of Aldermen will have six Democrats and four Republicans, the same as last year. Joseph Miller, Republican, succeeds James T. Lennon as Controller.

For Assembly the official returns, with one district missing, give Harry W. Haines, Republican, 6,500, and Frederick Hughes, Democrat, 5,779. The missing district usually gives a Democratic majority of about 30.

Chrystine Helaine, Soprano, Arrives.

Among the many who arrived yesterday morning on the Cunarder Carmania was Miss Chrystine Hélaine, a soprano, who comes here for the Metropolitan Opera Company. The young woman is a daughter of an English Army officer and a cousin of Lord Minto. When she came from the steamship all smiling she was asked whether she was a suffragette. "No, indeed," she replied. Half an hour later after the Customs Inspector and an appraiser had gone through her trunks and her gowns were in more or less disorder, Miss Hélaine turned to her questioner and said: "I reverse my opinion. After this I am a militant suffragette and I am sure that women should have a hand in the making of laws."

Results of Other Billiard Games.

Calvin Demarest played two matches in Maurice Daly's billiard room, Broadway and Forty-ninth Street, yesterday, the afternoon game at 300 points up and the evening game 200 up, at 18.2 balk line. He ran out his 300, with a high run of 60 and an average of 21 6-14, against Harry White's 48, with a high run of 18 and an average of 3 9-13, in the afternoon. Demarest's score in the evening was 200, with a high run of 41, and an average of 9 11-21, to Mitchell's 40, with a high run of 12 and an average of 2.

In last night's game of the three-cushion carrom handicap tournament in progress at Doyle's Academy, Broadway and Forty-second Street, Bud Fisher defeated Henry Franzhn by a score of 25 to 17, in forty-five innings. The highest run was 4, made by Fisher. To-night at 8 o'clock M. Roy will meet W. F. Kirk.

CHALONER HOLDS UP AUTO.

With Revolver Compels Chauffeur to Lead Frightened Horse.

Special to The New York Times.

COBHAM, Va., Nov. 3.—John Armstrong Chaloner, divorced husband of Amelie Rives, the authoress, now Princess Troubetskoy, and brother of Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler, ex-Lieutenant Governor of New York, to-day held up an automobile loaded with passengers and forced the chauffeur, at the point of a revolver, to descend and lead Chaloner's horse, which had become frightened, around the machine and out of the way of danger.

There is a law in Virginia which requires the drivers of all automobiles to stop on signal from any person driving an animal, and when so requested to dismount and lead the frightened animal around the machine. This is the first time that the law has been enforced in such a measure. Chaloner maintains that the revolver, which he says he is in the habit of carrying, was not concealed.

"There have been two accidents in this neighborhood in which live stock has been killed by speeding machines," he said. "I did not propose to run any risk of sharing the fate of the live stock. I therefore take the precaution when I drive or ride to carry a revolver.

"Seeing that my signal to stop was disobeyed I immediately drew a bead on the chauffeur. The effect was instantaneous. The automobile appeared to stop in its own length. Still keeping the pistol leveled at the chauffeur, I ordered him to get out and lead the horse past the machine. The chauffeur obeyed. As he approached I apologized for putting him to so much trouble. The chauffeur led the colt past the machine, and the incident was closed."

Chaloner is insane, in the view of the courts of New York, while having been adjudged sane in the courts of both Virginia and North Carolina. He escaped from Bloomingdale some years ago.

WOMEN HAD HIM CORNERED.

Fifty Employes Make a Laundryman Glad to Welcome the Police.

"Send the police quick," called a frightened voice over the wire to the Bronx Police Headquarters, yesterday afternoon. "There's a riot in 1706 Anthony Avenue, I think."

Three men were hurried out from the Tremont Station. As they came to 1706 Anthony Avenue, the laundry of Benno Helm, they heard the shrill sound of angry women's voices, about fifty going at once, and the things they said were highly unparliamentary. Inside the police found the laundryman standing, confused and breathless, against the wall, feebly trying to ward off the passes of fifty girls and women. To the policemen the women cried:

"Make him give us our money; he has not paid us for four weeks. Arrest him! Take him to the station!"

"I don't care where you take me, if it is only away from here," wailed Helm. "I'd rather be locked up than stand this. They've had me here for hours. I can't get away."

Then, as the police hesitated, up stepped Mrs. Kate Mahoney, of 200 East Thirty-fifth Street. "Arrest this man," she said. "When I asked him for the money he owes us, he pushed me over a table."

So the police took Helm away, the fifty women stringing out behind and expressing eloquent opinions of him all the way to the station. When they got there the lieutenant decided that the aggregate claims against Helm came to about $1,200. Then he put him in a cell on Mrs. Mahoney's charge, and, as the keeper turned the key he thought he heard Helm sigh and murmur, as he sank to the bench, "Thank heaven."

MAY RETURN TO FOOTLIGHTS.

Lionel Barrymore, Who Forsook Stage for Art, Expected to Act Again.

It was reported on Broadway last night that Lionel Barrymore, brother of Ethel and John, would probably return to the stage this season, to appear in "The Fires of Fate," under the management of Charles Frohman. This play is by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, and is being played in London by Lewis Waller. Mr. Barrymore, it is said, will have an important role. Rehearsals are to begin very soon, and the piece is to be produced around the holidays.

This particular Barrymore retired from theatrical life about three years ago, and went to Paris to study art. He was already well known for his work as a cartoonist as well as an actor. Many drawings of his had appeared, all of them marked by much individuality of thought and treatment. His subjects were always serious.

At the time he went away the statement was made that he intended to devote himself entirely to painting and drawing. Evidently the lure of the stage became too strong to be resisted—he comes of a family of actors—and he returned to New York early last Summer with his wife and their two-year-old child.

One of the last parts he played in New York was Pantaloon in J. M. Barrie's one-act fantasy of the same name. This was put on as a curtain raiser to "Alice-Sit-by-the-Fire," in which his sister Ethel starred. In the cast of "Pantaloon" were his brother John, who played the clown, and Beatrice Agnew, who played Columbine.

Since his return to America, Mr. Barrymore has been living at Greenwich, Conn. He could not be reached last night to verify the report of his engagement for "The Fires of Fate."

MINISTER TALKS TO ACTORS.

Asks Them to Attend Church in Address After Vaudeville Matinee.

The Church came to the theatre yesterday afternoon—came up on the stage in the person of the Rev. Dr. Wilton Merle Smith of the West Fifty-seventh Street Presbyterian Church, and talked to the actors, the stage hands, the ushers, and the manager.

The stage was that of the American Music Hall after the matinee, and the audience was made up of the comedians, the trained dog man, the acrobats, attaches, and even the press agent. The Rev. Warren H. Wilson, who has arranged other theatre services in other cities, had charge of the meeting, and introduced the Rev. Dr. Smith.

Dr. Smith said he felt out of place standing up on an open stage talking to an audience seated carelessly against a background of scenery and properties used by the French pantomimist and the living-picture model. He told of how the churches would welcome the actors if they would only attend, and how glad he was to be able to come to them even if they could not come to him. He made a straightforward, matter-of-fact talk, short enough not to tire his hearers and interesting enough to keep them attentive. When he had finished several of the performers thanked him for coming.

In the little audience grouped on the stage were Maud Odell, Severin and his company, the Brittons, a team of negro dancers, some Japanese acrobats, and George Fuller Golden. The women sweeping up the debris of the afternoon performance stopped in their work to listen to the talk.

Meetings will be held at other theatres, according to the Rev. Mr. Wilson, though it has not been determined whether an attempt will be made to hold a series of services at any one house.

PAYS $1,025 FOR BURNS BOOK.

Poems Chiefly in the Scottish Dialect Goes Back to Scotland.

BOSTON, Nov. 3.—Robert Burns's "Poems Chiefly in the Scottish Dialect," printed by John Wilson at Kilmarnock in 1786, went back to Scotland to-day at the auction sale of the private libraries of the late James Brown, a publisher of Boston. The purchaser was George Clark of Kilmarnock, who paid $1,025 for the volume.

Mr. Clark, who lives in Burns's old neighborhood, landed in this country this week and by accident heard of the valuable book.

Edme Piot, French Senator, Dead.

PARIS, Nov. 3.—Edme Piot, who had been a Senator since 1897 and was known as the Apostle of Repopulation, died today. He was born in 1828. He was made a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor and was also an officer of the French Academy.

TAFT FAILURE IN VIRGINIA.

His Effort to Break the Solid South Brings No Result.

Special to The New York Times.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 3.—Perhaps to no one will the result in Virginia be more disappointing than to President Taft. The first test of his plan to break the solid South was made in the State election, and, despite every possible effort on the part of the Republican State leaders and party campaigners from outside, no appreciable progress has been made. While the Democratic plurality has been reduced to a figure around 25,000, the falling off is proportionate to the reduction in the general vote.

Mr. Taft had good reason to hope that Virginia would respond to his efforts to conciliate Southerners. It was in this State that the Taft Democracy of the South started last year. Prominent men openly supported him, and it seemed as though the movement to eliminate the negro issue and divide on national issues had gained good headway. Mr. Taft asked Congressman Slemp, the Republican leader in the State, to do all he could to push this idea in the present campaign. The Republicans made a strong campaign, but failed to bring about the changes desired by Mr. Taft.

TO OLD LOVERS
READ—
Because Love is Eternal Springtime Mabel Taliaferro is desirous of playing to an audience of lovers whose love has withstood the trials and tribulations of the years. Complying with her wish, the management has withheld from sale 500 orchestra and balcony seats for the next Wednesday matinee performance of Mabel Taliaferro in "Springtime," at the Liberty Theatre, Nov. 10th, which seats will be given free and without reserve to married couples still in love and each past 60 years of age.
Tickets to the number of 500 will be issued on that afternoon at 2 P. M. in the order in which they are applied for, or the reservations will be made if the applicants will write to Mabel Taliaferro, care of the "Springtime" Company, Liberty Theatre, giving a brief outline of their lives and their loves.
At Miss Taliaferro's request these 500 seats positively will not be on sale to our regular matinee patrons.
